BILL ON FIRST READING

LEGISLATIVE BILL 334A. By Warner, 25th District.
This bill introduced on behalf of: LB 334.

A BILL FOR AN ACT to appropriate funds to aid in carrying out the provisions of Legislative Bill 334, Eighty-seventh Legislature, First Session, 1981; and to declare an emergency.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 59
March 20, 1981

Dear Senator Stoney:

You have asked for our opinion in connection with Section 7 of LB 17. You ask whether or not it would be proper for the Legislature to override a previous vote of the people in this matter? Would such a statutory change create a constitutional conflict? We must decline to answer the first question you ask. It is obvious that the first question calls for a resolution of certain policy questions that are appropriately made by the Legislature but are not questions of a legal nature nor questions whose resolution is appropriately referred to our office. In regard to your second question, we have concluded that such a change would not violate any constitutional provision.

Section 7 of LB 17 would adopt a new provision under the Local Option Tax Control Act which would automatically end any limitation placed on budgets pursuant to the Local Option Tax Control Act at the end of two or more fiscal years. We have examined the Constitution of this state in an effort to find any provision which might be violated by this proposed legislation. We can find none. The Local Option Tax Control Act is a statute enacted by the Legislature which establishes certain rights and certain procedures in relationship to the budgets of the local political subdivisions. This amendment simply indicates that once a budget limitation has been imposed pursuant to this Act different than the normal budget limitation applying to local political subdivisions, it shall be operative for two fiscal years.

Thereafter if the voters of that district wish to continue a budget limitation of either greater than that normally authorized by statute or that less than normally authorized by statute, they may readopt such a budget limitation either through the petition drive method or through placing the proposition on the ballot by the action of the governing board of that political subdivision. We can find no provision of the Constitution which would be violated by the Legislature amending a statute to more expansively treat this subject.

As an additional matter we would point out that there is no particular interest inuring in the citizens of a particular political subdivision in maintaining the level of expenditures of that subdivision at any specific dollar amount. Obviously, changing economic circumstances may require greater or less expenditure of public monies to accomplish the purpose of the particular political subdivision. Representative government presumes that those persons elected to govern the political subdivision are charged with making those economic decisions. They are not generally ballot box decisions on an annual basis. That of course is not to say that the voters of political subdivisions have no say with respect to the budget to be adopted by any particular subdivision. Clearly the Legislature has specified those rights under the Local Option Tax Control Act and as provided for in the Constitution under the initiative and referendum provisions except as those items are limited with respect to the ability of the governmental subdivision to fund its requisite operations.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

1. Insert the following new sections:

"Sec. 11. The Legislature recognizes that governing bodies in preparing their budget statements for fiscal year 1980-81 under the Nebraska Budget Act considered numerous factors. Each governing body has a duty to prepare a proposed budget statement which is accurate and workable and in the preparation of such statement must estimate revenue from all sources, other than revenue to be received from taxation. The estimate of revenue from the state may be based on actual prior receipts, information from county and state officials, and other factors. The Legislature finds that the adopted budget statements for 1980-81 were prepared without reliance on anticipated revenue from Laws 1980, LB 882, as such bill was subject to constitutional challenge.

Sec. 12. No distribution shall be made under this act to any political subdivision which would result in such political subdivision receiving (1) more than one hundred fifty per cent or (2) less than eighty per cent of the amount such political subdivision included in its adopted budget statement as estimated revenue from the state. For purposes of this section the figures included in the political subdivision's adopted budget statement and filed with the auditor as provided in section 23-927 shall be used. For purposes of this section adopted budget statement, governing body, and auditor shall have the same meaning as provided in section 23-922.".

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. DeCamp asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 245 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

1. Insert the following new section:

"Section 1. (1) The Legislature recognizes the need for a Regional College of Veterinary Medicine in the State of Nebraska and the importance of providing expanded veterinary medical education and services to the citizens of this state. The Legislature by passing sections 85-180.01 to 85-180.06 in 1979 and introducing this act has shown its commitment to building such college. The Legislature recognizes the great cost of constructing a Regional College of Veterinary Medicine and has found that if federal funds are not provided the construction will not be possible. The most expedient way of constructing such college would be the timely commitment of federal funds. The Legislature finds that this act will only become operative if the Nebraska Congressional delegation accepts the responsibility of insuring that Nebraska receives the federal funds it needs for construction of such college.

(2) No state appropriations shall be obligated nor shall any bonds be authorized under this act for the construction of a Regional College of Veterinary Medicine unless by March 1, 1982, the Board of Regents has certified to the Legislature and the Governor that an estimated thirteen million, three hundred eighty-one thousand, seven hundred ninety-four dollars of federal funds have been appropriated to aid in constructing such college.

(3) If by March 1, 1982, the Board of Regents has not made the certification specified in subsection (2) of this section the state funds appropriated pursuant to this act shall be utilized for construction of a livestock center to replace the old horse and beef barns on the east campus and an animal science classroom-office building. Such facilities shall be constructed for the purpose of upgrading the animal science facilities of the university and shall be a part of the animal science complex.".

2. Renumber remaining sections accordingly.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. DeCamp asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 284 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

Req. No. 2241
The proposal here is for termination in 1982 but an amendment will be offered to go to 1983 - one more year.

(Amendments printed separately from the Journal and on file in the Clerk's Office - Req. No. 2241.)

Mr. DeCamp asked unanimous consent to print the following explanation to LB 284 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

EXPLANATION OF SCHMIT AMENDMENT TO L.B. 284
(Req. 2241)

These amendments combine those found in the Journal on page 1026 (Req 2118) and on page 1134 (Req 2227) and correct the dollar amounts to be consistent with the amendment. The amendments to LB 284 address two separate problems. The first problem is to provide a means of distributing the $70,000,000 and $2,500,000 interest for fiscal year 1980-81 and distributing $70,000,000 for fiscal year 1981-82; and the second problem is to consolidate selected tax programs for the purpose of distributing state General Funds on a basis of revenue sharing to reduce the burden of property taxes.

DISTRIBUTION OF $70,000,000 PLUS INTEREST

Sections 1 to 6 of this amendment distribute $72,500,000 for fiscal year 1980-81 and $70,000,000 for fiscal year 1981-82 in the following manner:

(1) For fiscal year 1980-81, $39,353,600, and for fiscal year 1981-82, $37,977,600, is distributed on the actual value of agricultural real estate within the state as determined from the County Abstract of Assessment;

(2) For fiscal year 1980-81, $32,146,400, and for fiscal year 1981-82, $31,022,400, is distributed on the actual value of commercial-industrial real estate within the state as determined from the County Abstract of Assessment; and

(3) For fiscal years 1980-81 and 1981-82, $1,000,000 is distributed on the actual value of suburban-residential real estate within the state as determined from the County Abstract of Assessment.

The actual value of agricultural, commercial-industrial, and suburban-residential real estate is computed from the most recent County Abstract of Assessment Form by combining specific real estate categories for each of the distribution factors. Section 2 of the amendment details the computation for each distribution factors. A copy of the 1980 County Abstract of Assessment is attached (page 4) to provide additional information for the computation of the distribution factors.

The distribution of the $72,500,000 for 1980-81 and the $70,000,000 for 1981-82 into each of the three categories is based upon a three year average of the actual tax loss reported to the Department of Revenue for 1975, 1976, and 1977. The tax loss table (page 3) shows a relatively stable relationship between the exempted personal property that is related to agriculture and the exempted personal property that is related to business. Suburban-residential real estate is included in the distribution factors because there is business and agricultural inventories and properties located on suburban-residential property, therefore, $1,000,000 is included in the distribution.

The basis of this distribution proposal is related to the logical relationship between real property and the existence of personal property in the form of inventories, income-producing machinery, and other properties such as feed, seed, fertilizer, livestock and other animals. Business inventories exist where commercial and industrial real estate is located. Agricultural income-producing machinery, feed, seed, fertilizer, and animals are located on the farm, thus located on agricultural real estate. Business inventory is not located on the farm, nor is farm machinery located on business property. Thus, it is logical to distribute the $70,000,000 plus this year's interest on a basis of real property which is factored into three separate categories.

DISTRIBUTION OF LOCAL REVENUE SHARING AND PROPERTY TAX RELIEF FUND

Sections 7 to 16 provide for a new fund and a new basis of distributing state General Funds for the explicit purpose of providing property tax relief. The concept is revenue sharing, not tax loss replacement. The revenue sharing would become operational July 1, 1982. The general provisions of the revenue sharing proposal are specifically outlined in the amendment, however, the amounts of money to be distributed are shown in hundreds of dollars, rather than in millions.

The concept and specific areas to be included in this proposal are as follows:

(1) General areas for revenue sharing

(A) Schools	$155.00
(B) Counties	55.00
(C) Cities	90.00

(2) Additional changes to compliment the proposal
- (A) State would pay an additional portion of the Medicaid program
- (B) Governmental Subdivision Fund would be repealed
- (C) Local Option Sales Tax would be repealed
- (D) Homestead Exemption distribution would be changed

(3) The Legislature's Committee on Revenue and Taxation would study and examine the revenue sharing concept found in sections 7 to 16 and determine the manner and amount of money necessary to implement a revenue sharing concept which will provide property tax relief, operational July 1, 1982.

DISTRIBUTION OF THE $70,000,000
The tables beginning on page 5 show the impact of the different proposals if each were used to distribute the $70,000,000. The additional distribution of the interest which is estimated to be $2,500,000 would be in addition to the figures shown.

Such special examiner may be appointed without regard to the qualifications hereinbefore set forth and shall have all the powers and perform all the duties of a salaried examiner. After the hearing the special examiner shall make a report of the tribunal's findings with recommendations in writing to the commissioner; which recommendations when approved by the commissioner shall become binding as to the disputed claim only. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

March 30, 1981

Dear Senator Marsh:

This is in response to your letter of March 26, 1981, in which you ask our opinion concerning the validity of a present interpretation and application of the state sales and use tax laws, Neb.Rev.Stat. Sections 77-2702 through 77-2713 (Reissue 1976). Specifically you are concerned with the interpretation and application of that law, and a possible amendment to change that interpretation, which applies to the situation where two private individuals exchange automobiles and are in turn liable for sales tax on the entire amounts of their respective transactions without consideration for any "trade-in allowances."

This interpretation of the sales tax law is presently found in Nebraska Department of Revenue Regulation 1-29, enacted September 15, 1975, and limits the application of a trade-in allowance to transactions involving the receipt of such property by actual retailers involved in the business of selling such property, as opposed to exchanges of property between private individuals. This regulation is in turn based on Neb.Rev.Stat. Sections 77-2702(4)(c) (v) and 77-2702(15) (b) (v) (Reissue 1976), which define or provide that a trade-in allowance shall be "the value of tangible personal property taken by a seller in trade as all or part of the consideration for a sale of tangible personal property of any kind or nature." The definition of a seller is found in Neb.Rev. Stat. Sections 77-2702(16) (Reissue 1976), and is defined to include only individuals involved in the "business of selling, leasing, or renting tangible personal property." A strict interpretation of these statutes thus limits the application of the trade-in allowance to transactions involving actual retail sellers of tangible property, and excludes the sale of property between private individuals.

Transactions between private individuals are normally excluded from the application of the sales tax laws, except that the sale of an automobile by a private individual has specifically been included as a taxable transaction by Neb.Rev.Stat. Sections 77-2702(6) (a) (Reissue 1976). Neb.Rev.Stat. Section 77-2703(l) (j) (Reissue 1976), which provides for a sales tax on the sale of motor vehicles, makes no specific provision for the application of a trade-in allowance on sales between private individuals, and hence a strict application of all of the aforementioned statutes limits the application of the trade-in allowance to automobile sales involving an actual retailer. In this regard the Department's present interpretation and application of the sales and use tax laws is not inappropriate. Part of the underlying rational appears to be that the sales tax will eventually be collected on property taken as a trade-in and later resold by a dealer, which is not the case with an exchange of automobiles between private individuals.

This interpretation and application of the sales and use tax laws has been in effect with the Department of Revenue since January 1, 1971, when the first version of the Department's sales and use tax regulations were published. During this period of approximately ten years, the Legislature has made no attempt to change this administrative interpretation through subsequent legislation. Administrative construction of a statute by the department charged with its enforcement, especially if it has long been adhered to, is entitled to great weight in the judicial appraisal of the statute's meaning in Nebraska. This is especially true in instances where such construction has been left undisturbed through several successive legislative sessions. Mogis v. Lyman-Richey Sand and Gravel Corp., 189 F. 2d 130 (Neb. 1951).

It is thus our opinion that the present interpretation and application of the sales and use tax laws, as it concerns the exchange of automobiles between private individuals, is valid. It would therefore likely require a substantive legislative amendment to the existing sales and use tax laws, as you have indicated you wish to do, to alter the present administrative interpretation and application of these laws.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 62
March 31, 1981

Dear Senator Carsten:

With your letter of March 27, 1981, you submitted a copy of amendments to LB 284, and asked our opinion as to the constitutionality of the first five sections of the bill, as amended. In view of the fact that your request came in Friday afternoon, and you want our reply by Tuesday, we have been unable to do the research we would like to have done on this complex bill, and can give you only our general impressions. An answer is made more difficult by the fact that section 18 of the bill, as amended, provides that the provisions of the bill are nonseverable, and that if any portion of the bill is held invalid, the entire bill is void.

Sections 1 through 5 of the bill provide for the distribution to the taxing agencies of the state of state funds to replace revenue lost by such agencies because of the exemptions granted by Neb.Rev.Stat. Section 77-202 (Supp. 1980), subsections (6), (7), (8), and (9). A similar attempt to replace such losses was held invalid in State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598 (1980) as creating frozen classes, and as providing for unreasonable classification. The question is whether sections 1 through 5 of LB 284 correct such deficiencies.

Section 2 of the bill provides for the distribution to the taxing agencies of $72,500,000 in fiscal year 1980-81, and $70,000,000 in fiscal year 1981-82. These sums are to be distributed by the state to the counties, and then distributed by the counties to the taxing agencies within the counties. We will discuss first the distributions to the counties.

What the act does is distribute to the counties in 1980-81 $39,353,600 based on each county's assessed valuation of agricultural real estate, $32,146,400 based on its assessed valuation of commercial- industrial real estate, and $1,000,000 based on its assessed valuation of suburban-residential real estate. In 1981-82 the figures are $37,977,600 based on agricultural real estate, $31,022,400 based on commercial-industrial real estate, and $1,000,000 based on suburban-residential real estate.

At first glance these figures may appear totally arbitrary, but on analysis it becomes clear that what has been done is to assign $1,000,000 each of the two years involved to suburban-residential property, and then divide the balances of $71,500,000 and $69,000,000 between agricultural and commercial-industrial real estate on the basis of agricultural getting 55.04 per cent of such balances, and commercial - industrial getting 44.96 per cent.

The material attached to your request letter shows where these percentage figures come from. The exemption now found in Section 77-202, subsections 6, 7, 8, and 9, and formerly found in Section 77-202.25, et seq., before their repeal in 1980, deal with various classes of agriculturally related personal property, and with business inventory, which is related to commercial-industrial businesses.

The three year average for the years 1975 through 1977 show that in those years the total agriculturally-related exemption losses amounted to 55.04 per cent, and the business inventory exemption losses 44.96 per cent of the total exemption losses claimed under the above statutory provisions. As we understand it, it is felt that a small percentage of the exemptions were claimed by persons owning neither agricultural nor commercial industrial property, who operated out of their own homes. For this reason, the bill allocates $1,000,000 each of the two years on the basis of the assessed valuation of residential property.

The balance is to be allocated on the basis of the three-year average. The rationale is that there should be a rough correlation between the amount of agricultural real estate in a county and the agriculturally-related exemptions claimed in that county, and the same correlation between commercial industrial real estate and business inventories. We are not prepared to say that that premise is wholly irrational.

Another necessary premise is that the ratio between agricultural exemptions and business inventory exemptions remains relatively constant from year to year. The figures presented tend to support that premise. The highest percentage for agriculture exemptions in that three year period was 56.5 per cent, and the lowest was 53.6 per cent. The three year average of 55.04 per cent seems reasonably accurate, in view of the fact that it is no longer possible to get current figures.

The sums appropriated for the two years in question, then, are to be divided by allocating $1,000,000 to residential property, and the balance on the basis of the three year averages. The residential percentage is assumed to be nominal, and a nominal amount is allocated to it.

Legislative classification is not required to be exact. In Elliott v. Ehrlich, 203 Neb. 790, 280 N.W.2d 637 (1979), the court quoted the following language from Dandridge v. Williams, 397 U.S. 471 (1970):

> "In the area of economics and social welfare, a State does not violate the Equal Protection Clause merely because the classifications made by its laws are imperfect. If the classification has some 'reasonable basis,' it does not offend the Constitution simply because the classification 'is not made with mathematical nicety or because in practice it results in some inequality.' * * * 'A statutory discrimination will not be set aside if any state of facts reasonably may be conceived to justify it.' "

There is the question of frozen classification, since the percentages are based upon 1975 to 1977 data. If this were to be a continuing program, we might question whether the percentages thus established could be used for all time, since changing economic conditions might change the relationship between the two classes of exemptions. However, since the appropriations are to be made only for the years 1980-81 and 1981-82, we believe the court would hold that the Legislature could reasonably find that there has not been enough change between the years used and the present to invalidate the percentages.

We believe there is a problem with respect to the last sentence of section 2 of the bill, which provides that for fiscal year 1980-81 funds shall be distributed on the basis of the County Abstract of Assessment Form 45, and for fiscal year 1981-82 they shall be distributed on the basis of that form as equalized by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

That form is the form used by the county to certify its values to the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. Section 77-1514 (Reissue 1976). The State Board, of course, is authorized to change those values, and the values, as changed, are those used by the county in levying taxes. For some inexplicable reason, the provision in question seems to require that for one year any changes made by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment shall be ignored, and values which were not actually used in the taxation process shall be used in calculating a county's share of the fund. This seems palpably arbitrary and capricious.

A possibly troublesome problem comes up with respect to the distributions within the county. The distributions to the counties are made on the basis of assessed valuation of real estate. The distributions within the county are made on an entirely unrelated basis, the amount of property tax levied by each taxing agency within the county. Of course, the amount of tax levied is dependent entirely upon the budget of the agency, and not upon the amount of taxable property in the area covered by the taxing agency. An argument might be made that this is arbitrary. A similar provision was found in LB 882, the bill which was invalidated in State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, but this particular provision was not attacked or discussed by the court.

In the same vein, it could be argued that the tax loss due to exemptions is largely a function of the size of the mill levies, which may be unrelated to the value of real estate in the county.

Given the broad discretion vested in the Legislature in establishing classification, we believe a reasonable defense could be made against such an attack. Certainly the distributions to the counties will not result in exact replacement for tax lost because of the exemptions, and arguably, counties may not all receive the same proportions of such losses. The same can, no doubt, be said of the distributions to the taxing agencies within the counties. Nevertheless, we believe a tenable argument can be made that the formula is not wholly arbitrary and capricious, and that the Legislature was using the best criteria available.

We must, however, point out that in State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh the court held that increases in taxes levied were not a reasonable basis for distributing a part of the funds involved therein. The court pointed out that that system rewarded a county for increasing its mill levy and penalized it for decreasing it, and the court held this to be arbitrary and capricious. It can certainly be argued that distributing money within the county on the basis of taxes levied by the taxing agencies has the same effect.

As you can see, there are numerous difficult questions raised by the bill, and we cannot predict with any assurance what the court will say when confronted with them. However, if the last sentence of section 2 is corrected, we believe we would attempt to defend the validity of the first five sections of the bill.

We have not had time to reach any conclusion about the balance of the bill, and, in view of the nonseverability clause of section 18, any invalidity found in other sections would automatically invalidate the first five sections as well.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 63
March 30, 1981

Re: Constitutionality of LB 243

Dear Senator Haberman:

We are responding to your request that we review the constitutionality of LB 243, and specifically address the question of whether Section 2 of that bill violates the provisions of Article I, Section 16 of the Nebraska Constitution.

Proposed LB 243 is an act to amend Neb.Rev.Stat. Section 2-3234 (Reissue 1977) relating to Natural Resource Districts by restricting their power of eminent domain. Neb.Rev.Stat. Section 2-3234 (Reissue 1977) grants eminent domain to Natural Resource Districts when necessary to carry out their purposes. LB 243 would restrict the power of eminent domain to prevent its use "to acquire property for a project of which 50 percent or more of the benefits are recreational." Section 2 of LB 243 reads as follows: "The restriction on the use of eminent domain provided in subsection (2) of section 2-3234 shall apply to all proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." The question to be determined is whether Section 2 of LB 243 is an ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts violating Article I, Section 16 of the Nebraska Constitution.

It has long been recognized in this state that a statute may not operate retroactively where it would impair the obligation of a contract or interfere with a vested right. State ex rel. Douglas v. Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, 204 Neb. 445, 464, 283 N.W.2d 12 (1979). A statute will not be applied retroactively, even where such legislative intent is clear, where the effect would be to impair vested rights or contracts. Mooney v. Drainage District No. 1 of Richardson County, 134 Neb. 192, 278 N.W. 368 (1938); Karer v. Karer, 190 Neb. 610, 211 N.W.2d 116 (1973). Where its effect would be unconstitutional, its application would be limited to be prospective.

However, vested rights and obligations held by the state may be treated differently than rights held by private persons. In Mooney v. Drainage District No. 1 of Richardson County, supra, our court stated:

> The state by an amendatory or repealing legislative act, operating retroactively . . . may release penalties imposed by the protection or benefit of the state under a former statute. By the same method the state may abandon its own claims and rights, if not forbidden by the Constitution. But private property rights acquired under statutes and established by valid judgments of courts are not subject to legislative invasion by means of new statutes.

Id. at 134 Neb. 199.

It has been recognized by our Supreme Court in Ritter v. Drainage District No. 1 of Otoe and Johnson Counties, 137 Neb. 866, 291 N.W. 718 (1940), that a legislative act and the proceedings thereunder may lead to and create contracts between the state and individuals or corporations which will therefore become protected pursuant to Article I, Section 16. In this case, the court found that the act, the proceedings thereunder, and the payments by the landowners for drainage created contracts protected under the Constitution. Id. at 870.

Proposed LB 243 restricts use of eminent domain to "acquire property," and seeks to apply to "all proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." Acquisition of property is essentially accomplished when the Petition for Condemnation is filed in the county court. Chaloupka v. State Department of Roads, 176 Neb. 746, 127 N.W.2d 291, 297 (1964). The right of the condemner to the property has been determined by the act of filing the Petition, and the only issue remaining is the compensation of the condemnee for the damages he has suffered. The only exception is challenge by the condemnee's Answer to the Petition of the condemner's right to take this property. If such a challenge is made, then the right of acquisition is not determined until after a final judgment to which no appeal is taken. Krauter v. Lower Big Blue Natural ResourceDistrict, 199 Neb. 431, 259 N.W.2d 472 (1977). In the ordinary case described first above, the final adjudication of the propriety of the taking by eminent domain has been accomplished by the filing of the Petition in county court. However, where the condemnee challenges the authority for condemnation of his property, this is not complete until the litigation finally terminates without further appeal.

In conclusion, we do not know whether any contracts or other vested interests have been created for private persons in "proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." The act could extinguish vested rights and obligations which exist benefiting the state or its political subdivisions. Should the act affect private vested rights and contracts, it would not be declared unconstitutional, but only applied prospectively. The act is therefore valid.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

It shall be the duty of the county assessor of each county in this state to furnish such forms, upon request, to each person desiring to make application for homestead exemption on property located within that county. The forms so prescribed shall be used uniformly throughout the state and no application for exemption shall be allowed unless the applicant uses the regularly prescribed form in making an application.

~~(2) It shall be the duty of each claimant who wants the homestead exemption provided in subdivision (1) of section 77-3508 to file an application therefor with the county assessor on or before June 15, 1980, and on or before April 1 of each year thereafter, and failure to do so shall constitute a waiver of the exemption for such year.~~

Sec. 5. That section 77-3516, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

77-3516. The county assessor shall examine each application for homestead exemption filed with him or her for an exemption pursuant to section 77-3506~~, 77-3508,~~ or 77-3509 and shall determine whether or not such application should be approved or rejected and, if approved, determine the amount of the exemption. If the application is approved, the county assessor shall mark the same approved and show thereon the amount of exemption allowed and make the proper deduction upon the assessment rolls. In case he or she finds that the exemption should not be allowed by reason of not being in conformity to law, the county assessor shall mark the application rejected and state thereon the reason for such rejection. In any case when the county assessor disallows or reduces an application for exemption, he or she shall notify the applicant of such action by mailing written notice to the applicant at the address shown in the application, which notice shall be mailed not later than the second Monday in July for 1980, and not later than the fourth Monday in April of each year thereafter and shall be on forms prescribed by the Tax Commissioner. All applications for exemption, showing thereon the action of the county assessor, shall be delivered to the county board of equalization on or before the second Monday in July for 1980, and not later than the fourth Monday of April of each year thereafter.

Sec. 6. That section 77-3517, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

77-3517. The county assessor shall examine all applications for an exemption pursuant to ~~section~~ sections 77-3507 and 77-3508 to determine, except for the income test, if the application should be approved or rejected. On or before the first Monday in July, 1980, and on or before the third Monday in April of each year thereafter the county assessor shall forward the application to the Tax Commissioner who shall determine from the records of the Department of Revenue whether or not the applicant meets the required income standards. The Tax Commissioner shall, on or before August 15, certify his or her determinations to the county assessor. If the county assessor's and Tax Commissioner's determination is that the application should be accepted, then the county assessor shall process the application in the same manner as an approved application under section 77-3516. If the Tax Commissioner's determination is that the application does not meet the required income test or if the county assessor finds that the exemption should not be allowed or should be reduced, the county assessor shall proceed as in the case of a rejected or reduced application under section 77-2516.

Sec. 7. That section 77-3522, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, be amended to read as follows:

77-3522. (1) Any person who makes any false or fraudulent claim for exemption, or any false statement or false representation of a material fact in support of such claim, or any person who assists another in the preparation of any such false or fraudulent claim, or enters into any collusion with another by the execution of a fictitious deed or other instrument for the purpose of obtaining unlawful exemption under the provisions of sections 77-3501 to 77-3523, shall be guilty of a Class II misdemeanor and shall be subject to a forfeiture of any such exemption for a period of two years from date of conviction. Any person who shall make oath to any false or fraudulent application for homestead exemption, knowing the same to be false or fraudulent, shall be guilty of a Class I misdemeanor.

(2) In addition to the penalty provided in subsection (1) of this section, if any person files a claim for exemption as provided in section 77-3507 or 77-3508 which is excessive due to misstatements by the owner filing such claim, the claim may be disallowed in full, and, if the claim has been allowed, an amount equal to the amount of taxes lawfully due but not paid by reason of such unlawful and improper allowance of homestead exemption shall be due and shall, upon entry of the amount thereof on the books of the county treasurer, be a lien on such property until paid and a penalty equal to the amount of taxes lawfully due but claimed for exemption shall be assessed.

Sec. 8. That original sections 77-3505, 77-3508, 77-3510, 77-3513, 77-3516, 77-3517, and 77-3522, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, are repealed.".

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 64
April 1, 1981

Dear Senator Koch:

You have requested the opinion of this office regarding a proposed amendment to Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-1619 (Reissue 1976), set forth in Section 12 of LB 179. Section 12 would require the governing body of any political subdivision of this state to pay any judgment recovered against any officer or employee of such political subdivision if he or she " . . . acted reasonably and in good faith performance of his or her public duty or official capacity . . ."

Your inquiry refers to a recent opinion of this office, No. 30, regarding LB 120, wherein we essentially concluded that a successful plaintiff in a mandamus action could recover attorney fees from a defendant public official and that we were aware of no formal policies for reimbursement to such officials by the State of Nebraska, nor could we respond definitively regarding possible policies of political subdivisions. You have inquired: "Does this amendment provide adequate policy to reimburse the personal defendant?"

Initially, we note that, by its terms, Section 12 only applies to the payment of judgments recovered against officials and employees of political subdivisions, as distinguished from officials and employees of the state itself. The term, political subdivision, generally contemplates an entity with fixed geographical area and boundaries, public elections, taxing power and a general purpose or benefit. Catania v. University of Nebraska, 204 Neb. 304, 308, 287 N.W.2d 27 (1979). The term, political subdivision, does not generally encompass state agencies, departments or boards which act as direct instrumentalities of the state and which are in essence "alter egos of the state itself." Id, 204 Neb. at 309.

The Nebraska Supreme Court has held that an award of costs and attorney fees is part of the judgment. Muss v. Mahloch Farms Co., 187 Neb. 151, 181 N.W.2d 258 (1970). Therefore, an award of attorney fees against a defendant official in a mandamus action would be part of the judgment recovered by the plaintiff and thus, under Section 12 of LB 179, the political subdivision would be responsible for the payment of such fees.

However, by its terms, Section 12 of LB 179 would not require a political subdivision to pay a judgment recovered against an officer or employee who did not act ". . . reasonably and in good faith in the performance of his or her public duty or official capacity . . . ." This exception would not necessarily exclude judgments recovered against officials or employees in a mandamus action, as the reasonableness or good faith of the official is not at issue in such actions. To successfully obtain a writ of mandamus, essentially the plaintiff needs to prove that the official or employee had a clear duty established by law to perform a ministerial act. State ex rel. Krieger v. Board of Supervisors of Clay County, 171 Neb. 117, 105 N.W.2d 721 (1960). Whether an official or employee acted reasonably and in good faith is a question of fact to be determined under Section 12 of LB 179, at least in the first instance, by the governing body of the political subdivision.

In summary, in our opinion, Section 12 of LB 179 does establish a policy for reimbursement of the official or employee defendant by the political subdivision (or more precisely, payment by the political subdivision in lieu of the individual officer or employee), if a judgment, including an award of attorney fees obtained in a mandamus action, unless the official or employee has acted unreasonably and in bad faith.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 65

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

This is in response to your letter of March 30, 1981, regarding the possible introduction of legislation which would provide that the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission (NEOC) could award attorneys' fees in employment discrimination cases.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1119(3) (Reissue 1978) presently states that if the NEOC finds that a person, employer, labor organization or employment agency:

> has intentionally engaged in or is intentionally engaging in any unlawful employment practice, it shall issue and cause to be served on such respondent an order requiring such respondent to cease and desist from such unlawful employment practice and order such other affirmative action as may be appropriate, which may include reinstatement or hiring of employees, with or without back pay.

It has been the opinion of this office that this language does not permit the NEOC to award costs for attorneys' fees as part of the appropriate relief. (OAG 123, August 15, 1977). The Nebraska Legislature, in 1977, rejected an amendment which would have permitted the awarding of "cost of the public hearing and reasonable costs for attorneys' fees." (LB 161) The judiciary committee "didn't feel that the Commission should have the power to set up attorney fees." (March 31, 1977 floor debate - p.02313).

It is our opinion that it would not be improper to amend the statute to include a provision for attorneys' fees. The current procedure for hearings in employment discrimination cases is as follows. If the NEOC determines that there is reasonable cause to believe that employment discrimination has taken place (Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1118 (Supp. 1980) and any informal attempts at conciliation have failed (Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1119(1) (Reissue 1978), the Commission may order a public hearing. At the hearing the parties are the aggrieved complainant and the respondent who allegedly committed the discriminatory act. The hearing is before a hearing examiner appointed by the NEOC (Fair Employment Practice Act rule 3-(2)(a)). After the hearing is complete, the examiner submits a recommended order and decision to the Commission (rule 3(8)). The Commission, after reviewing the record of the hearing and the recommended order, makes a final order and decision (rule 4(1)). The aggrieved party may appeal to district court (Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1120(1) (Reissue 1978)); the court may in its discretion award reasonable attorneys' fees to the prevailing party as part of the costs (Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1120(6) (Reissue 1978)).

The NEOC is not a party to the public hearings. It would not be subject to costs or the payment of attorneys' fees. It is our view that Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution, which states, "The credit of the state shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association, or corporation, . . ." is not involved. Public monies are not given in aid of either of the parties before the Commission.

Neither the NEOC nor the Attorney General represent the complainant at the hearing. The language in Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1116 (Reissue 1978) states that the Attorney General shall represent the Commission and aid in investigations or hearings; it does not refer to individual parties before the Commission.

Another point to be considered is that the language of the 1977 bill would have provided that the Commission could award costs or attorneys' fees to the successful party who could be either the complainant, or, if no discrimination was shown, the respondent. Furthermore, such payments would have been discretionary by the Commission. The language of Neb.Rev.Stat. §48-1119(3) (Reissue 1978) as it is now written only permits affirmative relief to successful complainants.

In conclusion, we are of the opinion that the Fair Employment Practice Act as it currently stands does not permit the NEOC to award costs or attorneys' fees to successful parties before it and that the Nebraska Constitution does not prohibit such costs from being awarded because they would be paid by the unsuccessful party. Any proposed bill should make clear whether attorneys' fees could be borne by unsuccessful complainants as well as respondents and whether the award of such costs would be discretionary by the NEOC.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 66
April 3, 1981

Dear Senator Landis:

This is in reply to your recent letter concerning LB 327, now pending in the Legislature.

According to your later call, you have withdrawn your first question because you plan to remove the reference to bankruptcy in your amendment to said bill.

In regard to your second question as to whether or not LB 327 would endanger the waiver of federal bankruptcy exemptions accomplished by LB 940 in 1980, it would have no effect. Section 1 of said LB 940 specifically provides that, "The federal exemptions provided in 11 U.S.C. 522, subsection (d), are hereby rejected by the State of Nebraska. The State of Nebraska elects to retain the personal exemptions provided under Nebraska statutes and the Nebraska Constitution . . ."

Subsection (d) of 11 U.S.C. §522, referred to in the above quote, lists the exemptions allowed under (b) (1) of said section of the Bankruptcy Act.

Subsection (b) (1) provides in pertinent part that a bankruptcy debtor may exempt property that is specified under subsection (d), above referred to, unless the state law where the debtor has had his domicile, as defined, specifically does not so authorize.

The beginning of section 1 of LB 940 fulfills this latter requirement by specifically rejecting the exemptions under said subsection (d).

Subsection (d) (2) (A) of the same section of the Bankruptcy Act then provides that, in the alternative, a debtor may exempt any property that is exempt under the state law of the domicile of the debtor as defined in said section.

Therefore, since the state has specifically rejected the provisions of said subsection (d) of 11 U.S.C. §522 and has made provisions under state law, we are of the opinion that LB 327 does not endanger the accomplishments of LB 940 of 1980.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

LEGISLATIVE BILL 213. Placed on General File as amended. Standing Committee amendments to LB 213:
Req. #2279

1. Strike original sections 2 through 6 and insert the following new sections:

''Sec. 2. That section 29-2203, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

29-2203. Any person prosecuted for an offense may plead that he or she is not ~~guilty~~ responsible by reason of insanity ~~or mental derangement~~ at the time of the offense. ~~No evidence offered by the defendant for the purpose of establishing his insanity or mental derangement shall be admitted in the trial of the case unless notice thereof shall have been given by the defendant as provided in this section.~~

At the time of defendant's arraignment, or not later than ~~ten~~ thirty days before trial, defendant shall notify the county attorney of his or her intention to rely upon the defense of insanity ~~or mental derangement~~ as one of his or her defenses and file such notice. No evidence offered by the defendant for the purpose of establishing his or her insanity shall be admitted in the trial of the case unless the notice required by this section has been given by the defendant. Upon the filing of the notice the court, on motion of the state and good cause shown, may cause the defendant to be examined by one or more disinterested, qualified experts, ~~not exceeding three,~~ appointed by the court, at a time and place designated in the order, to inquire into the sanity or insanity of the defendant at the time of the commission of the alleged offense or offenses. The court may order that the examination be conducted at one of the regional centers. The presence of counsel at the examination shall be within the discretion of the court. The results of such examinations shall be filed with the court ~~and~~ with copies ~~given to the state and to the defendant~~ furnished the prosecuting attorney. In misdemeanor or felony cases, the defendant may request the court to order the prosecuting attorney to permit the defendant to inspect and copy the results of such examinations pursuant to the procedures set forth in sections 29-1912 to 29-1921. In the interest of justice and good cause shown the court may waive the notice requirements provided in this section.

~~When the defense is insanity of the defendant, the jury must be instructed, if it acquits him on that ground, to state the fact in its verdict. If the defendant is found not guilty by reason of insanity, the court shall forthwith (1) commit defendant to the care and custody of the Director of Medical Services for a period not to exceed thirty days, and (2) certify the verdict to the mental health board of the county and order that board to determine whether the person so acquitted is a mentally ill dangerous person and a fit subject for custody and treatment in a hospital. The certificate and order shall be considered by the mental health board as a petition for admission as provided in section 83-1025.~~ If the trier of fact acquits the defendant on the grounds of insanity, it shall state whether it acquits him or her on that ground alone or on other grounds as well. Where the defendant is acquitted solely on the ground of insanity, the court shall retain jurisdiction over the defendant for disposition consistent with the terms of this section and sections 3 to 6 of this act.

Sec. 3. (1) Following receipt of a verdict of acquittal on grounds of insanity, the court shall forthwith conduct a hearing to determine whether and under what conditions of confinement the acquitted person should be committed to one of the regional centers for a period not to exceed sixty days for an evaluation of the person's mental condition and for the preparation of a treatment plan pursuant to subsection (4) of this section. Where the court commits the person for evaluation, the court shall specify all conditions of the person's confinement during the evaluation including, but not limited to, all circumstances under which the defendant may leave a locked facility at the regional center.

(2) The superintendent of the regional center to which the person has been committed for evaluation shall be responsible for supervising the evaluation and the preparation of an individualized treatment plan.

(3) The evaluation shall include a determination of whether the person is dangerous to himself, herself, or others by reason of mental illness or defect, or will be so dangerous in the reasonable future.

(4) The individualized treatment plan shall contain a statement of the nature of the specific mental and physical problems and needs of the person, a statement of the least restrictive treatment conditions necessary to achieve the purposes of the plan, a statement of the least restrictive treatment conditions consistent with the protection of the public, and a description of intermediate and long-range treatment goals and a projected timetable for their attainment.

(5) Such evaluation and treatment plan shall include the facts upon which conclusions stated therein are based and shall be filed with the court at least ten days prior to the expiration of the sixty-day evaluation period. Copies of the evaluation and treatment plan shall be furnished to the county attorney and to the person.

(6) If the person desires a separate evaluation, he or she may file a motion with the court requesting an additional evaluation by one or more qualified experts of his or her choice. Such evaluation shall be at the person's expense unless otherwise ordered by the court. Any person evaluating the defendant pursuant to this subsection shall have access to the person's records at his or her place of commitment. The court may extend the person's commitment for an additional period not to exceed sixty days, if necessary to permit completion of the requested evaluation. The evaluation shall include the facts upon which conclusions stated therein are based and shall be filed with the court at least ten days prior to the expiration of the additional sixty-day evaluation period. A copy of such evaluation shall be furnished the prosecuting attorney.

Sec. 4. Upon completion of the evaluation provided for in section 29-2203, the court shall conduct an evidentiary hearing regarding the condition of the person, at which time a representative of the institution where he or she was evaluated shall testify as to the results of the evaluation and the contents of the treatment plan. If the court determines that there is clear and convincing evidence that the person is dangerous to himself, herself, or others by reason of mental illness or defect, or will be so dangerous in the reasonable future, the court shall commit the person for treatment to one of the regional centers until such time as the court determines that there is no longer clear and convincing evidence that he or she is so dangerous. In committing the person the court shall review the treatment plan and shall specify the conditions of confinement regarding his or her freedom of movement outside locked facilities at the regional center, including whether or not the regional center may grant him or her leave into the community for any period of time, however short. Personnel at the regional center shall obey the court-ordered conditions, and any person who fails to do so shall upon conviction be subject to the full contempt powers of the court.

Sec. 5. (1) The court which tried a person who is found not responsible by reason of insanity shall annually and may upon motion of the person, the prosecuting attorney, or the superintendent of the regional center having custody of him or her review the records of such person and conduct an evidentiary hearing on the status of the person.

(2) Prior to any such review and hearing, the regional center shall prepare and provide to the court all data, including test results, which are relevant to the issue of whether the defendant continues to be dangerous to himself, herself, or others by reasons of mental illness or defect, or will be so dangerous in the reasonable future, and to the treatment plan. The court, before making a final determination, may request from the appropriate regional center any additional information or evaluation it deems necessary.

(3) If following the hearing the court finds that such person is no longer dangerous to himself, herself, or others by reason of mental illness or defect, and will not be so dangerous in the reasonable future, the court shall order such person unconditionally released from further confinement. If the court does not so find, the court shall order such person returned to the care and custody of the Director of Medical Services under an appropriate treatment plan and conditions of confinement.

The court may place the person in a less restrictive setting only if it finds that such placement is consistent with the safety of the public.

Sec. 6. Each proceeding to determine whether the person is dangerous to himself, herself, or others by reason of mental illness or defect and the treatment plan to be used shall be deemed equivalent to a critical stage of a criminal prosecution at which the person shall be accorded all the rights a defendant has in sentencing proceedings. The court's decision may be appealed.

Sec. 7. If any section in this act or any part of any section shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining portions thereof.

Sec. 9. Since an emergency exists, this act shall be in full force and take effect, from and after its passage and approval, according to law.".

2. Renumber original section 7 as section 8.

CORRECTED STANDING COMMITTEE REPORT
Nebraska Retirement System

LEGISLATIVE BILL 248. Placed on General File as amended.
Standing Committee amendments to LB 248:
Req. #2274

1. Insert three new sections as follows:

"Section 1. That section 79-1522, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1522. (1) Upon retirement under the provisions of sections 79-1520 and 79-1521, if he or she has five or more years of creditable service, a member or emeritus member shall receive a school retirement allowance which shall consist of the sum of: (a) A savings annuity which shall be the actuarial equivalent, as determined by the retirement board, of the member's accumulated contributions at the time of his or her retirement, or, in the case of an emeritus member, the savings annuity fixed by the retirement board at the time of his or her original retirement; and (b) a service annuity to be paid by the State of Nebraska. The amount of any individual service annuity for a full-time school employee or emeritus member shall be three dollars and fifty cents per month for each year of service commencing with his or her retirement on or after ~~July 1, 1973~~ the effective date of this act. Each school employee or emeritus member who retired before July 1, 1973 and who is receiving a service annuity as of that date shall have such service annuity adjusted by the increase in the cost of living as determined by the difference between the Consumers Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers from the date the service annuity commenced and July 1, 1973, except that such annuity shall not exceed three dollars and fifty cents monthly per year of service, based on the same number of years of service that is currently being used to determine his or her service annuity. Such increased service annuity shall commence on July 1, 1973.

(2) Under such rules and regulations as the board may prescribe, an employee, upon becoming a member, may receive credit for not to exceed ten years of creditable teaching service rendered in public schools in another state if such member shall have paid into the school retirement system of the State of Nebraska an amount equal to the required deposits he or she would have paid had he or she been employed in this state, with such required deposits to be paid as the board may direct within three years after membership in the retirement system begins.

(3) A member who retires as a school employee of this state shall not receive credit for time in service outside of this state in excess of the time he or she has been in service as a school employee in this state. In order to receive such out-of-state credit such member must be employed as a school employee in this state at the time of his or her retirement.

(4) For a beneficiary who is employed as a public school substitute employee for more than ninety days in any school year the state service annuity shall be reduced by fifty per cent; Provided, a person receiving a retirement benefit may waive the payments and return to regular employment in a public school of this state if the beneficiary shall notify the retirement board in advance of the time and place of such employment. This notice shall be in writing upon forms prescribed by the retirement board. Any person collecting retirement payments without filing such notice shall be subject to a withholding of future retirement benefits equal to twice the amount collected after being regularly employed. The amount of individual service annuity for a part-time employee shall be determined on a proportional basis.

Sec. 3. That section 79-1540, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1540. On the basis of all data in the possession of the retirement board, including such mortality and other tables as shall be recommended by the actuary, who shall be a member of the American Academy of Actuaries, engaged by the retirement board and adopted by the retirement board, the retirement board shall annually, on or before July 1, determine the state deposit to be made by the state in the Service Annuity Fund for that fiscal year. The amount of such state deposit shall be determined on the basis of an annual actuarial valuation to be sufficient to fully fund the service annuities earned in that fiscal year and to fund the unfunded accrued liabilities for all service annuities earned prior to that year by level payments up to January 1, 1994 in the amounts established prior to the effective date of this act. Any increase in the unfunded accrued liability that arises as a result of increasing the amount of the service annuity on or after the effective date of this act shall increase the state deposit by an amount sufficient to fund the increase in the unfunded accrued liability by level payments for the twenty-five year period following the date the increase becomes effective. The retirement board shall thereupon certify and, on the warrant of the Director of Administrative Services, the State Treasurer shall, as of July 1 of such year, transfer from funds appropriated by the state for that purpose to the Service Annuity Fund in the retirement system the amount of such state deposit.

Sec. 4. For purposes of subdivision (2) of section 77-3424 new program shall include any additional amount a school district contributes if the Public Employees Retirement Board recommends that the funding by the school district be increased as a result of the changes made in section 79-1522.01 by this act.

Sec. 5. That original sections 79-1522, 79-1522.01, and 79-1540, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.''.

2. On page 3, line 26, after the period insert ''A member must have acquired the equivalent of one half year or more of service as a public school employee under the school retirement system following the effective date of this act to be eligible for computation of his or her formula annuity using only three fiscal years in the determination of his or her final average compensation.''.

"Section 1. For fiscal years 1980-81, 1981-82, and 1982-83 the Legislature shall appropriate seventy million dollars from the General Fund to a special fund, to be known as the Political Subdivision Property Tax Relief Fund which is hereby created. Any money in such fund available for investment shall be invested by the state investment officer pursuant to sections 72-1237 to 72-1269.

Sec. 2. For fiscal years 1980-81, 1981-82, and 1982-83 each county shall receive an amount from the Political Subdivision Property Tax Relief Fund based on the percentage figure obtained by dividing the actual valuation of property in the county by the actual valuation of property in the state based on the values stated in the most recent certificate of taxes levied pursuant to section 77-628. The Tax Commissioner shall determine the amount to be distributed to the various counties for distribution to the political subdivisions within such county and shall certify such amounts to the Director of Administrative Services. Each amount shall be distributed in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments between the fifth and twentieth day of each month beginning December 1, 1981, and December 1, 1982. For fiscal year 1980-81 the fund shall be distributed according to the same schedule except that any monthly payment not made prior to the effective date of this act shall be added to the initial payment made following the effective date of this act. The State Treasurer shall, between the fifth and twentieth day of each month, notify the Director of Administrative Services of the amount of funds available in the General Fund for payment purposes. The Director of Administrative Services shall, upon receipt of such notification, draw warrants against funds appropriated.

Sec. 3. Each political subdivision or portion of a political subdivision within a county, including the county itself, with authority to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied shall receive a share of the funds distributed to the county in an amount equivalent to the percentage figure obtained by dividing the amount of property tax levied within the county by the political subdivision during the prior calendar year by the total amount of property tax levied within the county by all political subdivisions during the prior calendar year. Such amount shall be distributed by the county treasurer in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments beginning December, 1980, and each December thereafter. For fiscal year 1980-81 the fund shall be distributed according to the same schedule except that any monthly payment not made prior to the effective date of this act shall be added to the initial payment made following the effective date of this act.

Sec. 4. (1) If two or more political subdivisions within a county are merged, the share such newly merged political subdivision shall receive shall be the sum of the receipts each individual political subdivision would have received had there been no merger.

(2) If a political subdivision authorized to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied is newly created, such political subdivision shall receive, commencing the first year such levy generates tax receipts, a share of the funds distributed to political subdivisions within a county computed pursuant to sections 3 and 4 of this act.

Sec. 5. That Laws 1980, LB 1002, section 5, be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 5. Agency No. 12 — State Treasurer

(1) Program No. 146 - Aid to Governmental Subdivisions

GENERAL FUND	~~82,600,000~~ 12,600,000
AGENCY TOTAL	~~82,600,000~~ 12,600,000

Sec. 6. (1) The Legislature hereby finds that: (a) Within recent years the various political subdivisions have implemented and provided an increasing number of programs and services; (b) in some instances political subdivisions have added programs or services as a result of state action and have not received any additional assistance from the state to aid them in meeting these new responsibilities; (c) the limitation placed on the budgets of political subdivisions has made it difficult for the political subdivisions to continue to provide all the necessary programs and services; and (d) it is necessary for the state to assume the responsibility of providing financial assistance to the political subdivisions to insure the continuation of these vital programs and services.

(2) The Revenue Committee of the Legislature shall fully examine a revenue sharing concept and determine the most effective means of providing property tax relief by shifting the property tax burden to sales and income taxes. Such examination shall analyze and study revenue expenditure data and information and on or before January 1, 1983, provide proposed legislation which prescribes the manner and dollar amounts necessary to implement a local revenue sharing program.

Sec. 7. Sections 1 to 6 of this act shall terminate on July 1, 1983.

Sec. 8. If any section in this act or any part of any section shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining portions thereof.

66-403. Before engaging in business as a dealer, every person shall procure a license from the Tax Commissioner, permitting him or her to transact such business within the State of Nebraska. The Tax Commissioner upon the application of any person or persons who filed the certificate required in section 66-402, may issue a license as provided in this section. ~~aforesaid; Provided, the applicant shall have furnished good and sufficient security running to the State of Nebraska, conditioned for the payment of all taxes, interest, penalties, and costs which may be assessed against him under the provisions of sections 66-401 to 66-425 whether such liability is incurred prior to or after such security is filed.~~

Sec. 11. That section 66-611, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

66-611. Upon receipt of the application ~~and security~~ in proper form, the motor fuel tax administrator shall issue to the applicant a license to act as a special fuel dealer; Provided, the motor fuel tax administrator may refuse to issue a special fuel dealer's license to any person: (1) Who formerly held a special fuel dealer's license which, prior to the time of filing the application, has been revoked for cause; (2) who is a subterfuge for the real party in interest whose license, prior to the time of filing the application, has been revoked for cause; or (3) upon other sufficient cause being shown. Before such refusal, the motor fuel tax administrator shall grant the applicant a hearing and shall grant him or her at least ten days' written notice of the time and place.

Sec. 12. That section 66-618, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

66-618. For the purpose of determining the amount of his or her liability for the tax imposed by the provisions of sections 66-601 to 66-640, each special fuel dealer shall file with the motor fuel tax administrator, on forms prescribed by the administrator, a monthly tax return. The return shall show, with reference to each location at which special fuel is delivered or placed by such dealer into a fuel supply tank of any motor vehicle, such information as the motor fuel tax administrator may reasonably require for the proper administration and enforcement of the provisions of sections 66-601 to 66-640; Provided, that if a special fuel dealer is also a wholesale distributor of a special fuel at a location where special fuel is delivered into the supply tank of a motor vehicle, and if separate storage is provided thereat from which special fuel is delivered or placed into fuel supply tanks of motor vehicles, the monthly return to the administrator covering such location need not include inventory control data covering bulk storage from which wholesale distribution of special fuel is made. The special fuel dealer shall file the return on or before the twentieth day of the next succeeding calendar month following the monthly period to which it relates. If the final filing date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the next secular or business day shall be the final filing date. Such reports shall be considered filed on time if mailed in an envelope properly addressed to the motor fuel tax administrator, and postmarked before midnight of the final filing date; Provided, that for good cause the administrator may grant a taxpayer reasonable extensions of time for filing, but not to exceed ten days in the aggregate for any one return.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the motor fuel tax administrator may by rule and regulation permit or require quarterly, semiannual, or annual reports and tax payments from each special fuel dealer who has small tax liabilities, except that no such reports or payments may be permitted or required when the tax liability exceeds one hundred fifty dollars in any quarter, three hundred dollars in any semiannual period, or six hundred dollars in any year.".

The amount and duration of the security shall be fixed by the Tax Commissioner and shall not be greater than two times the total estimated average monthly tax liability payable by such dealer pursuant to section 66-401 to 66-481 or fifteen thousand dollars, whichever is the lesser amount.".

EXPLANATION OF VOTE

After having stated in floor debate that I would vote against LB 40, I supported it on Select File. I want to explain my purposes for that vote.

My objection to the bill remains and I will vote against it on Final Reading. However, I support a decisive vote on this issue and that can only be accomplished at Final Reading after other relevant bills such as LB 284 have been heard on their own merits. Therefore, I voted to move LB 40 off Select File to bring an end to the negotiations and interplay between bills and to set the stage for a single, decisive vote on the Omaha Sales Tax as a permanent part of the state policy on municipal finance.

(Signed) David Landis

SPEAKER SIGNED

While the Legislature was in session and capable of transacting business, the Speaker signed the following bills: 72 and 205.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

April 8, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker,
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

You are approaching the 60th day of your 90-day first session of the 87th Legislature. Legislative bills with substantial fiscal impact as well as the forthcoming recommendations of your Appropriations Committee will soon be at the center of your attention. Now is an excellent time, I believe, to pause for a moment from the immediate press of legislative business and take a good hard look at the fiscal future.

First, state general fund tax revenues through March are 2.4 percent or slightly over $13.0 million below projections for that date. This is not cause for alarm. It is cause for concern. Our economy has proved itself strong and resilient. It is not, however, immune to necessarily uncertain national economic trends.

Second, federal budget reductions recently recommended by President Reagan will most certainly be felt by Nebraska programs and services. I whole-heartedly support the economic course charted by the President. It will demand, however, all of our ingenuity and self-restraint to maintain essential Nebraska services - which are our responsibility - in the face of reduced federal revenues.

Third, the enactment of the President's proposed federal income tax reduction will necessarily and inevitably affect our own state income tax revenue. As you know, Nebraska's income tax system "piggy-backs" the federal system. Since Nebraska's tax is based on federal income tax liability, any change at the federal level is reflected in state revenues. Our current revenue projections do not take into account any federal changes.

As I stated in my January 14, 1981 State of the State and Budget Message:

> "State government is under severe fiscal pressures. On the one hand, there will be growing demands for the state to take over > expiring federal programs. But on the other hand, there will be even faster growing demands for more state assistance to local governments. Economic conditions and our limited state resources require that we respond prudently and with great caution."

I have no reason now to believe that the situation has in any way been altered. On the contrary, events in recent weeks in your body have, if anything, strengthened that concern. You have bills before you such as LB39, LB317 and LB245A which have thus far received favorable consideration - which have substantial or unknown fiscal impact - and which create new fiscal obligations for the State of Nebraska.

LB39 further reduces progressively the county share of the medical assistance program to ten percent in FY83/84. During my administration, we have already provided such relief and saved the counties in the current year and last fiscal year approximately seven million dollars at an equivalent additional cost to the state general fund. LB317 further modifies the special education program - a program already standing outside traditional budgetary controls. Under LB317, the current financial relationship between service providers is radically changed at unknown cost to the state; and, a significant change in the reimbursable residential program is mandated at unknown but potentially significant general fund cost. Moreover, I am not agreeable to the approximately $1.4 million proposed appropriation in LB245A for FY81/82. If it is your intent to set conditions upon the ultimate completion of the Veterinary Medicine facility, then such conditions should be met prior to and not during the course of the project.

In the face of current economic uncertainty and almost certain federal budgetary reductions, I am at this time adamantly opposed to the assumption of new or greater state fiscal obligations. Despite the press of special interests and their demands, I ask that you demonstrate the necessary self-restraint the times and situation demand as you carry out your budgetary responsibilities. On my part, you may be assured that this Governor will do everything within his constitutional authority to preserve the budgetary limits recommended to you in January.

The budget I submitted to you on January 14 was a most adequate budget that maintained the current sales tax rate of 3 percent and the current income tax rate just reduced last November to 15 percent. The priority areas in that budget clearly were the continuation of and improvements in current programs and facilities, state employees' salaries, enhancement of programs in post-secondary education, and maintenance of the current sales and income tax rates. I remain convinced that these priorities are appropriate, and must be addressed prior to any other consideration.

I sincerely ask your cooperation, your self-restraint, and your good hard effort in accomplishing our joint budgetary responsibilities in these most uncertain times.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 67
April 7, 1981

Dear Senator Wiitala:

Concerning REQ. 350, which would authorize Sanitary and Improvement Districts to share in the Highway Allocation Fund, which you are contemplating introducing, you inquire if its general purpose conflicts with any constitutional provision. You also ask whether a Sanitary and Improvement District is a political entity which could share in the allocation fund.

The provisions of Neb.Rev.Stat. §31-740 (Supp. 1980) give Sanitary and Improvement Districts broad powers of a municipal nature. The statutes refer to Sanitary and Improvement Districts as public corporations, and this office has many times characterized them as quasi municipal corporations. In Hueftle v. Eustis Cemetery Assn., 171 Neb. 293, 106 N.W.2d 400 (1960), the court said: ". . . Throughout the statutes, too numerous to cite, the Legislature has granted separate and distinct powers to villages and cities of various classes, and it has established different municipal organizations and has imposed different limitations of powers. . ." We believe Sanitary and Improvement Districts are among those other types of bodies, and that they, if directed by statute, have the right to receive tax money, including that which flows through the Highway Allocation Fund.

You also ask if there are any other constitutional problems. Neb.Rev.Stat. §31-727(3) (Reissue 1978) provides in part: " . . . . No corporation formed or hereafter formed shall perform any new functions, other than those for which the corporation was formed without amending its articles of association to include the new function or functions." Assuming that not all Sanitary and Improvement Districts are concerned with highways and roads, we believe that the aforesaid language gets over the hurdle of special legislation, since the class would not be closed if any district, by amending its articles, can bring itself within the ambit of the class.

In Omaha Parking Authority v. City of Omaha, 163 Neb. 97, 77 N.W.2d 862 (1956), it was stated that the legislature has power to legislate with regard to streets, alleys and highways as a matter of state-wide concern. It was also held that the legislature may classify based on types of municipalities. Therefore, streets being a matter of state-wide concern, it would appear logical that the legislature may, if it chooses, also apportion moneys from the Highway Allocation Fund to agencies having responsibility for a part of the system of public streets and roads.

We do not believe that the allocation of appropriated State funds to an entity charged with the construction and maintenance of public roads and streets constitutes extending the credit of the State to private enterprises. We believe this to be true despite the fact that Sanitary and Improvement Districts are often the creatures of private land developers, since the creature is, in the rendering of governmental services such as streets, sewarage, etc., a public entity.

Finally, since REQ. 350 contains but one subject and the title would appear to be reflective thereof, we believe that if passed into law, it would not violate any provision of the Constitution.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

"Section 1. It is the intent of the Legislature that replacement revenue for local taxing agencies as a result of exemptions allowed on certain classes of personal property not be shifted to other classes of property subject to taxation. Since (1) agricultural income-producing machinery and equipment, livestock, feed, fertilizer, and farm inventory, grain and seed, and poultry, fish, honey bees, and fur-bearing animals were exemptions related to agriculture and (2) business inventory was an exemption related to commerce and industry, the tax basis for distributing financial assistance pursuant to sections 1 to 5 of this act is hereby recognized and established.

Sec. 2. (1) For fiscal year 1980-81 and each fiscal year thereafter the Legislature shall appropriate seventy million dollars from the General Fund to a special fund to be known as the Political Subdivision Property Tax Relief Fund, which is hereby created. Any money in such fund available for investment shall be invested by the state investment officer pursuant to sections 72-1237 to 72-1269.

(2) For fiscal year 1980-81 and each fiscal year thereafter the Legislature shall annually appropriate and distribute seventy million dollars from the Political Subdivision Property Tax Relief Fund. Of such funds annually appropriated, thirty-seven million nine hundred seventy-seven thousand six hundred dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of agricultural real estate within the state, thirty-one million twenty-two thousand four hundred dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of commercial-industrial real estate in the state, and one million dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of suburban-residential real estate within the state.

(3) For purposes of this section (a) actual value of agricultural real estate shall mean the total actual value of all agricultural lands, lots, and improvements in this state computed by adding the actual value of dry cropland, irrigated cropland, rangeland and meadow, pasture land, wasteland, agricultural improvements, and agricultural land or lots in each county as reported in lines 14 through 18, 20, 29, and 30 of the most current County Abstract of Assessment Form 45, (b) actual value of commercial-industrial real estate shall mean the total actual value of all suburban commercial land or lots, suburban commercial improvements, suburban industrial land or lots, suburban industrial improvements, commercial land or lots, commercial improvements, industrial land or lots, and industrial improvements in this state computed by adding the actual value of real estate in each county as reported in lines 23 to 26 and 33 to 36 of the most current County Abstract of Assessment Form 45, and (c) actual value of suburban-residential real estate shall mean the total actual value of all suburban residential land or lots, suburban residential improvements, unimproved lots, residential land or lots, and residential improvements in this state computed by adding the actual value of real estate in each county as reported in lines 21, 22, 28, 31, and 32 of the most recent County Abstract of Assessment Form 45. For fiscal year 1980-81 funds shall be distributed based on the 1980 County Abstract of Assessment Form 45 as equalized by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment and for fiscal years 1981-82 and 1982-83 funds shall be distributed based on the 1981 and 1982 County Abstract of Assessment Form 45 as equalized by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment, and for each fiscal year thereafter funds shall be distributed based on the most current County Abstract of Assessment Form 45 as equalized by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

Sec. 3. Each county shall receive a share of the funds distributed pursuant to section 2 of this act based on the percentage figure obtained by dividing the total actual value of agricultural, commercial-industrial, and suburban-residential real estate in the county by the total actual value of agricultural, commercial-industrial, and suburban-residential real estate in the state. The Tax Commissioner shall determine the amount to be distributed to the various counties for distribution to the political subdivisions within such county and shall certify such amounts to the Director of Administrative Services. Each amount shall be distributed in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments between the fifth and twentieth day of each month beginning December 1, 1980, and each December thereafter. For fiscal year 1980-81 the fund shall be distributed according to the same schedule except that any monthly payment not made prior to the effective date of this act shall be added to the initial payment made following the effective date of this act. The State Treasurer shall, between the fifth and twentieth day of each month, notify the Director of Administrative Services of the amount of funds available in the General Fund for payment purposes. The Director of Administrative Services shall, upon receipt of such notification, draw warrants against funds appropriated.

Sec. 4. Each political subdivision or portion of a political subdivision within a county, including the county itself, with authority to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied shall receive a share of the funds distributed to the county in an amount equivalent to the percentage figure obtained by dividing the amount of property tax levied within the county by the political subdivision during the prior calendar year by the total amount of property tax levied within the county by all political subdivisions during the prior calendar year. Such amount shall be distributed by the county treasurer in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments beginning December, 1980, and each December thereafter. For fiscal year 1980-81 the fund shall be distributed according to the same schedule except that any monthly payment not made prior to the effective date of this act shall be added to the initial payment made following the effective date of this act.

Sec. 5. (1) If two or more political subdivisions within a county are merged, the share such newly merged political subdivision shall receive shall be the sum of the receipts each individual political subdivision would have received had there been no merger.

(2) If a political subdivision authorized to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied is newly created, such political subdivision shall receive, commencing the first year such levy generates tax receipts, a share of the funds distributed to political subdivisions within a county computed pursuant to sections 3 and 4 of this act.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 68

Dear Senator Hoagland:

By letter dated March 23, 1981, you submitted to this office a request for an opinion on the constitutionality of section 19 of LB 253 currently pending before the Legislature. LB 253 would authorize the imposition of an annual litter fee on grocery retailers and on food, beverage, liquor, wine, and beer retailers who sell such products for consumption off premises. Section 19 of the bill purports to authorize a reduction of the fee assessed against any particular retailer when certain circumstances exist.

Essentially, the bill delegates to the Department of Revenue the task of determining whether a reduction in the litter fee is appropriate in any particular instance. It provides only that in requesting such a reduction, a retailer is required to provide information concerning (a) the nature of the business, (b) annual gross proceeds from the sales of products specified above, and (c) such other circumstances as may warrant a reduction in the litter fee. However, no specific circumstances relevant to a fee reduction request are identified, nor are any general standards set out clarifying what general kinds of consequences section 19 is intended to avoid. Apparently, these matters are left to the judgment of the Department of Revenue. We conclude that section 19 thereby amounts to an unconstitutional delegation of legislative power to that department.

It is a fundamental constitutional principle that in granting power to an administrative agency to implement an act, the Legislature itself must provide clear and sufficient standards reflecting the purpose and limitations of the act which serve as the framework for the agency rules and regulations. So long as the legislative act has clearly designated limitations and standards, empowering an administrative agency to implement the act is permissible. See, State ex rel. Douglas v. Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, 204 Neb. 445 (1979), and Terry Carpenter, Inc. v. Nebraska Liquor Control Commission, 175 Neb. 26 (1963).

Here, we can find no such standards. It occurs to us that section 19 of the bill may reflect an attempt to shield more financially precarious retailers from undue consequences of the litter fee, but neither this concern nor that for any other consequence of the litter fee is expressed in section 19, or is able to be inferred. This is the responsibility of the Legislature, not the Department of Revenue.

Yours truly,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 69

Dear Senator DeCamp:

This is in reply to your inquiry concerning the new section 14 of LB 113 which provides as follows: "A club or club representative shall not make any reference in any advertising or sales promotional effort to the financial statement of another club filed in accordance with sections 12 and 13 of this act."

Sections 12 and 13 referred to in the above quote require a motor club to obtain a certificate of authority from the Director of Insurance before it may offer motor club services. To obtain such certificate of authority the motor club must, among other things file with the Department of Insurance a copy of the club's most recent financial statement prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

Section 22 of said LB 113 makes it a Class III misdemeanor for any person to willfully violate the provisions of sections 1 to 21 of the act.

You inquire whether the provisions of section 14, set forth above violate the United States or Nebraska Constitutions as being special legislation, denial of freedom of speech or expression, denial of equal protection of the law, or in any other manner.

Section 6 of LB 113 provides in part:

> A club representative shall not be required to be a licensed insurance agent pursuant to Chapter 44 in connection with the sale of accidental injury and death benefits or other insurance covering a motor club service, which may be issued in conjunction with and as a part of a motor club service contract.

Section 7 defines motor club services to include but not limited to the rendering or reimbursement for towing services; emergency road services; emergency travel expense service; theft service, etc.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §44-102 (Reissue 1978) defines insurance as follows:

> Insurance is a contract whereby one party, called the insurer, for a consideration, undertakes to pay money or its equivalent, or to do an act valuable to another party, called the insured, or to his beneficiary, upon the happening of the hazard or peril insured against whereby the party insured or his beneficiary suffers loss or injury.

Thus it may be seen that motor club contracts as authorized under LB 113 may very well include provisions which would constitute said contracts to be insurance contracts as defined under §44-102 quoted above.

However, as to insurance companies generally, before being authorized to do business in Nebraska or before its authority is renewed, an insurance company must file an annual financial statement. See, Neb.Rev.Stat. §44-304, and §44-322 (Reissue 1978). Neb.Rev.Stat. §44-114(8) (Supp. 1980) then provides: "for copies of annual statements, which shall be made available to any person, persons, or corporation making request therefor, the fee shall be the actual cost."

Obviously these statutes contemplate that the financial statements of insurance companies on file with the Department of Insurance are available to the public, including competitors, and we have found no statutory restrictions on the use thereof such as contained in LB 113 as to the use of motor club financial statements.

In the case of United States Cold Storage Corp. v. Stolinski, 168 Neb. 513, 96 N.W.2d 408 (1959), the constitutionality of a Nebraska statute which required every person in charge of a warehouse where goods, except used household goods, were stored to file a report with the county assessor by a certain date listing information about the stored goods. Such goods were then subjected to taxation. In holding said statute unconstitutional, the Supreme Court of Nebraska stated:

> Used household goods are tangible property subject to taxation in this state. We fail to see any reason for excluding warehouses storing used household goods from the operation of the act. The exemption of such warehouses from the class appears to be wholly arbitrary. . . . The act creates an arbitrary classification of warehousemen upon which the act is to operate. It discriminates against some warehousemen and in favor of others. . . . Exceptions contained in a legislative classification cannot be justified if the discrimination thus made has no reasonable relation to the purposes of the act in which it is found. We find no reasonable basis for excluding warehouses storing used household goods, when the general purposes of the act are considered. The act clearly violates that part of Article III, section 18, of the Constitution which provides: "The Legislature shall not pass local or special laws in any of the following cases, that is to say: * * * Granting to any corporation, association, or individual any special or exclusive privileges, immunity, or franchise whatever. In all other cases where a general law can be made applicable, no special law shall be enacted."

It appears to us that in the same manner the new section 14 of LB 113 would discriminate against motor clubs engaged in the insurance business, as defined above, as compared to all other types of insurance. We see no reasonable basis therefor.

We are also of the opinion that said section and its criminal sanction would be difficult to defend under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution which provides in part: "No state shall . . . deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 70

Dear Senator Chambers:

This opinion is in response to your letter of April 2, 1981 in which you have asked seven questions concerning LB 205, a bill related to fire investigations. These questions relate to the final reading copy of the bill along with the amendments to it found at pp. 1240-1242 of the Legislative Journal, 55th Day, April 1, 1981. This bill would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-509 (Reissue 1976) and Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-1401 (Supp. 1980), as well as create a new section covering arson investigators.

1. LB 205 would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-1401 (Supp. 1980) which sets out the definitions used in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-1401 to § 81-1414, Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center. The bill adds "authorized arson investigator" to the definition of "law enforcement officer." LB 205, section 3(3)(v). Your question is whether the definition is valid. This section states that a law enforcement officer:

> (v) A full-time employee of an organized and paid fire department of any city of the metropolitan class, who is an authorized arson investigator, and whose duties consist of determining the cause, origin, and circumstances of fires or explosions, while on duty in the course of an investigation.

It is our opinion that this definition is adequate. It sets out certain criteria necessary for an authorized arson inspector including the type of fire department the person must work for and the duties of such a position. The characteristics of an "authorized arson investigator" suitable for inclusion in the definition of "law enforcement officer" can easily be discerned. Furthermore, the context of this language must be considered. The definition of "law enforcement officer" in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-1401 (Supp. 1980) merely sets out that class of persons who have priority for training at the Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center. Neb.Rev.Stat. § 81-1412 (Reissue 1976).

2. Part of the proposed definition of law enforcement officer in LB 205 section 3(3)(v) includes the language "while on duty in the course of an investigation." It is our opinion that this language is an adequate part of the job description. Similar language is found in section 1 of this bill. It serves to emphasize that an authorized arson investigator is classified as a peace officer and has powers of arrest, search and seizure, and securing and service of warrants only while on duty investigating possible cases of arson.

3. The provisions of sections 1 and 3 of this bill apply only to arson investigators in cities of the metropolitan class. Such cities are defined in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 14-101 (Reissue 1977) as those with a population of 300,000 or more. At the present time, Omaha is the only city of the metropolitan class in Nebraska.

In order to determine if such a limitation is constitutional, two matters must be considered: whether or not the classification creates a permanently closed class and whether or not the classification is arbitrary or unreasonable in relation to the purpose of the bill.

The classification does not create a closed class. If other communities in Nebraska attain the requisite population to become cities of the metropolitan class, they would come within the scope of this bill. LB 205 can be distinguished from cases where the classification would always limit the application of the law to present conditions. State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598, 607, ___ N.W.2d __ (1980).

However, there are possible constitutional difficulties on the issue of the reasonableness of the classificiation in relation to the bill's purpose. It is unclear why the granting of police officer powers and status should be available only to arson inspectors in cities of the metropolitan class.

Although the Legislature has the power to create classifications, these may not be arbitrary.

> A legislative classification, in order to be valid, must be based upon some reason of public policy, some substantial difference of situation or circumstances, that would naturally suggest the justice or expediency of diverse legislation with respect to the > objects to be classified. Classifications for the purpose of legislation must be real and not illusive; they cannot be based on distinctions without a substantial difference.

City of Scottsbluff v. Tiemann, 185 Neb. 256, 266, 175 N.W.2d 74 (1970)

4. An amendment to LB 205 section 3(3)(v) changes the language from "on duty in the course of any such investigation" to "on duty in the course of an investigation." While it may not be clear why this change was made, it is our opinion that it does not expand the authority of an authorized arson investigator contemplated by this bill. It is still clear that the duties of such a position are limited to the determination of the "cause, origin, and circumstances of fires or explosions." As stated above, this section merely defines those persons eligible to attend the Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center. The language in section 1 of this bill, "while on duty and in the course of any such investigation," has not been changed. Furthermore, the second paragraph of section 1 explicitly states, "Any person granted the powers enumerated in this section may exercise such powers only while on duty and during the course of investigating the cause, origin, and circumstances of a fire."

5. The qualifications for being classified as a peace officer under section 1 of LB 205 include being "a sworn member of an organized and paid fire department of any city of the metropolitan class." A further requirement is that the person "have been an active member of an organized fire department for a minimum of six years." These two sentences can refer to different situations. Together they mean that granting of peace officer status to arson investigators requires not only that the investigator presently be a sworn member of an organized and paid fire department in a metropolitan city but also that she or he have been an active member of an organized fire department for at least six years. However, she or he need not have been paid by the latter fire department, nor does the latter department need to have been in a metropolitan city.

6. The "city" referred to in line 21 of section 1 (LB 205, Final Reading, p. 2) refers to the city of metropolitan class where the authorized arson investigator would be presently employed. "Such person . . . shall meet the minimum qualifications and training standards established by the city for all firefighters."

7. There is no legal difficulty from the lack of a specific statutory cross-reference between sections 1 and 3 of LB 205. The two sections amend two different statutes. Section 1, which provides peace officer authority to certain authorized arson investigators, states that such persons may carry weapons only if they have completed training "offered or approved by the Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center or equivalent training offered by such city." Section 3 defines who has priority for such training at the Law Enforcement Training Center. It is our view that this cross-reference is sufficient.

In conclusion, it appears that LB 205 is adequate with respect to most of the questions you have raised. However, the limitation of police officer powers and status to arson investigators in cities of the metropolitan class may be constitutionally suspect.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 71

Dear Senator Marsh:

LB 466 as amended would make it unprofessional conduct for a physician to perform an abortion when he or she will not be available for a period of at least 48 hours for post-operative care unless such post-operative care is delegated to and accepted by another physician. You ask whether such a provision is constitutional. We have concluded it may not be.

An abortion is a legitimate medical procedure to which a woman has a right as limited by a compelling state interest, See, Roe v. Wade, 410 U.S. 113 (1973), and Doe v. Bolton, 410 U.S. 179 (1973). According to the Court in Wade, above, the state's interest in the health of the mother reaches the compelling point at approximately the end of the first trimester. The state's important and legitimate interest in potential life reaches the compelling point at viability. The Court held unconstitutional a statute which made no distinction between abortions performed early in pregnancy and those performed later and which limited the legal justification for the procedure to a single reason, "saving" the mother's life.

The court referred to Bolton, above, as one to be read with it.

> The decision vindicates the right of the physician to administer medical treatment according to his professional judgment up to the points where important state interests provide compelling justifications for intervention. Up to those points, the abortion decision in all its aspects is inherently, and primarily, a medical > decision, and basic responsibility for it must rest with the physician. If an individual practitioner abuses the privilege of exercising proper medical judgment, the usual remedies, judicial and intra-professional, are available.

Supra, at 165-166. Similarly, from Lincoln Dairy Company v. Finigan, 170 Neb. 777, 104 N.W.2d 227 (1960), we can infer that the Legislature may not under the guise of police regulation stifle legitimate business or make constitutional rights subservient to pressure groups seeking enactment of statutes advantageous to their particular point of view. To single out abortion procedures for special treatment from other medical procedures not only would have a chilling effect on constitutional rights but it may be an unconstitutional classification.

To be constitutional under Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution, a classification should rest upon some difference in situation or circumstances between the thing or person placed in one class and that placed in another. Invalid class legislation denies rights to one which are accorded to others or inflicts upon one individual a more severe penalty than is imposed upon another in like case of offending. To be constitutional the class must be based on some reason suggested by such a difference in the situation and circumstances of the subjects placed in different classes as to disclose the necessity or propriety of different legislation in respect to them. See, Galloway v. Wolfe, 117 Neb. 824, 826 (1929).

LB 466 as amended would also redefine "health clinic" to include the residence, office or clinic of a private physician if ten or more abortions per week are performed there. We have concluded that such a provision is probably unconstitutional as qualified below.

Health clinics are licensed in Nebraska to provide for the development, establishment and enforcement of basic standards for the care of persons in them and for the construction, operation and maintenance of them in such a way as to insure the safe and adequate care of persons in such facilities. See, Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-2017 (Reissue 1976).

The exemption of physicians' offices from licensing under Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-2017.01 (Reissue 1976) is proper only when the result of such action is not inimical to the public interests upon which the validity of the licensing statute was predicated. See, Federal Realty Corp. v. Zoning Board of Review of the City of Warwick, 96 R.I. 76, 189 A.2d 347 (1963). It follows that withdrawal of that exemption is proper when the result of it is inimical to the public interests upon which the validity of the licensing statute was predicated.

Health services in a health clinic are available only on an outpatient basis and for a period not exceeding 24 consecutive hours. See, Neb.Rev.Stat. §71-2017.01(4) (Reissue 1976). Thus, assuming the validity of the exception for physicians' offices under current law, there would be no justification for withdrawing the exemption because of the number of patients treated in any week. As discussed above, there may be an unconstitutional classification by singling out abortions from other medical procedures.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Clerk of the Legislature

Opinion No. 72

Dear Senator Chambers:

In a recent letter to this office you asked if the City of Omaha may use its power of eminent domain to purchase or acquire privately owned real estate which will then be turned over to a corporation which is organized for charitable, educational and religious purposes. Subsequent thereto, you provided this office with a packet of information which contains five numbered pages, which may be cursory described as follows:

A. Pages 1 and 2 are photo copies of a letter addressed to a certain person from the Housing and Community Development Department of the City of Omaha. This letter advises the addressee that certain property, which the addressee is the owner, is included in the Long School Neighborhood Redevelopment Plan and will be acquired this year.

C. Page 5 is a photo copy of your request letter.

The above described documents are helpful for an understanding of this aspect of the law. The documents indicate, for example, that the City of Omaha is proceeding in this matter pursuant to the Community Development Law, Neb.Rev.Stat. §§18-2101 to 18-2144 (Reissue 1977) as amended. In enacting this law, the Legislature found that there exist in cities and villages of this state areas which have deteriorated and become substandard and blighted. It further found that these conditions are beyond remedy and control solely by regulatory process in the exercise of the police power and cannot be dealt with effectively by the ordinary operations of private enterprise without the aids provided by this law. See, Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-2102 (Reissue 1977).

In addition to examining the above described documents we have done a considerable amount of independent investigation. That investigation discloses that the Housing and Community Development Department of the City of Omaha has drafter, pursuant to the Community Development Law, what has become known as the Long Neighborhood Redevelopment Plan (herein after, "Plan") which covers approximately a 16 square block "substandard and blighted" area in North Omaha. The Plan, which was approved by the Omaha City Council on December 9, 1980, calls for redevelopment of the area. It is anticipated that it will improve the residential integrity of the neighborhood, decrease the amount of vacant, unmaintained land, and provide a method by which certain existing housing can be preserved. Pursuant to the Plan, all occupied properties are to be acquired by a private developer. The City of Omaha would use its acquisition ability to assemble vacant properties, some of which the true owner is apparently unknown. The acquisition of these properties, pursuant to the Plan, is to be financed by a fund established by a private developer.

To implement the Plan, a Request for Proposals was subsequently advertised, calling for proposals to be submitted by January 7, 1981. One proposal, that of the Boy's Town Urban Program, was received. The Selection Committee, composed of the Directors of the Finance, HCD, Planning, and Parks and Recreation Departments, the City Attorney, and a representative of the Mayor's Office, met on January 8, 1981, to evaluate the proposal. The Committee found the Proposal to be substantially consistent with the Plan and the Request for Proposals and voted unanimously to recommend its approval to the City Council. It was accepted. To carry out its duties under the Plan, Father Flanagan's Boys' Home has acquired, through negotiation, many of the occupied properties. It has also assisted many of the former owners of these properties to relocate. To carry out its duties under the Plan, the City of Omaha has acquired, through negotiation, some of the vacant properties. If it is unable to acquire all the vacant properties described in the plan by negotiation, the City of Omaha has statutory authority to use its power of eminent domain to acquire such property. Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-2122 (Reissue 1977). It also has statutory authority to sell such property by negotiation at fair value after inviting proposals by notices in a legal newspaper.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-2118 (Supp. 1980) and Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-2119 (Reissue 1977). It also has discretion to dispose of such property to private redevelopers for redevelopment "under such reasonable competitive bidding procedures as it shall prescribe." Neb.Rev.Stat. §18-2119 (Reissue 1977). In either case, the redeveloper, whether it be an individual, an association, a religious or a non-religious corporation, is not getting a gift of public property because it must pay the fair value of such property. The State of Missouri has very similar statutes. In 64th Street Residences, Inc. v. City of New York, 4N.Y.2d 268, 174 N.Y.S.2d 1, 150 N.E.2d 396 (1958), cited with approval in Kintzele v. City of St. Louis, 347 S.W.2d 695, 700 (Mo. 1961), the Court pointed out: "[S]ince this sale is an exchange of considerations and not a gift or subsidy, no 'aid to religion' is involved and a religious corporation cannot be excluded from bidding." We are therefore of the opinion that the City of Omaha may use its power of eminent domain pursuant to the Community Development Law to purchase privately owned real estate and that it may sell such real estate pursuant to that law at its fair value to a religious corporation.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 56.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District; Wesely, 26th District; Marsh, 29th District; Wiitala, 31st District; Beutler, 28th District; Fowler, 27th District.

WHEREAS, in 1979 the Legislature directed the Tax Commissioner to develop standardized appraisal manuals "to assure the determination of actual value on a consistent basis...and the equalization of values" of lands and improvements; and

WHEREAS, the following year the Legislature mandated that such manuals be used to value all taxable real property in the state as of January 1, 1981, with assessments to be completed by April 1, 1981; and

WHEREAS, although this deadline has passed, it has been reported that revaluations have not been completed in perhaps one half of the state's counties; and

WHEREAS, the failure of those counties to complete their revaluations as required by the Legislature will lead to continued inequity in the imposition of property taxes; and

WHEREAS, the timetable established by the Legislature for the equalization of property assessments was reasonable and not an impossible goal, as witnessed by the fact that Lancaster County Assessor Carol Broman and her staff completed the revaluation for their populous county on schedule.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

That the Legislature recognizes Lancaster County Assessor Carol Broman and her staff for the responsible exercise of their duties in carrying out the provisions of state law for the systematic revaluation of property.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 73
April 10, 1981

Dear Senator Vickers:

This is in response to your letter of April 7, 1981, in which you request our opinion as to whether the language of Neb.Rev.Stat.

§70-624.02 (Supp. 1980), referring to expense reimbursement of members of public power district boards of directors, includes the expenses of their spouses. In addition you ask whether the language in LB 181, which would amend this section to specifically prohibit payment of expenses incurred by members' spouses is "necessary" or proper.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §70-624.02 (Supp. 1980) provides simply that: "The members of the board of directors shall be paid their actual expenses, while engaged in the business of the district under the authority of the board of directors, and, for their services, such compensation as shall be fixed by the board of directors." LB 181 would amend this section by adding the language: "Actual expenses shall not include traveling or other expenses incurred by the spouse of a member of the board of directors. Such expenses incurred by the spouse which are paid by the board shall be considered compensation paid to the member for purposes of this section."

The statute provides that the expenses of the members of the board of directors shall be reimbursed. The spouses of these individuals are certainly not members of the board of directors. There is no specific legislative indication in the statute that the expenses of the spouses are to be reimbursed as well. Such an interpretation certainly seems to be beyond any commonly accepted practice for reimbursement of governmental and public employee expenses. With no express authority for payment of the expenses of members' spouses, this certainly would not be an appropriate interpretation of the existing language.

According to our interpretation of the existing language of the statute, the amendment contained in LB 181 does not appear to be entirely necessary. This does not mean, however, that it is improper or in any way contrary to the existing statutory language. It merely seems to be an express clarification of legislative intention in regard to the expenses of spouses of the members of the board of directors, which would remove any doubt that anyone might have as to the proper interpretation of the existing statutory provisions.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 74

Dear Senator Maresh:

We have reviewed your letter of March 31, 1981, concerning the filing and processing of "miscellaneous claims" under Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,236 to 81-8,239 (Reissue 1976) and, in particular the claim of Joseph J. Soukup. You asked our opinion on five questions.

First, you ask whether the State Claims Board was in compliance with the requirements of Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,239 (Reissue 1976) when it approved the payment of Mr. Soukup's claim without specifying a precise dollar amount. The above statute requires only that the Board approve the claim, disapprove the claim, or approve the claim "with conditions or limitations." While the latter phrase would include approval of a claim in an amount less than claimed, the plain language would also permit approval of the claim subject to standards for determination of the dollar amount. The Board approved the claim in part leaving the precise amount to be determined by the Legislature after considering Mr. Soukup's need for vocational and medical rehabilitation services and treatment. We believe that satisfies the statutory option for approval with conditions or limitations.

Second, you inquire whether there are any statutes of limitation which apply to the payment of "miscellaneous claims." Neb.Rev.Stat. §25-218 (Reissue 1979) is a general statute which applies to all claims against the state for which there is no more specific limitation. Consequently, it appears that statute would apply to the payment of claims under Neb.Rev.Stat. §818,236 (Reissue 1976). However, the general rule, as expressed in 53 C.J.S. Limitations of Actions §6b, is that a statute of limitations bars the remedy and does not discharge the debt. Accordingly, it may be argued that even though the claimant against the state no longer has a remedy for enforcement of his claim, the state may elect to pay the debt which still exists as in the situation where the state has in fact received services or merchandise but the claimant failed to collect therefor within two years.

Your third and fourth questions are related. Does the Claims Board and Legislature have jurisdiction over Mr. Soukup's claim, being in the nature of a tort claim, and, if not would payments of the claim violate Section 18 of Article III of the Nebraska Constitution?

Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,236 (Reissue 1976) authorizes the Board to receive and investigate other claims against the state "for the payment of which no money has been appropriated." This could include various kinds of claims so long as no money was appropriated or if the appropriation lapsed. Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,225 (Reissue 1976) provides for establishment of the Tort Claims Fund from which awards and judgments for state tort liability are to be paid. The Legislature appropriates money to that fund annually so there is always money appropriated to pay tort claims. Consequently, a tort claim is not a claim "for the payment of which no money has been appropriated" and a tort claimant is not entitled to the benefits of Neb.Rev.Stat. §§81-8,236 to 81-8,239 (Reissue 1976) but must pursue his remedy under the State Tort Claims Act, Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,209 to 81-8,235 (Reissue 1976).

Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution prohibits the Legislature from passing any special laws granting to any "individual any special or exclusive privileges, immunity or franchise whatever." The Nebraska Supreme Court has held that a law waiving the state's immunity for the benefit of an individual violates this provision. Cox v. State, 134 Neb. 751, 279 N.W. 482. By the same logic the Legislature cannot waive the statute of limitations for the benefit of a few within a class. Bordy v. State, 142 Neb. 714, 7 N.W.2d 632.

The onus of the above section may be avoided by strictly following the procedures set forth in the statutes waiving immunity for a class of claims. For instance a person pursuing a tort claim must strictly follow the procedures in the State Tort Claims Act.

More specifically, assuming Mr. Soukup's claim is for the alleged tortious acts of state employees, the payment of such claim outside the ambit of the State Tort Claims Act would probably be held in violation of Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution. For the foregoing reasons it might also violate Article I, Section 16 of the Nebraska Constitution which provides that "no . . . law . . . making any irrevocable grant of special privileges or immunities shall be passed."

Fifth, you inquire whether Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,236 (Reissue 1976) expands the waiver of immunity granted in the State Tort Claims Act. In our opinion it does not expand the waiver of immunity but merely provides a procedure for hearing processing, and paying claims for which no money has been appropriated, and which the state may not be legally obligated to pay. As indicated above, however, if Mr. Soukup's claim is tortious in nature, it does not fall within the "miscellaneous claim" procedure.

In summary, it is our opinion that:

1. The State Claims Board need not specify a dollar amount to be paid on a claim it approves if it sets out a standard for determination of the amount to be paid.
2. Neb.Rev.Stat. §25-218 (Reissue 1979) appears to apply to "miscellaneous claims" but that does not preclude the payment of legitimate claims barred by the statute.
3. The State Claims Board and Legislature probably could not get jurisdiction of Mr. Soukup's "miscellaneous claim," assuming his claim is tortious in nature.
4. Payment of Mr. Soukup's "miscellaneous claim" would probably violate Article III, Section 18 and Article I, Section 16 of the Nebraska Constitution.
5. The "miscellaneous claim" statute, Neb.Rev.Stat. §81-8,236 (Reissue 1976) does not expand the waiver of immunity but provides a procedure for processing and payment of claims for which there is not appropriation.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 77

Dear Senator R. Peterson:

In your letter of April 6, 1981, you requested our opinion "as to the constitutionality of LB 184." We have reviewed the bill referenced in your letter, and we find serious questions as to the constitutional validity of this type of legislation.

LB 184 basically provides that no corporation other than a family farm or ranch corporation or an authorized farm corporation shall engage in farming or ranching in Nebraska or shall directly or indirectly own or otherwise obtain an interest in real estate used for farming or ranching in Nebraska. The bill defines a family farm or ranch corporation as a Nebraska corporation, founded for the purposes of farming or ranching and the ownership of agricultural land, in which the majority of the voting stock is held by members of a family related to one another within the fourth degree of kindred at least one of whom is a person residing on or actively engaged in the labor or management of the farm or ranch. Corporations or partnerships may not be stockholders in a family farm or ranch corporation. The bill further defines an authorized farm corporation as a corporation (a) which has no more than ten shareholders, (b) which has no more than one class of shares, (c) whose shareholders are natural persons and not nonresident aliens, and (d) whose revenue from rent, royalties, dividends, interest, and annuities does not exceed twenty percent of its gross receipts. LB 184 also contains provisions relating to further exceptions and enforcement which are not pertinent to our present discussion.

This office has issued numerous opinions on bills nearly identical or similar to LB 184 over the past several years. See, Report of the Attorney General, 1971-1972, No. 86 at page 201 and No. 118 at page 275, Report of the Attorney General, 1973-1974, No. 116 at page 159, Report of the Attorney General, 1975-1976, No. 5 at page 5 and No. 40 at page 43, Report of the Attorney General, 1977-1978, No. 44 at page 62 and No. 172 at page 258. We have attached copies of two of the more recent of these opinions to this letter for your reference.

In all of the opinions cited above, this office has repeatedly stated that legislation similar or identical to LB 184 is of suspect constitutional validity. We have variously stated that this type of legislation involves an improper and invalid legislative classification of corporations, that this type of legislation involves an improper overextension of the Legislature's police power, and that this type of legislation is in contravention of Article XII, Section 1, and Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution pertaining to special laws. We have reviewed LB 184 in light of our various earlier opinions and we have determined that LB 184 raises the same constitutional concerns as we expressed earlier.

As we have also previously stated, we are not unmindful of the importance of agriculture to the State of Nebraska and of the legislative concerns addressed in LB 184. However, we must again state, as in our earlier opinions, that the type of legislation exemplified by LB 184 does raise serious constitutional concerns and is of suspect constitutional validity.

Sincerely yours,

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 78

Dear Senator Carsten:

You have asked our opinion as to the constitutional validity of the final reading version of LB 284. The first four sections of this bill create the Political Subdivision Property Tax Relief Fund, provide that seventy million dollars shall be appropriated to it in fiscal years 1980-1981, 1981-1982, 1982-1983, and provide for its distribution to political subdivisions of the state. We have substantial doubts as to the validity of the formula for distribution.

The money in the fund is initially to be distributed to the counties, and then is to be distributed by the counties to the political subdivisions within the counties, including the counties themselves. The percentage of the fund each county is to receive for distribution is obtained by dividing the actual valuation of taxable property in the county by the actual value of taxable property in the state.

As the Supreme Court held in State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598 (1980), distributions of this sort to the various counties involve classification, with each county put in a separate class. This does not involve frozen classification, as was involved in that case, but it is classification. The Legislature may, of course, classify for purposes of legislation, but the classification "must be based on some reason of public policy, some substantial difference of situation or circumstances, that would naturally suggest the justice or expediency of diverse legislation with respect to the objects to be classified." See, City of Scottsbluff v. Tiemann, 185 Neb. 256, 175 N.W.2d 74 (1970). In order to determine the reasonableness of classification, we must look to the objects and purposes of the law. See, Skag-way Department Stores, Inc. v. City of Grand Island, 176 Neb. 169, 125 N.W.2d 529 (1964).

The bill does not attempt to state the purpose which will be served by this formula for distribution. Section 6 does mention some purposes of providing financial assistance to the political subdivisions, but it is not clear whether that section pertains to the distributions we have been describing, or only to such assistance after fiscal year 1982-1983. In any event, none of those itemized in section 6 demonstrate a logical relationship between themselves and the distribution of the funds on the basis of valuations of taxable property.

In our opinion of April 1, 1981, Opinion No. 62, we reached the conclusion that we might be able to defend the use for two years of real estate valuations of the type discussed in that opinion, because the purpose of the bill was to replace revenue lost because of the exemption of certain types of agricultural-related personal property and business inventories. We felt that a tenable argument could be made that the use of the valuations as then prescribed might roughly reflect the losses suffered by each county because of such exemptions.

We do not believe LB 284, as amended, can be construed as being reimbursement for revenues lost because of the exemptions we have mentioned. The actual losses are unascertainable, and we can see no possible relationship between such losses and assessed valuations of taxable property.

We have read a publication by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations entitled "The State of State-Local Revenue Sharing," published in December, 1980. This publication states that 49 of the states have some such revenue-sharing program, and it analyzes the formulas used in many of the states. In general these formulas either attempt to compensate taxing agencies for revenues lost because of exemptions, to relieve property tax burdens by returning sales or income tax revenues to the sources from which they originated, or to distribute state revenues to local governmental units on the basis of need. We think the distribution on the basis of assessed valuations, as provided in LB 284, meets none of those goals.

As we have said, the formula does not purport to reimburse taxing agencies for losses due to exemptions, nor does it attempt to allocate the fund on the basis of the source of state revenue. Does it allocate the money to the counties on the basis of the relative needs of the counties? We think not.

In the publication we referred to, assessed valuations were indeed used in some of the formulas, but they were used in the form of assessed valuation per capita, and increased valuation per capita led to less state aid, not more. The reasoning is that increased valuatio per capita permits the taxing subdivision to raise the necessary revenues with a lower mill levy, so that the subdivision has less need for state aid. The formulas utilizing assessed valuations have therefore distributed the money on a per capita basis, adjusted by the per capita value of the assessed valuation of taxable property, so that the higher the assessed valuation per capita, the lower the dollar amount per capita disbursed by the state.

Distributing the fund on the straight basis of assessed valuations tends to give more money to those who need it least. Let us take two counties with identical populations, with county A having assessed valuations 50 percent higher than those of county B. The need for expenditures is primarily, although not exclusively, a function of population. See, "The State of State-Local Revenue Sharing," p. 20.

The revenue needs of counties A and B should be roughly the same. County A can raise that revenue with a mill levy only two-thirds that of county B, but under the proposed formula would get 50 percent more state aid. We are confident that among the 93 counties in the state many examples will be found to demonstrate this result. We think it is an irrational result.

It may be argued that there is some relationship between assessed valuations and population, so that the more populous counties will tend to get more money than less populous ones, even though they may get less per capita. This may be true, but it would be hard to justify using this as a substitute for distributing the fund on a population basis, when the actual population figures are available. If we divorce the assessed valuations from population, we are unable to perceive any rational basis for their use in the distribution of state aid.

Our Supreme Court demonstrated in State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh that it will insist on a rational basis for distribution. It held that a distribution based on increased tax effort of a taxing subdivision was irrational. We think such a distribution was much more defensible than the one we are dealing with, based solely on the values of taxable property.

In our opinion of April 1, 1981, No. 62, we discussed a possible problem with respect to the distribution within the county, but reached the conclusion that we were prepared to defend it. The version of LB 284 we are now discussing has the same provision for distribution within the county. Again, we cannot guarantee what the court would say about it, but we feel that it is defensible.

We are therefore of the opinion that it would be difficult to defend the validity of distributing these funds to the counties in proportion to the value of the taxable property in each county.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

(2) It is the intent of the Legislature that for fiscal year 1980-81 there shall be appropriated to the Property Tax Relief Fund seventy million dollars and for ensuing fiscal years there shall be appropriated to the Property Tax Relief Fund an amount not less than the amount appropriated for the prior fiscal year.

(3) The money shall be distributed on the basis of the ratio of the total amount of all property taxes, including motor vehicle taxes, levied in the particular county during the prior calendar year to the total amount of all property taxes, including motor vehicle taxes, levied in all counties during the prior calendar year, based on the amounts stated in the certificate of taxes levied statement submitted by each county to the State Board of Equalization and Assessment pursuant to section 77-628.

Within ten days after the adjournment of each regular session of the Legislature the Tax Commissioner shall notify each county treasurer of the amount to be received by that county during the ensuing fiscal year from the Property Tax Relief Fund, and shall at the same time notify the State Treasurer of the amount to be received by every county during the ensuing fiscal year.

The State Treasurer shall, between the fifth and twentieth day of each month, notify the Director of Administrative Services of the amount of payments to be made to each county. The Director of Sec. 3. (1) Upon receipt of the information from the Tax Commissioner pursuant to section 1 of this act, the county treasurer shall within ten days notify each political subdivision receiving funds pursuant to this section of the percentage and amount of funds that each political subdivision shall receive. The county treasurer shall determine the amount of money to be received by each political subdivision within the county, including the county itself, which caused a property tax to be levied during the prior calendar year. The amount to be received by each political subdivision shall be a portion of the amount available for distribution by the county treasurer equivalent to a percentage figure obtained by dividing the amount of property tax levied within the county by the political subdivision during the prior calendar year by the total amount of property taxes levied within the county by all political subdivisions during the prior calendar year.

(2) If two or more political subdivisions within a county are merged, the share such newly merged political subdivision shall receive shall be the sum of the receipts each individual political subdivision would have received had there been no merger.

(3) If any portion or portions of a political subdivision is transferred to another political subdivision or subdivisions, the acquiring political subdivision or subdivisions shall receive a portion of the other subdivision's receipts which would have been received by the other subdivision if there had not been a transfer. The portion to be received shall be equal to the ratio of the total taxable value for the prior calendar year of the portion transferred divided by the total taxable value for the prior calendar year of the entire political subdivision including that portion transferred.

(4) If any political subdivision which has levied a property tax during the prior calendar year does not levy a tax during the ensuing calendar year, then the county treasurer shall recalculate all percentages determined pursuant to this section as if such political subdivision had not levied any property tax during the prior calendar year.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 79

April 20, 1981

Re: Constitutionality of LB 243

Dear Senator Vickers:

We are responding to your request that we review the constitutionality of LB 243 under the United States and Nebraska constitutions.

LB 243 is an act to amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3234 (Reissue 1977), relating to Natural Resource Districts by restricting their power of eminent domain. Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3234 (Reissue 1977) grants eminent domain to Natural Resource Districts when necessary to carry out their purposes. LB 243 would restrict the power of eminent domain to prevent its use "to acquire property for a project of which 50 percent or more of the benefits are recreational." Section 2 of LB 243 reads as follows: "The restriction on the use of eminent domain provided in subsection (2) of section 2-3234 shall apply to all proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." The question to be determined is whether section 2 of LB 243 is an ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts violating Article I, Section 16 of the Nebraska Constitution or deprives persons of property without due process of law contrary to the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution.

It has long been recognized in this state that a statute may not operate retroactively where it would impair the obligation of a contract or interfere with a vested right. State ex rel. Douglas v.

Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, 204 Neb. 445, 464, 283 N.W.2d 12 (1979). It was long ago recognized by the United States Supreme Court in Hodges v. Snyder, 261 U.S. 600 (1923) that private vested rights of parties cannot be taken away by subsequent legislation. A statute will not be applied retroactively, even where such legislative intent is clear, where the effect would be to impair vested rights or contracts. Mooney v. Drainage District No. 1 of Richardson County, 134 Neb. 192, 278 N.W. 368 (1938); Karer v. Karer, 190 Neb. 610, 211 N.W.2d 116 (1973). Where its effect would be unconstitutional, its application would be limited to be prospective.

However, vested rights and obligations held by the state may be treated differently than rights held by private persons. In Mooney v. Drainage District No. 1 of Richardson County, supra, our court stated:

> The state by an amendatory or repealing legislative act, operating retroactively . . . may release penalties imposed for the protection or benefit of the state under a former statute. By the same method the state may abandon its own claims and rights, if not forbidden by the Constitution. But private property rights acquired under the statutes and established by valid judgments of courts are not subject to legislative invasion by means of new statutes.

Id. at 134 Neb. 199. The court in Mooney v. Drainage District No. 1, supra, relied upon the United States Supreme Court decision in Hodges v. Snyder, supra, which held that a subsequent legislative act affecting public rather than private vested rights was constitutionally permissible. A more recent recognition of this principle is found in de Rodulfa v. United States, 461 F.2d 1240, 1252 note 61, (D.C.Cir. 1972) rehearing denied; cert. denied, 409 U.S. 949.

It has been recognized by our supreme court in Ritter v. Drainage District No. 1 of Otoe and Johnson Counties, 137 Neb. 866, 291 N.W. 718 (1940) that a legislative act and the proceedings thereunder may lead to and create contracts between the state and individuals or corporations which will thereafter become protected pursuant to Article I, Section 16. In this case the court found that the act, the proceedings thereunder and the payments by the landowners for drainage created contracts protected under the Constitution. Id. at 870.

LB 243 restricts use of eminent domain to "acquire property," and seeks to apply to "all proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." Acquisition of property is essentially accomplished when the Petition for Condemnation is filed in the county court. Chaloupka v. State Department of Roads, 176 Neb. 746, 127 N.W.2d 291, 297 (1964).

The right of the condemner to the property has been determined by the act of filing the Petition, and the only issue remaining is the compensation of the condemnee for the damages he has suffered. The only exception is challenge by the condemnee's Answer to the Petition of the condemner's right to take this property. If such a challenge is made, then the right of acquisition is not determined until after a final judgment to which no appeal is taken Krauter v. Lower Big Blue Natural Resource District, 199 Neb. 431, 259 N.W.2d 472 (1977). In the ordinary case described first above, the final adjudication of the propriety of the taking by eminent domain has been accomplished by the filing of the Petition in county court. However, where the condemnee challenges the authority for condemnation of his property, this is not complete until the litigation finally terminates without further appeal.

In conclusion, we do not know whether any contracts or other vested interests have been created for private persons in "proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." This act would extinguish vested rights and obligations which exist benefiting the state or its political subdivisions. Should the act affect private vested rights and contracts, it would not be declared unconstitutional, but applied prospectively only.

The act is therefore valid under the Nebraska and United States Constitutions.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Re: Constitutionality of LB 243

Dear Senator Sieck:

We are responding to your request that we review the constitutionality of LB 243 under the United States and Nebraska constitutions.

LB 243 is an act to amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3234 (Reissue 1977), relating to Natural Resource Districts by restricting their power of eminent domain. Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3234 (Reissue 1977) grants eminent domain to Natural Resource Districts when necessary to carry out their purposes. However, vested rights and obligations held by the state may be treated differently than rights held by private persons. In Mooney v. Drainage District No. 1 of Richardson County, supra, our court stated:

LB 243 restricts use of eminent domain to "acquire property," and seeks to apply to "all proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." Acquisition of property is essentially accomplished when the Petition for Condemnation is filed in the county court. Chaloupka v. State Department of Roads, 176 Neb. 746, 127 N.W.2d 291, 297 (1964). If such a challenge is made, then the right of acquisition is not determined until after a final judgment to which no appeal is taken Krauter v. Lower Big Blue Natural Resource District, 100 Neb. 431, 259 N.W.2d 274 (1977). In the ordinary case described first above, the final adjudication of the propriety of the taking by eminent domain has been accomplished by the filing of the Petition in county court. However, where the condemnee challenges the authority for condemnation of his property, this is not complete until the litigation finally terminates without further appeal.

In conclusion, we do not know whether any contracts or other vested interests have been created for private persons in "proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act." This act would extinguish vested rights and obligations which exist benefiting the state or its political subdivisions. Should the act affect private vested rights and contracts, it would not be declared unconstitutional, but applied prospectively only.

The act is therefore valid under the Nebraska and United States Constitutions.

You next question whether LB 243 is unconstitutional for vagueness in its failure to define the criteria to be used in determining whether the project has a purpose which is 50 per cent or more recreational.

It is a general rule of statutory construction that a statute is open to construction only where the language used requires interpretation or may reasonably be considered ambiguous. State ex rel. Halloran v. Hawes, 203 Neb. 405, 279 N.W.2d 96 (1979). Where the words of the statute are plain, direct, and unambiguous, no interpretation is needed to ascertain the meaning. It is not within the province of the court to read a meaning into a statute that is not warranted by the legislative language nor to read out language which is plain and direct and unambiguous. Cochran v. County of Lincoln, 203 Neb. 818, 280 N.W.2d 897 (1979). A court should do whatever reasonable to give an Act a constitutional interpretation. PPG Industries Canada Ltd. v. Kreuscher, 204 Neb. 20, 280 N.W.2d 762 (1979). In interpreting a statute a court will refer to the whole Act and purpose served by it; a word used repeatedly will have the same meaning throughout. PPG Industries Canada Ltd. v. Kreuscher, Id., 281 N.W.2d at 767-768.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3229 (Supp. 1980) lists the 12 purposes for which the Natural Resource Districts are created. These include erosion prevention and control, prevention of damages from floods, flood prevention and control, soil conservation, water supply, development and conservation of ground and surface water, polution control, solid waste disposal and sanitary drainage, drainage improvement, development and management of fish and wildlife habitat, development and management of recreational and park facilities and forestry and range management. These are the purposes for which eminent domain may be used pursuant to Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3234. Reading LB 243 in light of Neb.Rev.Stat. §2-3229 (Supp. 1980) provides sufficient definition to remove any question of ambiguity in the word "recreational."

We find that LB 243 is not ambiguous or vague and is a valid act.

Opinion No. 81
April 23, 1981

Dear Senator Beutler:

In your letter of April 14, 1981, you stated that LB 331 provides for a $50,000 gratuity to be awarded to the developer of the best high protein food made from distillers' grain or the process of ethanol distillation. You then requested our opinion as to whether LB 331 violates:

A. Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution prohibiting the lending of the credit of the state.

B. Article III, Section 19 of the Nebraska Constitution prohibiting the payment of any extra compensation for services rendered.

C. Any other provision of the Nebraska Constitution.

We have reviewed LB 331 in light of your request, and our conclusions are set forth below.

LB 331 provides that the Nebraska Gasohol Committee shall encourage the development and subsequent production of high protein food products for human consumption which have been derived from distillers' grain or the process of ethanol distillation. The bill further provides that the Nebraska Gasohol Committee shall evaluate all such high protein food products under criteria set forth in the legislation. The provision of LB 331 which you have questioned provides that the Nebraska Gasohol Committee may award a $50,000 development gratuity to a person whose high protein food product best meets the criteria set forth in the bill. A ''person'' eligible for this $50,000 development gratuity includes any individual, firm, partnership, association, or corporation.

Article III, Section 19 of the Nebraska Constitution provides, in pertinent part:

> The Legislature shall never grant any extra compensation to any public officer, agent, or servant after the services have been rendered nor to any contractor after the contract has been entered into, except that retirement benefits of retired public officers and employees may be adjusted to reflect changes in the cost of living and wage levels that have occurred subsequent to the date of retirement, . . .

On the basis of this language, LB 331 does appear valid under Article III, Section 19. This constitutional provision specifically applies to public officers, agents, servants or persons who contract with the state. The persons entitled to the development gratuity under LB 331 would not have this employment or contractual relationship with state government. Therefore, LB 331 appears to be valid based upon the limitations of the language of Article III, Section 19 of the Nebraska Constitution.

While we have concluded that LB 331 does not violate Article III, Section 19 of the Nebraska Constitution, we have serious concerns as to the constitutional validity of LB 331 under Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution.

Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution deals with lending the credit of the state and provides, in part:

> The credit of the state shall never be given or loaned in aid of any individual, association, or corporation, . . .

Our Supreme Court has stated that this constitutional provision prohibits the Legislature from appropriating the public monies of the state to encourage private enterprises. Oxnard Beet Sugar Co. v. State, 73 Neb. 57, 105 N.W. 716 (1905). More recently, in State ex rel. Beck v. City of York, 164 Neb. 223, 82 N.W.2d 269 (1957), our Supreme Court stated:

> It is clear that the framers of our Constitution had in mind a prohibition against giving or loaning the credit of the State or any subdivision thereof for a purely private purpose. This supports the fundamental principle that public moneys may not be used for private purposes. . . . It is the plain intention of this provision [Article XIII, Section 3] that state government, including political subdivisions thereof, shall not extend credit in aid of private persons and private enterprises.

Id. at 225, 82 N.W.2d at 271. Under this case law, it is clear that state monies may not be appropriated to private persons for essentially private purposes. While LB 331 contains a recital of public purpose, it appears to us that a development gratuity paid by the state to a private person for the development of a new product does entail the payment of state monies for a private purpose. Therefore, we feel that the development gratuity provisions in LB 331 are of suspect constitutional validity under Article XIII, Section 3 of the Nebraska Constitution.

We are aware that recent cases have evidenced a more liberal interpretation of the public purpose doctrine in relation to the expenditure of state monies, and have indicated that the purpose involved in the use of state funds controls over the entity selected for receipt of those funds. United Community Services v. Omaha National Bank, 162 Neb. 786, 77 N.W.2d 576 (1956), State ex rel. Douglas v. Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund, 204 Neb. 445, 283 N.W.2d 12 (1979), State ex rel. Douglas v. Thone, 204 Neb. 836, 286 N.W.2d 249 (1979). However, we feel that these cases are distinguishable from the current situation, and, in any event, the facts presented by LB 331 are on point with the Oxnard case, supra. In the Oxnard case, the state appropriated public funds as a bounty to encourage private corporations to increase the production of sugar and chicory. Our Supreme Court found this expenditure of public funds to be unconstitutional.

We note one further concern in relation to part C of your letter of April 14th. In previous opinions, we have stated that substantive legislative provisions should not be included in the same bill along with appropriation legislation. See Report of the Attorney General, 1975-1976, No. 215 at p. 296. and Report of the Attorney General, 1977-1978, No. 241 at p. 368. Our concern in this regard is that the various constitutional provisions relating to appropriation bills indicate that appropriation bills must be restricted to making appropriations only and should not enact substantive legislation. If LB 331 is read to make a specific appropriation to the Nebraska Gasohol Committee in addition to its substantive legislative provisions, it could well be of suspect constitutional validity for that reason.

Sincerly yours,

Opinion No. 82
April 23, 1981

Dear Senator Goodrich:

You have submitted to us a proposed amendment to LB 3, and have asked our opinion as to its validity. It would amend Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2704 (Supp. 1980), by making the following exempt from sales and use tax:

> New manufacturing and processing equipment purchased on or after January 1, 1982, for use directly in manufacturing or processing operations located in a manufacturing facility of new construction begun on or after July 1, 1981. For purposes of this subdivision, the term new construction shall not include an expansion or renovation of an existing facility, unless such facility is expanded or renovated for purposes of enabling different manufacturing or processing operations.

Our first concern about this amendment is its precise meaning. Is the exemption intended to give a permanent exemption to new manufacturing and processing equipment purchased after January 1, 1982, for installation in a manufacturing facility, the construction of which was begun after July 1, 1981, or is it intended to give the exemption only to such equipment when the facility is new? In other words, does the exemption apply only to the equipment initially installed in the facility, or does it apply to replacement equipment which might be installed years later, when the original equipment has worn out or become obsolete? In reading the amendment we are left in doubt as to which result is intended, because it can be argued that the facility was built "new" after July 1, 1981, and therefore new equipment installed in it will always be exempt. On the other hand, it can be argued that the facility is not "new" after it has been used for manufacturing or processing purposes, and that therefore replacement equipment is not exempt, unless the plant is "expanded or renovated for purposes of enabling different manufacturing or processing operations."

If we construe the amendment to grant the exemption only to equipment originally installed in a new facility, we believe the exemption can be successfully defended. The question, of course, is whether we are dealing with unreasonable class legislation, and to answer that question we must look to the purpose of the legislation.

The general class is "purchasers of tangible personal property," members of which are ordinarily subject to the sales and use tax. A subclass is made by the amendment of "purchasers of new manufacturing and processing equipment purchased on or after January 1, 1982." A further subclassification is made of "purchasers of such equipment for installation in a manufacturing facility of new construction begun after July 1, 1981."

Article III, section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution forbids unreasonable class legislation, but the cases have repeatedly said that classification is proper if the special class has some reasonable distinction from other subjects of like general character, which distinction bears some reasonable relation to the legitimate objects and purposes of the legislation. See, e.g., Gossman v. State Employees Retirement Systems, 177 Neb. 326, 129 N.W.2d 97 (1964). The statement of intent as to this amendment states that it is designed to encourage new industry to locate in this state by exempting its machinery from sales and use tax upon entry into the state. This is certainly a legitimate legislative purpose, and we are not prepared to say that the granting of such an exemption is unconstitutionally unreasonable. A distinction can be made between factories which are already in existence, or the construction of which has been begun, and those begun after July 1, 1981, on the ground that the exemption might induce someone to build a new factory, after the exemption has been granted, whereas the exemption would have no such effect upon one, the construction of which had already begun or had been completed. The reason for denying the exemption to the latter class would be to minimize the revenue loss caused by the exemption.

If, however, the amendment is construed to give a permanent exemption to purchasers of such equipment for installation in factories built after July 1, 1981, we believe the court would find unreasonable class legislation. This would involve frozen classification, not so much of the class granted the exemption, but of the class to which it is denied.

If, twenty years from now, the owners of two factories were to buy new manufacturing equipment to replace obsolete or worn out equipment, and one was required to pay sales or use taxes on the purchase, and the other was not, solely on the basis that one factory was built in 1980 and the other in 1982, the court would be hard-pressed to find such result fair and reasonable.

The owners of the factory built in 1980 would find it impossible to ever get out of the tax paying class, except by building a new factory, or renovating their factory for a different manufacturing operation. Their competitor, forever into the future, would have a competitive advantage over them of not having to pay sales tax on the purchase of such equipment.

The courts have upheld so-called grandfather clauses, by which someone engaged in a particular occupation on a certain date is not required to prove qualifications required of later entrants into the field. The theory is that those already in the field are presumed to have such qualifications by experience. See, State ex rel. Meyer v. Knutson, 178 Neb. 375, 133 N.W.2d 577 (1965). Also, real estate devoted to a certain use on the effective date of a zoning ordinance may be permitted to be used for that purpose, as a nonconforming use, so that there is not too much disruption of going businesses.

Here, however, we would have the opposite of a grandfather clause. The existing factories would permanently be denied a benefit granted to new factories. It can be argued that giving a prospective manufacturer such a permanent advantage might make it even more attractive for him to come into the state, and so advance the purpose of the bill, but we believe the court would find frozen classification, and strike it down. See, State ex. rel. Ralston v. Turner, 141 Neb. 556, 4 N.W.2d 302 (1942), and City of Scottsbluff v. Tiemann, 185 Neb. 256, 175 N.W.2d 74 (1970).

Usually the frozen class is one which new people or entities are unable to get into. Here the class would be one which the present members (those using facilities constructed before July 1, 1981) would be unable to get out of. We can see no difference in principle.

We are therefore of the opinion that if the amendment is construed to give the exemption to new equipment to be initially installed in a new facility, construction of which was begun after July 1, 1981, it is defensible. If it is construed to give a permanent exemption, which would cover replacement equipment, or equipment purchased after the facility was no longer "new," it would be difficult to defend. In any event, the amendment should be made more clear, so that the court is not required to speculate what the Legislature intended.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 83
April 24, 1981

Dear Senator Labedz:

You have asked us to reconsider Attorney General Opinion #71 (April 8, 1981) with special emphasis on Planned Parenthood of Central Missouri v. Danforth, 428 U.S. 52 (1976), and Maher v. Roe, 432 U.S. 464 (1977), insofar as they allow some regulation by the states during the first trimester of the pregnancy and allow abortions to be treated differently than other medical procedures.

In our earlier opinion we cited Roe v. Wade, 410 U.S. 113 (1973), and Doe v. Bolton, 410 U.S. 179 (1973), as establishing that abortion is a legitimate medical procedure, subject to limitations by the state for compelling state interests, i.e., the health of the mother after the first trimester and an interest in potential life after viability. Both cases emphasized that up to those points the abortion decision was inherently and primarily a medical decision.

Danforth was the "logical and anticipated corollary" to those two cases. It considered eight sections of a Missouri law dealing with abortions, it upheld four and found four invalid. One section it upheld required a woman to certify in writing, prior to submitting to an abortion during the first 12 weeks of pregnancy, that she consents to the procedure and that her consent is informed and freely given and is not the result of coercion.

The district court had upheld the provision, noting that the consent requirement did not single out the abortion procedure, but merely included it within the category of medical operations for which consent is required. The Supreme Court refrained from characterizing prior written consent to surgery as the universal practice of the medical profession. It emphasized that the decision to abort is an important and often a stressful one and it is desirable and imperative that it be made with full knowledge of its nature and consequences. It held it was constitutional for the state to require her prior written consent. However, it cautioned against defining "informed consent" so as to confine the attending physician in a straitjacket in the practice of his profession.

The Court in Danforth also upheld recordkeeping requirements covering abortions in the first trimester which were reasonably directed to preservation of maternal health and which properly respected the patient's confidentiality and privacy.

In Maher v. Roe, 432 U.S. 646 (1977), the Court held that the Constitution does not require a state participating in the Medicaid program to pay for nontherapeutic abortions when it pays for childbirth. (This was extended in Harris v. McRae, 448 U.S. ____ (1980). The Court in that case held both the federal government and the states can encourage childbirth by paying for it but not paying for abortions even when they are medically necessary.)

The differing treatments for childbirth and abortion were considered in Maher in light of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to see if the state legislation operated to the disadvantage of some suspect class or impinged upon a fundamental right protected by the Constitution or, if not, to see if the state legislation rationally furthered some legitimate articulated state purpose.

The Court held that the legislation did not operate to the disadvantage of a suspect class because financial need alone does not identify such a class for purposes of equal protection analysis.

The Court reiterated its holding in Wade that the Fourteenth Amendment afforded constitutional protection to a woman's decision to terminate her pregnancy and that the state's interest in the health of the pregnant woman justified state regulation related to that concern in the second trimester and that the state's interest in the potential life of the fetus at viability, usually in the third trimester, justifies prohibition with criminal penalties except where the life or health of the mother is threatened.

In concluding that the Connecticut regulation denying Medicaid benefits for nontherapeutic abortions in the first trimester of pregnancy did not impinge on the fundamental right recognized in Wade, the Court said:

> Our conclusion signals no retreat from Roe [v. Wade] or the cases applying it. There is a basic difference between direct state interference with a protected activity and state encouragement of an alternative activity consonant with legislative policy.

(Emphasis added.) Supra at 475. The Court likened a state encouraging childbirth instead of abortion by funding childbirth but not abortion to the state encouraging public education by funding it but not funding parochial education which it cannot prohibit.

In addition to recordkeeping and informed consent allowed during the first trimester, the Court has recently held in H. L. v. Matheson, 41 CCH S.Ct.Bull. p. B-1487 (March 23, 1981), that a state can require parental consultation prior to an abortion in the first trimester on an immature, dependent, unmarried child living at home. The court cited interests of the state in family integrity, protecting adolescents and the role of the parents in child rearing. However, the emphasis was on insuring that such child's decision to abort was made only with full knowledge of its nature and consequences.

Our conclusion in Attorney General Opinion #71 that both of the proposed amendments in LB 466 were probably unconstitutional was based primarily on state law, i.e., improper use of the police power to stifle legitimate business and improper classification not reasonably related to the purposes of the underlying legislation being amended. We suggested that there might also be a chilling of the exercise of constitutional rights. The financial encouragement of childbirth upheld in Maher and McRae and the insurance of informed consent upheld in Danforth and H.L. are not an endorsement of all classifications giving preferred status to medical procedures other than abortions. They do not change our earlier conclusion that the proposed amendments in LB 466 are probably unconstitutional.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

MOTION - Return LB 284 to Select File

(Final Reading Copy)

1. Strike the original sections and all amendments thereto and insert the following new sections:

"Section 1. It is the intent of the Legislature that replacement revenue for local taxing agencies as a result of exemptions allowed on certain classes of personal property not be shifted to other classes of property subject to taxation. Since (1) agricultural income-producing machinery and equipment, livestock, feed, fertilizer, and farm inventory, grain and seed, and poultry, fish, honey bees, and fur-bearing animals were exemptions related to agriculture and (2) business inventory was an exemption related to commerce and industry, the tax basis for distributing financial assistance pursuant to sections 1 to 5 of this act is hereby recognized and established.

Sec. 2. (1) For fiscal years 1980-81 and 1981-82 the Legislature shall appropriate seventy million dollars from the General Fund to a special fund to be known as the Local Government Revenue Fund, which fund is hereby created. Any money in such fund available for investment shall be invested by the state investment officer pursuant to sections 72-1237 to 72-1269.

(2) For fiscal years 1980-81 and 1981-82 the Legislature shall annually appropriate and distribute seventy million dollars from the Local Government Revenue Fund. Of such funds appropriated, thirty-seven million nine hundred seventy-seven thousand six hundred dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of agricultural real estate within the state, thirty-one million twenty-two thousand four hundred dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of commercial-industrial real estate in the state, and one million dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of suburban-residential real estate within the state.

(3) For purposes of subsection (2) of this section (a) actual value of agricultural real estate shall mean the total actual value of all agricultural lands, lots, and improvements in this state computed by adding the actual value of dry cropland, irrigated cropland, rangeland and meadow, pasture land, wasteland, agricultural improvements, and agricultural land or lots in each county as reported in lines 14 through 18, 20, 29, and 30 of the most current County Abstract of Assessment Form 45, (b) actual value of commercial-industrial real estate shall mean the total actual value of all suburban commercial land or lots, suburban commercial improvements, suburban industrial land or lots, suburban industrial improvements, commercial land or lots, commercial improvements, industrial land or lots, and industrial improvements in this state computed by adding the actual value of real estate in each county as reported in lines 23 to 26 and 33 to 36 of the most current County Abstract of Assessment Form 45, and (c) actual value of suburban-residential real estate shall mean the total actual value of all suburban residential land or lots, suburban residential improvements, unimproved lots, residential land or lots, and residential improvements in this state computed by adding the actual value of real estate in each county as reported in lines 21, 22, 28, 31, and 32 of the most recent County Abstract of Assessment Form 45. For fiscal year 1980-81 funds shall be distributed based on the 1980 County Abstract of Assessment Form 45 as equalized by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment and for fiscal year 1981-82 funds shall be distributed based on the 1981 County Abstract of Assessment Form 45 as equalized by the State Board of Equalization and Assessment.

Sec. 3. Each county shall receive a share of the funds distributed pursuant to section 2 of this act based on the percentage figure obtained by dividing the total actual value of agricultural, commercial-industrial, and suburban-residential real estate in the county by the total actual value of agricultural, commercial-industrial, and suburban-residential real estate in the state. The Tax Commissioner shall determine the amount to be distributed to the various counties for distribution to the political subdivisions within such county and shall certify such amounts to the Director of Administrative Services. Each amount shall be distributed in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments between the fifth and twentieth day of each month beginning December 5, 1980, and December 5, 1981. For fiscal year 1980-81 the fund shall be distributed according to the same schedule except that any monthly payment not made prior to the effective date of this act shall be added to the initial payment made following the effective date of this act. The State Treasurer shall, between the fifth and twentieth day of each month, notify the Director of Administrative Services of the amount of funds available in the General Fund for payment purposes. The Director of Administrative Services shall, upon receipt of such notification, draw warrants against funds appropriated.

Sec. 4. Each political subdivision or portion of a political subdivision within a county, including the county itself, with authority to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied shall receive a share of the funds distributed to the county in an amount equivalent to the percentage figure obtained by dividing the amount of property tax levied within the county by the political subdivision during the prior calendar year by the total amount of property tax levied within the county by all political subdivisions during the prior calendar year.

Such amount shall be distributed by the county treasurer in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments beginning December 5, 1980, and December 5, 1981. For fiscal year 1980-81 the fund shall be distributed according to the same schedule except that any monthly payment not made prior to the effective date of this act shall be added to the initial payment made following the effective date of this act.

Sec. 5. (1) If two or more political subdivisions within a county are merged, the share such newly merged political subdivision shall receive shall be the sum of the receipts each individual political subdivision would have received had there been no merger.

(2) If a political subdivision authorized to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied is newly created, such political subdivision shall receive, commencing the first year such levy generates tax receipts, a share of the funds distributed to political subdivisions within a county computed pursuant to sections 2 to 4 of this act.

Sec. 6. That Laws 1980, LB 1002, section 5, be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 5. Agency No. 12 -- State Treasurer

(1) Program No. 146 - Aid to Governmental Subdivisions

GENERAL FUND	12,600,000
PROGRAM TOTAL	12,600,000

~~(2) Program No. 147 Personal Property Tax Relief~~

~~GENERAL FUND~~	~~70,000,000~~
~~PROGRAM TOTAL~~	~~70,000,000~~

For Informational Purposes Only: Total Appropriations to Agency No. 12 and Fund Source

GENERAL FUND	~~82,600,000~~
	12,600,000
AGENCY TOTAL	~~82,600,000~~
	12,600,000

Sec. 7. (1) The Legislature hereby finds that (a) in some instances political subdivisions have added programs or services as a result of state action and have not received any additional assistance from the state to aid them in meeting these new responsibilities, (b) the limitation placed on the budgets of political subdivisions has made it difficult for the political subdivisions to continue to provide all the necessary programs and services, and (c) since certain types of agricultural-related personal property and business-related inventories were exempted from taxation as a result of previous legislative action, it is necessary for the state to provide financial assistance to political subdivisions to insure the continuation of vital programs and services.

(2) It is the responsibility of the Legislature to provide laws which promote uniform and equitable taxation. The Legislature is responsible for providing state tax system and has the right to apportion the impact of such tax system in any manner that is consistent with the application of appropriate laws which reflect property values, personal income, and other economic activities. The Legislature hereby finds that the best interests of the state are served by providing uniform property tax relief based on the value of all property and the Legislature's choice to provide a shift in tax burden from property to sales and income is a legitimate and proper function of the Legislature.

(3) Sections 8 to 12 of this act do not purport to reimburse political subdivisions for losses due to certain personal property tax exemptions, but provide state financial assistance through property tax relief to various political subdivisions of the State of Nebraska.

Sec. 8. For fiscal year 1982-83 and each fiscal year thereafter the Legislature shall appropriate seventy million dollars from the General Fund to a special fund, to be known as the Political Subdivision Property Tax Relief Fund, which fund is hereby created. Any money in such fund available for investment shall be invested by the state investment officer pursuant to sections 72-1237 to 72-1269.

Sec. 9. For fiscal year 1982-83 and each fiscal year thereafter each county shall receive an amount from the Political Subdivision Property Tax Relief Fund based on the percentage figure obtained by dividing the actual valuation of real and personal property in the county by the actual valuation of real and personal property in the state based on the values stated in the most recent certificate of taxes levied pursuant to section 77-628. The Tax Commissioner shall determine the amount to be distributed to the various counties for distribution to the political subdivisions within such county and shall certify such amounts to the Director of Administrative Services. Each amount shall be distributed in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments between the fifth and twentieth day of each month beginning December 5, 1982, and each December 5 thereafter. The State Treasurer shall, between the fifth and twentieth day of each month, notify the Director of Administrative Services of the amount of funds available in the General Fund for payment purposes. The Director of Administrative Services shall, upon receipt of such notification, draw warrants against funds appropriated.

Sec. 10. Each political subdivision or portion of a political subdivision within a county, including the county itself, with authority to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied shall receive a share of the funds distributed to the county in an amount equivalent to the percentage figure obtained by dividing the amount of property tax levied within the county by the political subdivision during the prior calendar year by the total amount of property tax levied within the county by all political subdivisions during the prior calendar year. Such amount shall be distributed by the county treasurer in seven as nearly as possible equal monthly payments beginning December 5, 1982, and each December 5 thereafter.

Sec. 11. (1) If two or more political subdivisions within a county are merged, the share such newly merged political subdivision shall receive shall be the sum of the receipts each individual political subdivision would have received had there been no merger.

(2) If a political subdivision authorized to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied is newly created, such political subdivision shall receive, commencing the first year such levy generates tax receipts, a share of the funds distributed to political subdivisions within a county computed pursuant to sections 11 and 12 of this act.

Sec. 12. Sections 1 to 5 of this act shall terminate on July 1, 1982.

Sec. 13. If any section in this act or any part of any section shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining portions thereof.

Sec. 14. That Laws 1980, LB 1002, section 5, and also sections 77-3601 to 77-3604, Revised Statutes Supplement, 1980, and Laws 1980, LB 882 A, are repealed.

Sec. 15. Since an emergency exists, this act shall be in full force and take effect, from and after its passage and approval, according to law.".

1. That the 97th Congress be urged to take prompt action in amending the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 to remove this unnecessary and unwarranted restriction.

Since (1) agricultural income-producing machinery and equipment, livestock, feed, fertilizer, and farm inventory, grain and seed, and poultry, fish, honey bees, and fur-bearing animals were exemptions related to agriculture and (2) business inventory was an exemption related to commerce and industry, the tax basis for distributing financial assistance pursuant to sections 1 to 5 of this act is hereby recognized and established.

Sec. 2. (1) For fiscal year 1980-81 the Legislature shall appropriate seventy million dollars and for fiscal year 1981-82 the Legislature shall appropriate twenty-nine million dollars from the General Fund to a special fund to be known as the Local Government Revenue Fund, which fund is hereby created. Any money in such fund available for investment shall be invested by the state investment officer pursuant to sections 72-1237 to 72-1269.

(2) For fiscal years 1980-81 and 1981-82 the Legislature shall annually appropriate and distribute the money from the Local Government Revenue Fund. Of such funds appropriated, for fiscal year 1980-81 thirty-seven million nine hundred seventy-seven thousand six hundred dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of agricultural real estate within the state, thirty-one million twenty-two thousand four hundred dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of commercial-industrial real estate in the state, and one million dollars shall be distributed based on the actual value of suburban-residential real estate within the state. Sec. 5. (1) If two or more political subdivisions within a county are merged, the share such newly merged political subdivision shall receive shall be the sum of the receipts each individual political subdivision would have received had there been no merger.

(2) If a political subdivision authorized to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied is newly created, such political subdivision shall receive, commencing the first year such levy generates tax receipts, a share of the funds distributed to political subdivisions within a county computed pursuant to sections 2 to 4 of this act.

RESOLUTION

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 67.

Introduced by Beutler, 28th District.

PURPOSE:
The purpose of this study is to examine the feasibility of consolidating the municipal courts into the county court system. Omaha and Lincoln are financially responsible for the only two municipal courts in Nebraska which have concurrent jurisdiction with county courts. The Office of the State Court Administrator, under the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, has the direct financial and administrative responsibility for the county courts, but not of the municipal courts. The State pays for ninety percent (90%) of the expenses of the county courts, but for no expenses of the municipal courts, although the State dictates mandates that impact the cost of these courts. This study shall include, but not be limited to, an examination of:

(1) statutory changes necessary to enact consolidation and to transfer authority and financial responsibility of the municipal courts;

(2) procedures necessary to administer the consolidated courts;

(3) court personnel wages and benefits;

(4) the financial responsibility of the State, counties and cities after such a proposed consolidation; and

(5) possible Constitutional issues involved in such changes.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 87
April 30, 1981

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

You have asked us to examine the latest amendments to LB 284, and to give our opinion as to the distribution system it sets up for fiscal years 1980-1981 and 1981-1982, and also the system set up for 1982-1983 and subsequent fiscal years.

Sections 1 through 5 of the bill, as amended on April 27, provide for distribution of seventy million dollars in 1980-1981 and the same sum in 1981-1982. The basis of distribution is basically the same as that which we discussed in our Opinion No. 62, issued April 1, 1981, the only apparent difference being that in the version discussed in that opinion, the distribution for 1980-1981 was to be $72,500,000, instead of $70,000,000. In that opinion we said that there were numerous difficult questions raised by the sections in question, and that we could not predict with any assurance what the court would say when confronted by them, but that if one defect was corrected (which has been corrected in the present version) we would attempt to defend the validity of the first five sections of the bill. We have no reason to change our position in this regard.

Sections 7 through 11 of the amended bill provide for distributions to the state's political subdivisions for fiscal year 1982-1983 and following years. The basis of the distribution to the counties is the actual valuation of real and personal property in the counties, each county to get a percentage of the fund to be distributed equal to its percentage of all such real and personal property in the state. It is substantially identical to the system for distribution we discussed in our Opinion No. 78, issued April 14, 1981. In that opinion we reached the conclusion that assessed valuations, divorced from population, did not form a rational basis for the distribution of state aid. We are still of that opinion.

Section 13 of the bill is a severability clause. We believe that there is not so much correlation between sections 1 to 5 and sections 7 to 11 that the invalidity of one of those two portions of the bill would necessarily invalidate the other, in view of section 13. However, our court has said that a severability clause is merely an aid to interpretation, and not an inexorable command. See, Tom and Jerry, Inc. v. Nebraska Liquor Control Commission, 183 Neb. 410, 160 N.W.2d 232 (1968), and State ex rel. Meyer v. Duxbury, 183 Neb. 302, 160 N.W.2d 88 (1968). In spite of that clause, the court will examine the whole act, and its history, to see if the invalid parts could be eliminated without destroying the entire plan of the act, and whether the invalid parts constituted such an inducement to the passage of the act that the Legislature would not have passed it with the invalid portions omitted. In this instance, however, we believe the act is severable.

You express your concern about the possibility of some taxpayer's filing a suit challenging the act, and getting a temporary injunction against the distribution of the fund, or, in the alternative, ultimately prevailing and forcing a return to the state treasury of funds distributed under the bill.

Both of those are possibilities. If a private citizen brought the action, we suppose a court would require, before issuing a temporary injunction, that he post a bond, as required by Neb.Rev. Stat. §25-1067 (Reissue 1979). In view of the amount of money involved, we suppose the bond would be too large for any private citizen to post. However, we call your attention to Neb.Rev.Stat. §14-817 (Reissue 1977), which provides that a city of the metropolitan class is not required to post bonds. Conceivably, an action could be brought in the name of the City of Omaha and a temporary injunction could be issued without a bond's being posted.

You also ask about what would happen if money were distributed under a formula subsequently found to be unconstitutional. It would be difficult to argue that the money so disbursed should not be returned to the state treasury.

If the formula is unconstitutional, the money will have been wrongfully disbursed, and, it would appear, should be returned. In State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598 (1980), the court granted a temporary restraining order, and in that order stated that if the funds were distributed, and if the distribution were later found to be unconstitutional, the funds distributed would be required to be refunded.

We cannot give you a definite answer at this time as to the exact procedure that would be used to secure the refunds. Pretty clearly the court could not order each political subdivision in the state to repay the funds, because such subdivisions would not be parties to the action. The court might order the treasurer to withhold sums otherwise distributable to them until the refunds had been accomplished. We believe there is no statute covering this exact situation, nor any precedent, in this state, at least, but the court, in the exercise of its equity powers, could order the refunds to be accomplished, in some manner, including, if necessary, suits against the individual political subdivisions.

An attack on LB 284 would probably be brought in district court, as factual findings might be necessary. If so, we would be fortunate to have the case decided by the district court and the appeal perfected to the Supreme Court in much less than a year. Then, assuming that the Supreme Court would give the case top priority, it would take at least six months to get a decision out of the Supreme Court. It would be unrealistic to expect a final decision before very late in 1982, unless the courts and opposing counsel were very cooperative and gave the case very high priority.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Sec. 9. That section 66-618, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

66-618. For the purpose of determining the amount of his or her liability for the tax imposed by the provisions of sections 66-601 to 66-640, each special fuel dealer shall file with the motor fuel tax administrator, on forms prescribed by the administrator, a monthly tax return. The return shall contain a declaration, by the person making the same, to the effect that the statements contained therein are true and are made under penalties of perjury, which declaration shall have the same force and effect as a verification of the return and shall be in lieu of such verification. The return shall show, with reference to each location at which special fuel is delivered or placed by such dealer into a fuel supply tank of any motor vehicle, such information as the motor fuel tax administrator may reasonably require for the proper administration and enforcement of the provisions of sections 66-601 to 66-640; Provided, that if a special fuel dealer is also a wholesale distributor of a special fuel at a location where special fuel is delivered into the supply tank of a motor vehicle, and if separate storage is provided thereat from which special fuel is delivered or placed into fuel supply tanks of motor vehicles, the monthly return to the administrator covering such location need not include inventory control data covering bulk storage from which wholesale distribution of special fuel is made. The special fuel dealer shall file the return on or before the twentieth day of the next succeeding calendar month following the monthly period to which it relates. If the final filing date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday, the next secular or business day shall be the final filing date. Such reports shall be considered filed on time if mailed in an envelope property addressed to the motor fuel tax administrator, and postmarked before midnight of the final filing date; Provided, that for good cause the administrator may grant a taxpayer reasonable extensions of time for filing, but not to exceed ten days in the aggregate for any one return.

Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the motor fuel tax administrator may by rule and regulation permit or require quarterly, semiannual, or annual reports and tax payments from each special fuel dealer who has small tax liabilities, except that no such reports or payments may be permitted or required when the tax liability exceeds one hundred fifty dollars in any quarter, three hundred dollars in any semiannual period, or six hundred dollars in any year.”.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 88

Dear Senator Clark:

In your letter to this office dated April 7, 1981, you requested our opinion as to the constitutionality of LB 11 and our opinion as to the constitutionality of current statutory "check-off" programs similar to LB 11. Under the policies of this office, we do not give our opinion as to the constitutionality of currently existing statutes. Therefore, our opinion expressed herein is directed towards LB 11 and not towards currently existing portions of the Nebraska Revised Statutes. Furthermore, while we understand that LB 11 has incurred several amendments during this session of the Legislature, our opinion as to the constitutionality of LB 11 is directed towards the original form of the bill as requested in your letter.

LB 11, the Grain Sorghum Resources Act, would establish the Grain Sorghum Development, Utilization and Marketing Board which would have various responsibilities involved with development and participation in programs of research, education, market development and promotion for grain sorghum. The bill provides for the composition and duties of the board and contains definitional sections defining "grower," "first purchaser" and other relevant terms. Under LB 11, the Grain Sorghum Development, Utilization and Marketing Board will receive a fee of not to exceed one cent per hundred weight upon all grain sorghum sold through commercial channels in the State of Nebraska. The fee will be paid by the grower at the time of sale or delivery and will be collected by the first purchaser. The board may reduce this fee if it determines that revenues generated by the fee are providing more funds than are necessary to carry out the intent and purposes of the bill. The bill further provides for referendum procedures where, after a trial period of three years, sorghum growers in the state may choose to end the program or may choose to have an elected board as opposed to a board appointed by the Governor. Many of these election procedures would be administered by the Director of Agriculture. LB 11 is similar to current statutory programs involving wheat, soybeans, potatoes and other commodities. See, Neb.Rev.Stat. §§2-3301, et seq. (Reissue 1977).

Our research has disclosed no Nebraska Supreme Court cases dealing directly with the overall constitutionality of the type of program envisioned by LB 11. However, numerous courts in other states have considered commodities programs similar to that set forth in this bill. See, State ex rel. Graham v. Enking, 59 Idaho 321, 82 P.2d 649 (1938), Robison v. Dwyer, 58 Wash.2d 576, 364 P.2d 521 (1961), Wicklam v. Trapani, 246 N.Y.S.2d 137, 41 Misc.2d 749 (1964), Ralston Purina Co. v. Hagemeister, 188 N.W.2d 405 (N.D. 1971), State v. Vahlsing, 88 A.2d 144 (Me. 1952). In most of these cases from other jurisdictions, programs similar to LB 11 have been held to constitute a form of excise tax. Furthermore, in all the cases cited above, the programs involved have been upheld as constitutional. The various state courts have held that programs similar to that envisioned by LB 11 do not violate constitutional guarantees of due process or equal protection, that they do have an acceptable public purpose, and that they do not involve an impermissible delegation of legislative authority.

Our research has also disclosed some cases which have held programs similar to that set forth in LB 11 to be unconstitutional. See, Conlen Grain & Mercantile, Inc. v. Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, 519 S.W.2d 620 (Tex. 1975), Conner v. Joe Hatton, Inc., 203 So. 2d 154 (Fla. 1967). However, the facts involved in each of these cases can be distinguished from the situation which would exist under LB 11. The Conlen case involved a Texas constitutional provision which is not present in our Nebraska Constitution. In the Conner case, the commissioner who set fees under the commodity program was given unlimited discretion to determine the amount of those fees. Under LB 11, the Grain Sorghum Development, Utilization and Marketing Board is given specific guidelines for the amount of fees to be charged to growers. We also note the case of Dukesherer Farms, Inc. v. Ball, 405 Mich. 1, 273 N.W.2d 877 (1979), in which the Supreme Court of Michigan held that a program similar to that contained in LB 11 levied an assessment rather than an excise tax. The Michigan court went on to hold that the assessment levied under the program was constitutional.

While there are no Nebraska Supreme Court cases directly considering the constitutionality of legislation similar to LB 11, our Supreme Court has indicated that excise taxes may be authorized by law. Licking v. Hayes Lumber Co., 146 Neb. 240, 19 N.W.2d 148 (1945). If the fees charged under LB 11 are considered to be an excise tax, this case would seem to support the constitutionality of such a tax levy. Also, in general, our Supreme Court has indicated that the taxing power of the Legislature is without limit except as may be specifically proscribed by our Constitution itself. State v. Cheyenne County, 127 Neb. 619, 256 N.W. 67 (1934).

We would also draw to your attention previous opinions of this office which indicated that legislation similar to LB 11 could be construed to encompass a proper public purpose and did not exceed the limitations of Article XIII, Section 3 of the State Constitution regarding extending the credit of the state. 1979-1980 Report of the Attorney General, No. 91 at 132, 1975-1976 Report of the Attorney General, No. 46 at 51.

Based upon the various authorities discussed above, it is our opinion that the general provisions of LB 11 establishing the Grain Sorghum Development, Utilization and Marketing Board are constitutional. It is also of our opinion that the board may legally charge the fees set forth in LB 11 in the manner directed by the bill. However, as discussed below, we have some question as to the validity of the referendum section of LB 11.

As you may be aware, the constitutional validity of the Nebraska Dry Bean Resources Act, an act similar to LB 11, was tested in the Lancaster County District Court in 1979. State ex rel. Douglas v. Stewart, Lancaster County District Court, Docket 329, P. 22. In that case, the district court found the Nebraska Dry Bean Resources Act unconstitutional primarily on the basis of the election provisions contained in the act. The act set forth general provisions similar to those found in LB 11 but made them operative only upon an affirmative referendum vote of dry bean growers. The court found that the election provisions of the Dry Bean Resources Act violated equal protection constraints, due process constraints, special legislation and special election constraints, and were void for statutory vagueness. A copy of the court's memorandum opinion, issued November 7, 1979, is attached to this letter for your information.

In addition to the decision by the Lancaster County District Court in the Stewart case, this office was requested to consider the validity of amendments to the Nebraska Dry Bean Resources Act which would allow the imposition of an excise fee on dry bean growers only upon an affirmative vote by a majority of the growers. We again stated that such election provisions would be constitutionally suspect under the rationale expressed in the Stewart case. 1979-1980 Report of the Attorney General, No. 273 at 391.

The election referendum procedures set forth in LB 11 differ from those which were the focus of the opinion in the Stewart case and those which were the focus of the opinion issued by this office in that the operation of LB 11 is not conditioned upon an affirmative special referendum of sorghum growers. Under the Nebraska Dry Bean Resources Act, the whole act itself was conditioned upon an affirmative election by the bean growers. The fact that the elections under LB 11 do not make the legislation itself operative would cure some of the problems faced by the court in the Stewart case. However, in the Stewart case, the court found that the definition of growers entitled to vote in the election was unconstitutionally vague. That definition is nearly identical to the definition of grower set forth in LB 11. Furthermore, the court in the Stewart case stated that the special referendum election under the act constituted special legislation purporting to authorize the Department of Agriculture to conduct a special referendum in a fashion separate and apart from the general election law set out at Neb.Rev.Stat. §§32-101, et seq. (Reissue 1978). The court noted that this type of special referendum was in violation of Article III, Section 18 of the Nebraska Constitution. It appears to us that this same argument could be made in reference to the special referendum procedures outlined in LB 11. On the basis of the above, it seems that the special referendum procedures set forth in LB 11 could well be constitutionally suspect under the rationale of the Stewart case and under the rationale of our opinion issued in 1980.

In summary, it is our opinion that the general provisions of LB 11 relating to the establishment of the Grain Sorghum Development, Utilization and Marketing Board and relating to fees to be charged to sorghum growers are constitutional. However, we feel that those provisions of LB 11 relating to a special referendum of sorghum growers could well be constitutionally suspect.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 78.

Introduced by Maresh, 32nd District; Sieck, 24th District; Schmit, 23rd District; Hefner, 19th District; R. Peterson, 21st District.

PURPOSE:
U.S. Highway 81 is a major interstate highway which connects not only the states of North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas but also the nations of Canada, the U.S., and Mexico. Highway 81 connects numerous county seats and traverses an area of the state with a very high proportion of irrigated crops and therefore it is probably the most important North-South highway in Nebraska. However, Highway 81 has not been adequately improved over the years to safely transport the volume of intrastate and interstate traffic which it presently carries. The purpose of this study resolution is to authorize a committee to conduct hearings at locations along the Highway 81 corridor to examine methods to more expeditiously reconstruct the most hazardous segments of the highway. The study committee should also consider the possibility of employing an impartial consultant from outside of state government to make recommendations to the committee regarding priority ratings for Nebraska highway improvement and reconstruction projects.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Nebraska Transportation Advisory Committee of the Legislature conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

WHEREAS, the federal government unnecessarily controls state and local priorities in the areas of health, education, human services, transportation, and energy development; and

WHEREAS, one stated intent of the President's Economic Recovery Plan is "to enable states to plan and coordinate their own service programs, establish their own priorities and exercise effective control over the resources provided to localities..."; and

WHEREAS, the President's proposed Economic Recovery Plan consolidated almost one hundred categorical grants into block grants, thereby enhancing the states' ability, discretion, and expertise in implementing public aid programs and returns primary responsibility for Medicaid to the states; and

WHEREAS, the President's fiscal year 1982 budget plan specifically protects the "safety net" of public aid programs for the truly needy; and

WHEREAS, the President's Economic Recovery Plan is consistent with fundamental principles of federalism, including the recognition that states have all rights and powers not granted by the U. S. Constitution to the federal government; and

WHEREAS, the President has pledged to restore the states' right to own, lease, and develop publicly-owned land; and

WHEREAS, the Reagan Administration has pledged to continue to consult and heed state legislators on matters of budgetary and regulatory reform; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature of this State shares the President's concern for the combined effects of rising unemployment, soaring inflation, and low productivity.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Nebraska Legislature supports the Reagan Administration's efforts to restore federalism, employment, productivity, and the sovereign right of states to initiate, develop and execute their own growth and public aid policies.

2. That the Nebraska Legislature urges the U. S. Congress to adopt the President's Economic Recovery Plan.

3. That the Nebraska Legislature pledges its assistance to the President and to the Congress to insure that the President's Economic Recovery Plan is enacted.

4. That copies of this resolution be delivered to the President of the United States and members of Nebraska's Congressional delegation.

Laid over.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 89

Dear Senator V. Johnson:

You have asked whether section 3(2) of Senator Warner's proposed amendments to LB 506 would allow the Director of Health to fund a program that would allow Eppley Institute to become an agent for an Investigational New Drug Application for cancer treatment. We have concluded it would not.

Section 3(2) of Senator Warner's proposed amendment beginning at page 1510 of the Legislative Journal for April 16, 1981, provides: "The director shall adopt and promulgate rules and regulations pursuant to Chapter 84, article 9 to: . . . (2) Establish criteria for programs in order to receive funding."

Section 1 defines director as the Director of Health. Section 2 provides for the appropriation of certain cigarette tax funds to the Department of Health, less any amount of those funds specifically appropriated to the University of Nebraska Eppley Institute for Research in Cancer and Allied Diseases. The balance of those cigarette tax funds, less expenses of administration, is to be distributed by the director for the purpose of research of cancer and smoking diseases through grants and contracts with postsecondary institutions having colleges of medicine in the State of Nebraska.

Thus the language of section 3(2) not only seems to anticipate a direct appropriation to the Eppley Institute but also to preclude a direct grant by the Director of Health to the Eppley Institute rather than to the University of Nebraska. Also, we question whether the Director of Health would have any rule-making authority under section 3 because there are no standards or guidelines for the director to use in making the rules listed. Because of this section 3 appears to be an improper delegation of legislative authority.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

RESOLUTION

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 80.

Introduced by Business and Labor Committee: Maresh, 32nd District, Chairperson; Labedz, 5th District; Goll, 16th District; Fitzgerald, 14th District; Wiitala, 31st District; Vickers, 38th District; Barrett, 39th District; Hefner, 19th District.

PURPOSE:

In recent months numerous questions have arisen concerning Nebraska's unemployment compensation program. The Legislature is currently considering major changes in the unemployment compensation system. The changes proposed address the abuses of employees who quit work without good cause, who are discharged for misconduct, and who commit fraud in attempting to secure benefits and the changes also attempt to eliminate some of the inequities between employers in the contribution system which finances payment of unemployment benefits. Nationwide, several states have had to borrow several billion dollars from the federal government to finance the payment of unemployment benefits, as a long-term high unemployment rate has combined with benefits indexed to inflation and frozen taxable wage bases, to place the long-range solvency of the system in serious doubt. The purpose of this study is to examine Nebraska's Employment Security Law in light of these circumstances, giving special attention to the standard defining gross misconduct, the practical application of the disqualification for benefits when a person voluntarily leaves work, and the problem of fraud and abuse in the system. The ability of our present contribution system to maintain solvency and equity among employers should also be examined.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Business and Labor committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the Business and Labor committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 81.

Introduced by Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee: Kahle, 37th District, Chairperson; Haberman, 44th District; Chambers, 11th District; Kilgarin, 7th District; V. Johnson, 8th District; Landis, 46th District; Chronister, 18th District; Goll, 16th District.

PURPOSE:

To study various aspects of the National Guard and military life in Nebraska. The study should include an examination of salary and benefits for National Guard members, and the feasibility of an income tax waiver for members of the National Guard and military personnel claiming Nebraska as their residence but currently not stationed in the state. The study should also cover the issues raised by LB 10 in the 1981 Session concerning state law requiring political subdivisions to pay its employees while on Guard duty, and if the State should reimburse the subdivisions for this expense.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 82.

Introduced by Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee: Kahle, 37th District, Chairperson; Kilgarin, 7th District; V. Johnson, 8th District; Landis, 46th District; Chronister, 18th District; Goll, 16th District; Chambers, 11th District; Haberman, 44th District.

PURPOSE:

To study the adequacy of disability compensation for those state employees engaged in high risk jobs. The focus of the study should include a determination of which state employees are in high risk jobs, what the rate of disability compensation should be, and whether such compensation should be limited to a disability occurred in the line of duty.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 83.

Introduced by Government, Military and Veterans Affairs: Kahle, 37th District, Chairperson; Kilgarin, 7th District; V. Johnson, 8th District; Landis, 46th District; Chronister, 18th District; Goll, 16th District; Chambers, 11th District; Haberman, 44th District.

PURPOSE:

To study the existing ambiguities and conflicts in the statutes regarding the offices of County Engineer and County Surveyor. During the 1981 Session, the Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee considered two bills, LB 127 and LB 445, in which many problems and conflicts of duties between the offices were shown. The study should focus on resolving these conflicts and determine the best method for electing or appointing each office. The study should also include an examination of the need for establishing a central repository for all surveys made in the state.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 84.

Introduced by Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee: Kahle, 37th District, Chairperson; Kilgarin, 7th District; V. Johnson, 8th District; Landis, 46th District; Chronister, 18th District; Goll, 16th District; Chambers, 11th District; Haberman, 44th District.

PURPOSE:

To study the use of court fees for purposes other than the operation of the courts. Non-court uses of court fees currently include funding of judge's retirement plans and the Law Enforcement Improvement Fund. The study should focus on the issue of whether such programs should be funded out of the General Fund rather than through court fees.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT - Print in Journal

Mr. DeCamp asked unanimous consent to print the following amendment to LB 318 in the Journal. No objections. So ordered.

Req. #2379

1. Insert new sections as follows:

"Section 1. That section 79-1233, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1233. (1) No person shall be employed to teach in any public, private, denominational, or parochial school in this state who does not hold a valid Nebraska certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education legalizing him or her to teach the grade or subjects to which elected, except that no Nebraska certificate or permit shall be required of persons teaching exclusively (a) in junior colleges organized as part of the public school system or (b) in a school operated by a religious organization whose religious beliefs are violated by the imposition of such a requirement.

(2) Public, private, denominational, or parochial schools in the state may employ persons who do not hold a valid Nebraska teaching certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education to serve as aides to a teacher or teachers. Such teacher aides may not assume any teaching responsibilities. A teacher aide may be assigned duties which are nonteaching in nature, if the employing school has assured itself that the aide has been specifically prepared for such duties, including the handling of emergency situations which might arise in the course of his or her work.

Sec. 5. That section 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1701. (1) All private, denominational, and parochial schools in the State of Nebraska, and all teachers employed or giving instruction therein, shall be subject to and governed by the provisions of the general school laws of the state so far as the same apply to grades, qualifications, and certification of teachers and promotion of pupils.

(2) All private, denominational, and parochial schools shall have adequate equipment and supplies, and shall be graded the same and shall have courses of study for each grade conducted therein, substantially the same as those given in the public schools where the children attending would attend in the absence of such private, denominational, or parochial schools.

(3) The provisions of subsections (1) and (2) of this section shall not apply to any school operated by a religious organization whose religious beliefs are violated by the imposition of those provisions, but such a school shall provide its pupils regular instruction using a structured curriculum or course of study. Any school qualifying for the exemption from the general school laws authorized by this subsection shall biannually submit its pupils to a recognized proficiency test, and no such school shall continue to operate unless it is established through such testing that the educational progress of its pupils is comparable to that of children attending public schools in the district in which the school is located. The Legislature finds that such biannual testing will insure that satisfactory educational progress of students is maintained and that such testing does not come too late in the educational process to detect any program deficiencies.”.

2. In the committee amendments strike line 13 and insert “‘6’, and strike ‘79-486 and’ and insert ‘79-1233,’; in line 2 after ‘79-1333.01,’ insert ‘and 79-1701,’;”; and in line 17 strike “1 to 3” and insert “2 to 4”.

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 87.

Introduced by Public Works Committee: Kremer, 34th District, Chairperson; Wesely, 26th District; Hoagland, 6th District; Lamb, 43rd District; Beutler, 28th District; Koch, 12th District; Clark, 47th District; DeCamp, 40th District.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this study is to examine facets of Nebraska's boundaries with South Dakota, Iowa, and Missouri, including:

1. Whether these boundaries are adequately defined.
2. Whether there is a need for a boundary compact with Missouri and South Dakota, and for modifications in the boundary compact with Iowa.

3. Whether the interests of Nebraska citizens whose land is affected by changes in the Missouri River are adequately protected.
4. Whether the intent of LR 344 passed by the Legislature in 1980 is being carried out.
5. Whether the Legislature has given the Nebraska Joint State Boundary Commission sufficient direction to enable the Commission to carry out its duties.
6. Whether any changes in the composition, functions, and authorites of the Commission are needed.
7. Whether the Commission should be allowed funds to cover its expenses and to provide a per diem for members.
8. Whether the Commission has adequate support staff.
9. Whether the Commission is receiving sufficient cooperation from other state officials and agencies.
10. Any other relevant concerns.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or the Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 88.

Introduced by Marsh, 29th District; Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:

The Comprehensive Health Education Act, sections 79-1270 to 79-1270.02, adopted by the Nebraska Legislature in 1971 requires that: (1) Instruction in comprehensive school health education will take place in all schools; (2) the Commissioner of Education shall prepare and distribute, upon request, teaching aids and materials for effective courses; and (3) schools failing to meet the provisions of the act will be guilty of a deviation from the approval and accreditation rules and regulations.

Guidelines for comprehensive school health education were developed and distributed by the Commissioner of Education in 1972, but preliminary evidence indicates that health education programs have not been implemented in most schools because they lack commitments in time and administrative support.

The purpose of this study proposal is to determine the extent comprehensive school health education has been implemented and to identify the barriers associated with implementation.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 89.

Introduced by Fowler, 27th District; Landis, 46th District; Schmit, 23rd District; Chambers, 11th District; V. Johnson, 8th District; DeCamp, 40th District.

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

RESOLUTION

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 90.

Introduced by Nichol, 48th District.

PURPOSE:

To study the feasibility of creating a state agency which will be responsible for collecting and analyzing data regarding energy costs which are pertinent to the establishment of natural gas rates.

Municipal governments when presented with a rate increase proposal from a natural gas supplier often lack the necessary expertise and funds to adequately study the merits of the proposed rate increase. The study will assess the need for a state agency which municipal governments may contact for information and data which will enable municipal governments to make a more informed decision regarding a proposal to increase natural gas rates.

RESOLUTIONS

Introduced by Telecommunications Committee: Clark, 47th District, Chairperson; Wagner, 41st District; Goodrich, 20th District; Pirsch, 10th District; Wesely, 26th District; Burrows, 30th District; Chronister, 18th District; Sieck, 24th District.

PURPOSE:
To study the State Telecommunications System. The study should include a comparison of Nebraska's system with other states especially the State of Washington which has been a figure of leadership in State Telecommunications.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 96.

Introduced by DeCamp, 40th District; Wesely, 26th District; Fowler, 27th District.

PURPOSE:
The economy and commerce of the State of Nebraska is dependent upon the availability, reliability, affordability, and quality of the resources which support it: the human resources found in our State's hard working labor force; the water resources which are essential to our industrial processes, livestock industry, irrigated agriculture, and domestic needs; the land resources which provide for Nebraska's bountiful agricultural products export commerce; the energy resources which fuel our industry, commerce, and most nearly every aspect of our daily lives.

The People of the State of Nebraska are in the midst of an era of ever increasing energy costs, decreasing availability of conventional energy resources, and a growing reliance on sources of energy that are unreliable. This situation has, is, and will cause economic disruptions in Nebraska's economy which will result in social and environmental problems.

A crisis exists in Nebraska. It is an economic crisis. A crisis being caused and fueled by double digit increases in the cost of essential energy resources. This crisis, if unaddressed by Nebraska, will harm our ability to effectively compete with other market areas. Minnesota, California, Montana, Kansas, Iowa, Wyoming, etc., are addressing their energy crisis more effectively than is Nebraska. These states and the industries within them will, in time, have significantly stronger economics than Nebraska due to their ever improving energy situation.

The People, the Legislature, and the Governor of the State of Nebraska must develop a better understanding of the energy situation as it concerns Nebraska and Nebraskans. The public and private sectors in Nebraska must join together to develop a comprehensive strategy to deal effectively with the high cost of energy. The Legislature should continue to assume a major leadership role in developing this comprehensive strategy to become more energy efficient and independent from costly and foreign sources of energy.

Significant work has already been completed by the Legislature during the past three years. The Legislature has sponsored major energy studies during the 1979 and 1980 interims. Members of the Banking, Commerce, and Insurance Committee have played a major role in these studies and the development of legislation. This Committee conducted the 1980 LR 305 study on energy and introduced this year LB 257, the 1981 Nebraska Energy Act. Although these studies and legislative proposals have produced significant advances in resolving Nebraska's energy crisis, these measures are far from adequate to effectively deal with this massive problem.

Continuation of this effort by the current members of this Committee is suggested. The primary goal of this study is to broaden the involvement of all interested Nebraskans, particularly the members of the Nebraska Legislature in the development of solutions to our energy problems.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or the Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 98.

Introduced by Maresh, 32nd District.

PURPOSE:
The purpose of this resolution is to investigate possible shortages of nurses and other health care personnel in Nebraska's rural and urban areas. The study also will attempt to identify specific areas where shortages of nurses and related health care personnel may exist. If the findings indicate shortages, methods may be proposed by the committee to attract personnel for positions in those specific areas. The study should review all feasible means of aiding the recruitment of nurses and other health care personnel to the shortage areas including, but not limited to, the following (a) programs to advise students of career opportunities in nursing and related health care fields; (b) further expansion of the nursing role in areas of the state where there is a shortage of doctors; and, (c) the availability and adequacy of existing financial aid programs for nursing and related health care education.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

Significant progress was achieved during previous interims by the study committee composed of legislators from North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska in reducing or eliminating obstacles to the development of the project. However, the complexity of such an international effort requires on-going discussion and coordination among the affected states. Copies of this Resolution will be forwarded to the participating state legislatures in the hope of encouraging the continuation of their respective MANDAN study committees for the 1981 interim.

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 117.

Introduced by Vickers, 38th District.

PURPOSE:
The purpose of this study is to examine irrigation development in the Sandhills region of Nebraska and the effect thereof on 1) the surface water of the region and 2) the subirrigated meadows of the region. The study shall also examine the ecological and economic effects of irrigation development on 1) the Sandhills region as a whole and 2) specific areas of the Sandhills region where irrigation development is most heavily concentrated.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 118.

Introduced by Hoagland, 6th District.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this resolution is to study the adequacy of existing laws in Nebraska regulating the sale and possession on handguns. The study shall specifically examine whether legislation should be enacted similar to the Bartley-Fox law now in effect in Massachusetts to provide (1) that persons must have a license to carry handguns outside their residences and (2) that persons convicted of carrying a handgun off their property without a license must be given a mandatory jail sentence of three months, six months or one year without the possibility of plea bargaining, probation or parole. The study shall include an assessment of whether the Massachusetts handgun law has been effective in preventing violent crimes in the six years since it was enacted and shall include receiving testimony from persons who have examined and reported on the operation of the Massachusetts law and/or similar laws in other jurisdictions.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 119.

Introduced by Vickers, 38th District; DeCamp, 40th District; Von Minden, 17th District.

BE IT RECORDED that Traffic Safety on the roadways of Nebraska is of deep concern to the people of our state and to its Legislature;

WHEREAS, the death toll on Nebraska's roadways increased in 1980 over the previous year by 20%, and statistics show an alarming increase over that fateful year for the first quarter of 1981; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature notes that consistent decreases in traffic fatalities were achieved from 1972 to 1975; and

WHEREAS, the current Legislature has voted to repeal the Periodic Motor Vehicle Inspection Program (PMVI), effective July 1, 1982, and this action was supported by a vote of nearly 70% of the Unicameral on the basis that the Federal Government had withdrawn PMVI as a mandated safety program, and on the basis that the Unicameral had not been satisfied that this continued regulatory burden had, in fact, had an appreciable impact on injury and fatality accidents caused by mechanical failure, and because the Legislature rejects regulation for the sake of regulation; and

WHEREAS, the Chief Executive Officer of Nebraska and the Director of the Department of Motor Vehicles are directly responsible for the administration of a coordinated State Highway Safety Program; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature has directed, in LB 35, that this program be studied accepting any viable evidence for further Legislative consideration.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

That the Legislative Public Works Committee, joined by the principal sponsors of LB 35, shall investigate and request the input and full cooperation of the Director of Motor Vehicles who acts as the Governor's representative for Highway Safety in Nebraska, to offer any substantial or reasonable statistical evidence which would support the contention that the PMVI should not be terminated as scheduled.

This inquiry shall also review those activities of the Nebraska Highway Safety Program which were effective, as compared to the current administration of the program, in an effort to determine how Legislative support may be accomplished to reduce the death and injury rate on Nebraska's highways to a level previously appreciated. To accomplish this task and provide the Department of Motor Vehicles and the Office of Highway Safety with direction, this Legislative review shall include, but not be limited to, the following questions:

1. The total count of both death and injury accidents in each of the years from 1972 through the first half of 1981.

2. An identification as to the cause of these deaths and injuries recorded by State Traffic Safety and Law Enforcement authorities on official accident reports as well as any educated analysis that may be offered.

3. An examination of the management of our State's Highway Safety Program and its various components; roadway design, licensing, drunk driver enforcement, revocation and suspension, overall traffic enforcement, the involvement of the public and private sectors working together, and the progress of the study being conducted on the "Impact of Driver Manuals on Traffic Safety".

4. Recommendations from the Agencys as to appropriate statutory action that may be considered in any of the above traffic safety related areas.

This inquiry and study shall be conducted so as to present its findings and recommendations to the Second Session of the Eighty-Seventh Legislature which convenes in January, 1982.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 120.

PURPOSE:

The purpose and intent of this study is to research the desirability of limiting the number of bills, either by constitutional amendment or by legislative rules, that a Senator may introduce in even-year sessions.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 121.

Introduced by Constitutional Revision and Recreation Committee: Labedz, 5th District, Chairperson; Higgins, 9th District; Sieck, 24th District; Pirsch, 10th District; H. Peterson, 35th District; Carsten, 2nd District.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 129.

Introduced by Landis, 46th District.

PURPOSE:

Current state law prohibits any officer or employee of a city or village from having any interest or consideration in a contractual agreement with the city or village in excess of $10,000. This statute is designed to protect the citizens of a community from any conflict of interest that an officer or employee of that community may potentially encounter. Problems have arisen, especially in the smaller communities of Nebraska, in complying with this law and at the same time providing prudent fiscal management and adequate representation.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That an interim study be conducted by the Urban Affairs Committee to look into the ramafications which the conflict of interest laws have on communities in Nebraska.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 130.

PURPOSE:

Recent court decisions have complicated the legislative intent of Nebraska Revised Statutes, Chapter 18, Sections 18-101 through 18-130 concerning the initiative and referendum petitions. LB 434 of 1981 provided a short-term remedy to the problems that arose in conjunction to the judicial decisions but a need still exists for further clarification and re-organization of Sections 18-101 through 18-130.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. An interim study be conducted by the Urban Affairs Committee to look into the organization of Sections 18-101 through 18-130 concerning the initiative and referendum petitions.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 131.

Introduced by Landis, 46th District.

PURPOSE:

It is increasingly apparent that government funds for community improvement projects will be severly limited in the future. This limitation could have the effect of increasing blighted areas in local communities. In order to promote economic growth and stimulate community development, Pensylvania and Missouri have instituted community assistance programs. These programs create credits on the state income tax for businesses which contribute money or other resources to programs which assist low income people, families, or communities.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. An interim study be conducted by the Urban Affairs Committee to investigate incentives for growth in blighted areas such as the community assistance programs and alterations in the Nebraska Mortgage Finance Fund.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 132.

Introduced by V. Johnson, 8th District.

PURPOSE:

The overall mortality rate of 11.6 per thousand live births for Nebraska infants is less than the United States rate of 13.0 per thousand live births. However, a breakdown of Nebraska's infant mortality rate by race indicates great disparity. These mortality rates by race are:

Whites	11.1 per thousand live births
Blacks	23.4 per thousand live births
Indians	23.3 per thousand live births
Mexican	8.9 per thousand live births

The purpose of this resolution is to study infant mortality rates within Nebraska. The focus of the study will be to 1) identify geographically high risk areas for Blacks and Indians and 2) identify those factors that contribute to their extremely high infant mortality rates.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 133.

Introduced by Pirsch, 10th District.

PURPOSE:

Problems have arisen in determining what to do with property, either inherited or received as a gift by either spouse, in a divorce. The purpose of this study proposal is to explore what property should be included in the marital estate to be divided between the parties by the court. Definitions should be explored as to what is considered commingled property, and what is considered to be property which has been kept separate prior to a divorce. Investments and profits from such property will be explored to determine if they should be considered as a part of the marital estate.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 134.

Introduced by Judiciary Committee: Nichol, 48th District, Chairperson; Sieck, 24th District; Chambers, 11th District; Von Minden, 17th District; Kilgarin, 7th District; Pirsch, 10th District; Chronister, 18th District; Beyer, 3rd District.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this interim study is to coordinate efforts being made by the Judiciary Committee and various Nebraska Bar Association and Supreme Court Drafting Committees with regard to problem areas in our law governing civil procedure.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 135.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:
Contracts (LB 223 and 439)

The purpose of this resolution is to study employment contracts made between school districts and teachers or administrators. Neal v. York, a recent court case, found that coaching is not teaching, this lead to a proposal for requiring separate contracts for teaching and extracurricular activities. The concern of school districts is the authority to assign duties in order to fill extracurricular positions. Teachers expressed concern about the possibility of having contracts terminated for refusal of extracurricular duties.

Another issue is the obligation of school districts to use contract forms prescribed by the Department of Education. The study would determine elements which could be required and examine the need for flexibility to meet local needs.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 136.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:
Child Care (LB 520)

The purpose of this study is to examine issues related to a comprehensive policy and system of child care such as those raised by LB 520 and prepare recommendations which will assist in the development of such policy and programs which will define the state role in a cost effective comprehensive child care program. The major focus of this study would be to examine the coordination of the various state and private agencies for the provision of a comprehensive child care program, and the relationship of the federal government to the state policy and program.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 137.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:
Tax Equity (LB 210, 319)

The purpose of this resolution is to study issues regarding school tax equity. LB 210 proposed to shift some of the burden of supporting schools from property taxes which have been shown to be regressive and unpopular to sales and income taxes. The possible results of such a shift will be investigated. Another important issue involves tax inequality which exists among different classes of school districts, specifically between certain Class I districts and those served by a K-12 system. The study will examine alternatives which may help to provide tax equity, while still maintaining local control of budgets and school district organization.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 138.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this resolution is to study the effects of federal budget reductions upon the financing of education in Nebraska. This study is both timely and essential since it is likely that Federal educational grants will be drastically reduced and consolidated. It is important that the legislature study the impact of such a reduction and begin taking the necessary steps to reduce financial hardships due to a loss of Federal funds.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 139.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:
Professional growth and Evaluation (LB 443)

The purpose of this resolution is to study the development of a systematic method for promoting professional growth of public school teachers and the enactment of statutory provisions for teacher and administrator evaluations. The study will examine methods of promoting professional growth and the use of evaluation procedures to improve the quality of instruction and education in Nebraska schools. An important consideration is the provision of local options to meet the needs of individual school districts. The study would provide information to help determine evaluation and professional growth procedures which will serve the best interests of students, teachers, and the school district.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 140.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:
(LB 507) Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education

The purpose of this resolution is to study the effectiveness of the Nebraska Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education. The study will examine the feasability of transferring programs and functions of the Commission to the State Board of Education, the State Department of Education, or possibly other agencies. The goals and purposes of the Commission could be re-examined, as well as reconsidering the resources available to accomplish them. A study would provide information as to whether the Coordinating Commission for Postsecondary Education should be continued or terminated.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 141.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE: Tenure (LB 259)

The purpose of this resolution is to study legal provisions regarding tenure of teachers and administrators in public schools, Educational Service Units, and Technical Community Colleges. A study will examine any unique needs of the different classes of public schools which may not be met with uniformly applied laws. Information would be provided to help determine the length of probationary period which would best serve the interests of schools and teachers. Related issues to be examined are procedures for terminating teachers to insure fairness while still providing flexibility in personnel management.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 90
May 7, 1981

Dear Senator Chambers:

This is in reply to your inquiry concerning the applicability of the Nebraska State Bar Association Disciplinary Rules to lawyers who are also public officials.

Disciplinary Rule 8-101 of the Model Code of Professional Responsibility of the American Bar Association which has been adopted by the Supreme Court of Nebraska to govern lawyers admitted to practice in Nebraska, provides:

(A) A lawyer who holds public office shall not:

(1) Use his public position to obtain, or attempt to obtain, a special advantage in legislative matters for himself or for a client under circumstances where he knows or it is obvious that such action is not in the public interest.

(2) Use his public position to influence, or attempt to influence, a tribunal to act in favor of himself or of a client.

(3) Accept any thing of value from any person when the lawyer knows or it is obvious that the offer is for the purpose of influencing his action as a public official.

While you have not set forth the specific type of conduct involved, we are satisfied that a lawyer-public official could also engage in conduct which would violate other specific rules of the Model Code such as, for example, DR1-102(A) "A lawyer shall not: . . . (4) Engage in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation."

In State ex rel. Nebraska State Bar Association v. Cook, 194 Neb. 364, the respondent was found guilty of misconduct in the form of perjury while he held the position of Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission. In regard to the subject of the present inquiry, the Supreme Court of Nebraska stated:

> An attorney may be subjected to disciplinary action for conduct outside the practice of law or the representation of clients, and for which no criminal prosecution has been instituted or conviction had, even though such conduct might be found to have been illegal. State ex rel. Nebraska State Bar Assn. v. Tibbels, 167 Neb. 247, 92 N.W.2d 546; State ex rel. Nebraska State Bar Assn. v. Butterfield, 169 Neb. 119, 98 N.W.2d 714.

If you wish to make a specific complaint, we direct you to the Counsel for Discipline of the Nebraska State Bar Association since this office is not authorized to act in said matters until after a formal charge has been filed with the Supreme Court of Nebraska and the Supreme Court has appointed this office to represent the Bar Association.

The Counsel for Discipline is located at 1019 Sharp Building, Lincoln, Nebraska 68508, in care of Dennis Carlson.

Hoping this will be of assistance to you, we are,

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 143.

Introduced by Pirsch, 10th District.

PURPOSE:

There is an increasing number of crimes being committed with the use of a handgun. Although many are charged with a felony, it is thought that often charges are plea bargained to a misdemeanor. The purpose of this study is to explore the crimes committed with a handgun, the amount of plea bargaining which takes place in these cases, and the possibility of drafting a bill which would set a mandatory sentence on all persons using a handgun in the commission of a crime and eliminating plea bargaining in those cases.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 144.

Introduced by Goodrich, 20th District.

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

WHEREAS, the concepts of multibank holding companies and branch banking by commercial banking institutions are currently limited by law in Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, savings and loan associations, credit unions, and other financial institutions are subject to less restrictions on the number of facilities and appear to have an advantage in competition with commercial banks;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE, FIRST SESSION:

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

WHEREAS, in 1979 the Legislature directed the Tax Commissioner to develop standardized appraisal manuals "to assure the determination of actual value on a consistent basis...and the equalization of values" of lands and improvements; and

WHEREAS, the following year the Legislature mandated that such manuals be used to value all taxable real property in the state as of January 1, 1981, with assessments to be completed by April 1, 1981; and

WHEREAS, although this deadline has passed, it has been reported that revaluations have not been completed in perhaps one half of the state's counties; and

WHEREAS, the failure of those counties to complete their revaluations as required by the Legislature will lead to continued inequity in the imposition of property taxes; and

WHEREAS, the timetable established by the Legislature for the equalization of property assessments was reasonable and not an impossible goal, as witnessed by the fact that various county assessors and their staff have completed the revaluation for their counties on schedule.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

That the Legislature recognizes those county assessors and their staff for the responsible exercise of their duties in carrying out the provisions of state law for the systematic revaluation of property.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 153.

Introduced by Beutler, 28th District.

PURPOSE:

Allow Early Advancement of Qualifying High School Students to Higher Education.

Many high school students who have completed the graduation requirements for secondary education before their senior year would be better served if allowed to forego their final year of high school education in favor of technical community college, state college, or university study. The graduation requirements of secondary schools should be designed to insure each student has reached a certain level of achievement. The time frame allowed to reach the goal is necessarily broad to accomodate a wide range of individual learning speeds. However, some students advance rapidly through those requirements, and could spend their senior year more profitably in an educational environment which more seriously challenge their intellectual capacities or more directly addressed their career goals. By allowing such students to make use of higher education institutions, the high schools would be relieved to some degree of the burden of having to offer college level technical and academic courses for them. Additionally, the state's limited resources for educational purposes would be more efficiently put to use by avoiding duplication of services. The intent of this study proposal is to ascertain whether a transfer plan allowing a qualified student to spend his or her senior year in a post-secondary setting would be feasible. The study should address the projected impact on affected secondary and post-secondary schools, the nature of minimum graduation requirements and minimum admission requirements imposed by Nebraska schools, and the type of financial and administrative service required to initiate and manage the program. The proposal is not intended to merely allow early graduation from high school, but to encourage transfer to existing institutions for higher education when a student would be better served by such a transfer.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 154.

Introduced by Fowler, 27th District.

PURPOSE:

To study the feasibility of returning the statue of William Jennings Bryan, currently located at the former Bryan home in Lincoln, to a site on the grounds of the Nebraska State Capitol.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Agriculture and Environment Committee shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

PURPOSE:
The purpose of this resolution is to give guidance to the Agriculture and Environment Committee in its interim activities when dealing with the many issues of crucial importance to agriculture in the State of Nebraska.

Among matters of great concern to agriculture in Nebraska and the areas to which the committee should direct its activities, are:

Messrs. Lamb and Wagner asked unanimous consent to withdraw their pending amendment found in the Journal on page 1801. No objections. So ordered.

Messrs. Beutler and Wagner offered the following amendment:
1. On page 6, strike lines 1-6 and insert:
"Sec. 5. The Legislature finds, recognizes, and declares that the transfer of water to outside the boundaries of a river basin can have substantial impacts on the water and other resources in the basin and that such impacts differ from those caused by uses of water within the same basin in part because any unused water will not be returned to the stream from which it is taken for further use in that river basin. Therefore the Legislature recognizes the need to delineate factors for consideration by the Director of Water Resources when evaluating an application made pursuant to section 46-233 which involves an interbasin transfer of water in order to determine whether denial of such application is demanded by the public interest. Those considerations shall include, but not be limited to, the following factors:

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 157.

Introduced by Schmit, 23rd District.

PURPOSE:

The purpose and intent of this interim study resolution is to examine the financial and tax problems confronting the horse racing industry, resulting from a number of economic factors, which have a detrimental impact on the economic well-being of owners, breeders, trainers, and the industry in general. NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:
1. That the Miscellaneous Subjects Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

When utility bills are not paid by all customers, revenue must be recovered from other customers and when meters are tampered with, the lost revenue must similarly be recovered. The purpose of this resolution is to provide that a committee study the problem of unpaid utility bills to determine if legislation is needed, including legislation which encourages payment of utility bills by placement of a lien on the property on which the utility installation is located. The committee should also study the problem of tampering with electricity meters and other utility meters to determine the extent of the problem and if legislation is needed to alleviate it.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 163.

Introduced by Landis, 46th District; Beutler, 28th District; Wesely, 26th District.

The study should address sections 77-3506 through 77-3509, Revised Statutes of Nebraska, Cumulative Supplement, 1980. It should consider the equity of existing homestead exemption laws and the application of income eligibility standards similar to those included in the proposed Landis-Peterson amendment to LB 478 and should study the definition of disabled as used in Section 77-3508.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 91
May 7, 1981

Dear Senator Beutler:

In your letter of May 4, 1981, you raise several questions concerning amendments to LB 134 which generally proposes changes to the Nebraska Political Accountability and Disclosure Act and which is now before the Legislature for consideration.

You first inquire as to our opinion of the constitutionality of an amendment to LB 134 which would add a new subparagraph (4) to Neb.Rev.Stat. § 49-1434 (1980 Supp.). You inform us that this new subsection to the section defining lobbyists would provide an additional definition for the term lobbyists as ". . . Any person except a political candidate or candidate campaign committee who solicits funds or supports, collects dues or expends money when such solicitation, collection or expenditure is in excess of one thousand dollars and such person uses such funds to influence any political issue within the State of Nebraska."

Our first concern is a practical one. By placing this new definition at the end of presently existing Neb.Rev.Stat. § 49-1434 (1980 Supp.), it would follow the exceptions to the term lobbyist presently contained in subparagraphs (3) (a) (b) (c) and (d). A question of construction arises as to whether or not a definition which follows subsection (3) is covered by the exemptions contained therein. Perhaps this is a matter which should be clarified by the Legislature itself.

Whether or not the exceptions contained in subparagraph (3) apply, may have great bearing on whether or not proposed subsection (4) can survive close constitutional scrutiny. Also of note is the fact that while this proposed amendment would concern the definition of the term "lobbyist" as amended, it would appear to conflict with the definition of the term "lobbying" which is set forth in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 49-1433 (Reissue 1978). Here again, an expression of legislative intent of the breath of this amendment would be most helpful in resolving any questions concerning this proposed language's constitutionality.

Assuming for the sake of discussion that it is the Legislatures intent that proposed subsection (4) not be subject to the exemptions contained in the present subsection (3) and that this language not be tempered by the definition of the term "lobbying" found in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 49-1433 (Reissue 1978), we will give consideration to the question of this language's constitutionality.

The leading case on this subject is the decision of the United States Supreme Court in Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S. 1, decided by that court in 1976. While this case directly concerned an attack upon the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, the court's analysis of the questions presented there, are most instructive on the questions raised by your inquiry. In reading this decision, it is evident that the United States Supreme Court drew a distinction between restrictions on an individual's right to expend money personally on behalf of a candidate or a cause, and restrictions on an individual donating money to a candidate or a candidate's committee, where the candidate or committee is free to expend monies in any manner they see fit. The court appeared to be more concerned with protecting one's right to individualistic political expression than to his unfettered right to make contributions generally to political candidates.

At the outset of their opinion, the court announced that even a significant interference with protected rights of political association, may be sustained if the state demonstrates a sufficiently important interest and employs means closely drawn to avoid unnecessary abridgment of associational freedoms guaranteed by the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The court did caution however, that the First Amendment affords the broadest protection to such political expression in order "to assure [that] unfettered interchange of ideas for the bringing about of political and social changes desired by the people." Buckley v. Valeo, supra, at 424 U.S. 14.

In that case they did find unconstitutional, certain restrictions on limitations on individuals' political expenditures although they did uphold portions of the federal act which required reporting and disclosure of political expenditures and activities. In upholding such requirements, however, they did state that they had long recognized that significant encroachments on First Amendment rights by compelling disclosure, could not be justified by a mere showing of any governmental interest. The court stated: ". . . We have required that the subordinating interests of the state must survive exacting scrutiny. We have also insisted that there be a 'relevant correlation' or 'substantial relation' between the governmental interests and the information required to be disclosed." [Citations omitted] Buckley, supra, at 424 U.S. 64.

The court did go on to set forth some of the governmental interests which might survive this close constitutional scrutiny. First, they suggested that disclosure provides the electorate with information as to where political campaign monies come from and how it is spent by the candidates which assists the voters in evaluating those who seek elected office. As the court suggested, this allows the voters to place each candidate in the political spectrum more precisely than is often possible solely on the basis of party labels and campaign speeches. Buckley v. Valeo, supra, at 65.

Secondly, the court suggested that disclosure requirements deter actual corruption and avoid the appearance of corruption by exposing large contributions and expenditures to the light of publicity. The court suggested that this exposure may discourage those who would use money for improper purposes either before or after the election. Buckley v. Valeo, supra, at 65.

Finally, the court suggested that the record which is possible through reporting requirements is an essential means of gathering the information necessary to detect violations of contribution limitations which they held to be constitutionally valid.

Therefore, it would appear as though expanded reporting or disclosure requirements created by the broadened definition of the term lobbyist would be held constitutionally valid if the Legislature expressed an intent to promote such governmental interests. We are not aware at this time of any such declaration having been made by the Legislature. It is, therefore, difficult for us to assess the constitutionality of this proposed amendment without knowing whether or not the Legislature intends to advance and promote such interests. It does appear with certainty however, that in the event either the Legislature did not intend to advance such interest or in the event the means taken by it to accomplish those results, were not closely drawn to some other valid intentions and did unncessarily therefore abridge associational freedom, the provision would no doubt fail. Buckley v. Valeo, supra, at 25.

You next inform us of an amendment to LB 134 which would as you indicate, require the campaign statements of political committees to disclose "the value of services provided without compensation by any individual who volunteers to provide services on behalf of a candidate or political committee for more than twenty hours during a year." You ask us to consider whether or not such a provision has an overriding governmental purpose in view of the First Amendment rights, and whether or not it would have a chilling affect on the exercise of these rights and privileges and direct our attention to the decision previously discussed in Buckley v. Valeo.

It is not within our power to declare for what purpose legislation is enacted, or in this case proposed, that being solely the duty of the Legislature. However, we would suggest that unless there was an avowed legislative intent such as discussed above, such a provision most likely would not survive close constitutional scrutiny.

You next call our attention to a proposed amendment to LB 134 concerning a proposed change in what is now Neb.Rev.Stat. § 49-1490 (1980 Supp.), and which would provide that the furnishing of transportation by a lobbyist or his principle to a public official in connection with his or her official duties would not be a prohibited gift. You specifically ask whether or not the solicitation or receipt of such transportation would be violation of a senator's oath of office. The oath of office in question is found in Article XV, Section 1, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska and provides as is pertinent to inquiry: ". . . I . . . have not accepted, nor will I accept or receive, directly or indirectly, any money or other valuable thing from any corporation, company or person, . . . for any official act or influence. . . ." Although not specifically raised by you, we also have concerns over the language found in Article III, Section 7, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska which is pertinent here: ". . . Members of the Legislature shall receive no pay nor perquisites other than said salary and expenses, ..."

At the outset of our examination, it is not clear to us whether or not it is the legislative intent to authorize casual transportation by a lobbyist of a senator or whether this would include such things as providing a car to a senator during a legislative session, or perhaps even between sessions.

We have been of the opinion previously at least with respect to Article III, Section 7, of the Nebraska Constitution that a senator when travelling on official legislative business, such travel having been expressly authorized by the Legislature or the Legislative Counsel, and such travel being at the direction of the Legislature, incurs expenses on behalf of the Legislature, and reimbursement thereof to the particular senator does not violate this constitutional prohibition. Report of the Attorney General, No. 178, Dated January 30, 1978. Therefore, if such transportation were provided by a lobbyist under these conditions, such would no doubt not constitute a violation of Article III, Section 7. The question nevertheless remains as to whether or not the senator would be receiving some ". . . other valuable thing from . . . [any] person . . . for any official act or influence . . . ." for any vote that senator might give or withhold, and therefore be in violation of Article XV, Section 1, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska. It would appear to us that in order to have a violation of this constitutional section, the senator would have to have an intent to let the act of the furnishing of transportation influence his vote and while under Buckley v. Valeo, such activity could no doubt be prohibited as constituting an appearance of impropriety, we do not believe that the direct authorization of such, if it meets the requirements of being done on official legislative business would constitute a violation of either the senator's oath of office or Article III, Section 7, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska. It may also be that this would be a matter exclusively for the Legislature to determine under Article III, Section 10, of the Nebraska Constitution.

Finally, you call to our attention an amendment to LB 134 which would provide that no registered lobbyist might purchase or be solicited to purchase tickets for political campaign fund raising activities. As you observe, it appears that this provision would prohibit a lobbyist from making any political contributions by means of purchasing a ticket for any political campaign fund raising activities.

In Buckley v. Valeo, supra, as pointed out above, the United States Supreme Court drew a distinction between limitations on direct individual political expenditures and contributions to candidates or candidates' campaign committees. They appeared to be suggesting that a state would have to meet a much higher burden in order to restrict or eliminate direct political expenditures, however, the burden might be slighly less where contributions are concerned.

Even so, as with reporting disclosure requirements, the court suggested that the state would have to establish strong and compelling state interests in order for such restrictions to be upheld. Here again, inasmuch as the Legislature has not yet considered, much less enacted such a proposal, it is impossible for us to speculate as to the interests the Legislature intended, or may intend to further by the enactment of such a prohibition. We would suspect that if the Legislature were to enact such a prohibition based upon governmental interests as are set out in response to your first question above, that most likely such a restriction would survive constitutional scrutiny.

As is apparent from our analysis, the constitutionality of much of that which we discussed, will be dependent upon the purpose for which these restrictions and requirements are proposed. For that reason and for the reason that you have indicated a desire to have our response as quickly as possible, we have not been able to give these matters the exhaustive analysis they require.

Additionally, it is difficult to speculate as to how our Supreme Court or a Federal Court might view these particular questions given the fact that it is apparent from reading the decisions from other lower courts that each review of each individual restriction has been accomplished on a case by case basis.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 92

Dear Senator Warner:

You have asked whether the committee amendment to LB 556 is constitutional. It provides that special abortion coverage "shall" be offered to a state employee covered under a group health insurance program pursuant to §§44-1620 to 44-1632, with the cost of such abortion coverage to be borne solely by such employee. As discussed below, we have concluded this raises no constitutional problem not already present in the intent of the Legislature expressed in Laws 1980, LB 1004, section 22. (We could not assure you in Attorney General's Opinion No. 282 (April 17, 1980) that that provision was constitutional, but said it probably was.)

Abortion is a legitimate medical procedure. It would be covered by any group health policy for state employees covering medical procedures if not otherwise exempted. See, Roe v. Wade, 410 U.S. 113 (1973), Neb.Rev.Stat. §§44-1615, 44-1620, 44-1623 (Reissue 1978). It is not a "special benefit" which "may" be provided under Neb.Rev.Stat.§§ 44-1625 and 44-1626 (Reissue 1978) at the expense of the employee.

Consistent with the intent of the Legislature expressed in Laws 1980, LB 1004, section 22, the amendment to LB 556 would put abortions in a less-favored position than other medical procedures because the state would not be paying any part of the premium for the abortion coverage. To be constitutional such a classification must be based on some reason suggested by such a difference in the situation and circumstances of the subjects placed in different classes as to disclose the necessity or propriety of different legislation in respect to them. See, Galloway v. Wolfe, 117 Neb. 824, 826 (1929).

The Court in Maher v. Roe, 432 U.S. 464 (1977), and Harris v. McRae, 448 U.S. __ (1980), recognized the right of the state to favor childbirth over abortions by funding childbirth but not funding abortions. However, we are not aware of any comparable support favoring medical procedures other than childbirth over abortion unless it is the fact that the Court in Planned Parenthood of Central Missouri v. Danforth, 428 U.S. 52 (1976), upheld the requirement for written consent from one seeking an abortion even though it did not characterize prior written consent to surgery as the universal practice of the medical profession.

You have also asked if that amendment would keep the state from entering into a contract with an insurance carrier for group health insurance for state employees if the insurance carrier does not or will not offer the special insurance coverage prescribed by this amendment. As discussed below, we have concluded that it will only if such coverage is not provided by another carrier.

Under Neb.Rev.Stat. §44-1622 (Reissue 1978), the Department of Insurance shall select one or more carriers of insurance to serve as administrator of the insurance contract or contracts. Neb.Rev.Stat. §44-1623 (Reissue 1978) makes provision for a contract for life insurance and a contract for group health insurance to be financed by the state to the extent that appropriations made for that purpose are available and, if necessary, by contributions from each employee. However, under Neb.Rev.Stat. §44-1625 (Reissue 1978) the group health insurance contract or contracts may permit the extension of special benefits.

Under the amendment to LB 556 it will be the state which will have the duty to make abortion coverage available to all state employees who choose it. Thus, if the state can find a carrier to provide this coverage, then it can contract for other group health insurance benefits with carriers who do not or will not offer abortion coverage.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

RESOLUTIONS

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 164.

Introduced by Newell, 13th District; Beutler, 28th District; Wesely, 26th District; Sieck, 24th District; Kahle, 37th District.

PURPOSE:

To study the Rules of the Nebraska Legislature as they pertain to the following issues:

(a) Limitation of the number of bills per session which can be introduced by a senator or committee;

(b) The present method of setting the agenda and proposals for alternate methods, if needed;

(c) Revision of the session meeting schedule to maximize time-use effectiveness within established time limits, and consideration of removal of constitutional time restrictions;

(d) Legislative committees;

(e) Interim studies;

Any additional areas of concern which the committee considers important to improve the work of the Legislature.

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Rules Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the Rules Committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 165.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this resolution is to study the feasibility of reorganizing state regulatory activities relating to the building industry. The study would review state regulatory functions such as fire safety regulations, the manufactured housing code, the mobile home and recreational vehicles code, the state electrical code, the public access code for the handicapped, the elevator and boiler codes, and the energy efficiency standards. The study would focus on reorganizing administration of such regulations and codes and the need for additional state construction codes.

Specific points to be addressed shall include:

1) The need for centralization of state building code regulatory activities.
2) Present duplication of state regulatory functions relating to the building industry.
3) The need for additional statewide codes, including a building code, a mechanical code, and a plumbing code.
4) Identification of areas where the current state codes need to be updated or strengthened.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Public Health and Welfare Committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the Committee shall appoint a task force of interested state and local officials, construction industry representatives, members of the construction trades, and the general public to develop information and recommendations for the Committee.
3. That the Committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 166.

Introduced by Beutler, 28th District.

PURPOSE:

A fundamental axiom of the State and United States Constitutions is equal access to the law by all citizens. For many citizens, the courts would be financially unaccessible except for the existence of the federal Legal Services Corporation. However, President Ronald Reagan's budget proposals delete all monies for that corporation, which currently funds three Legal Aid Societies in Nebraska and last year served 12,000 Nebraska citizens. The integrity and smooth functioning of our State and Local governments is dependent on continued access to the law by these citizens. However, the proper role of the State in assuring this access is not clear. There is a pressing need to determine that role promptly in light of the threatened termination of funds. Therefore, the Nebraska Legislature, in conjunction with the Legal Aid Societies of Nebraska, representatives of a Public Defender's Office, the Nebraska State Bar Association, the Office of the Attorney General, the Court Administrator's Office, and the Office of the Chief Justice of the Nebraska State Supreme Court, should conduct an interim study on that issue.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 167.

Introduced by Beutler, 28th District; Labedz, 5th District; Fowler, 27th District.

PURPOSE:

Consolidation of Separate Juvenile Probation Offices with Nebraska State Probation System.

Probation for adult offenders in Nebraska is supervised in all counties by the Nebraska State Probation System. Probation for juvenile offenders is also managed by the state system in all counties except those which maintain a separate juvenile court. In those counties, a separate juvenile probation program is also maintained. This system appears to create unnecessary duplication of resources and administrative tasks, and unnecessary confusion on the parts of those who deal with probation. Further, it places a burden on the taxpayers of those counties, who support with their own taxes not only the state system everyone else uses, but also their separate juvenile systems. LB 339, introduced this session, would mandate the merger of the county-level juvenile court probation systems with the statewide probation system. To assist in the determination of the desirability of such a bill, the following should be studied:

1. The types and costs of services provided by the separate juvenile systems and by the state system for juveniles.
2. The current inequities in taxpayer support of juvenile probation systems.
3. The cost to the state of merging the systems.
4. The areas of service in which duplication now exists, and a projection of the anticipated savings which would result from a merger.
5. The appropriate method of reconciling any possible inequities in the state and county systems are between employees of each upon merger.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 168.

Introduced by Koch, 12th District.

PURPOSE:

The purpose of this study is to explore the feasibility of providing potential funding for various public elementary and secondary education needs through a statutory enactment of punitive damages.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 169.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District; Decamp, 40th District.

PURPOSE:

Governor Charles Thone has established the Governor's Task Force on Government Improvement. The task force has proposed recommendations for the improvement and reorganization of state government, many of which would require legislation to enact. Although legislation was introduced and passed implementing some of these recommendations, numerous task force recommendations remain to be considered by the Legislature. The purpose of this resolution is to provide for legislative review of the present recommendations of the task force and to establish an open and direct line of communication on any additional efforts of the task force. The study should be designed to develop cooperative efforts of the Governor, the task force, and the Legislature to achieve mutual goals for the improvement of state government.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a special committee of the Legislature shall be appointed by the Executive Board to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 170.

Introduced by Vickers, 38th District; Maresh, 32nd District.

PURPOSE:

There have been reports emanating from the business sector of Nebraska that large corporations are routinely delaying payment to small Nebraska businesses for services furnished or material delivered. This, due to the condition of the nation's economy, places a severe and unnecessary burden upon those small Nebraska businesses affected, especially those already experiencing cashflow difficulties. The purpose of this study is to 1) determine the scope of the problem and 2) identify possible legislative action which, if enacted, would serve to curtail the problem.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature shall be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.
2. That the committee shall upon the conclusion of its study make a report of its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 179.

Introduced by Beutler, 28th District.

PURPOSE:

Maintenance of our soil resource and its food producing capability are of utmost importance to the prosperity and well-being of our society. Soil is a renewable resource if respected and properly used. Policies which result in or contribute to exploitation of this resource should be examined. In particular grain export policies and efforts to raise sufficient crops in the United States to feed the growing world population encourage increasing use of marginal and previously uncultivated lands for crop production often resulting in high soil erosion losses from wind and other factors. Unrestrained, these activities may permanently impair this vital resource.

Soil erosion may also cause water quality problems as identified in the March 1980 Report to the Governor and the Legislature on Water Quality prepared as part of the State Water Planning and Review Process. The financial capability of individual producers to implement soil and water conservation practices, and the state's role in assisting with implementation, an issue addressed by LB 148, should be explored.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That a committee of the Legislature be designated to conduct an interim study to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

2. That the committee report its findings, together with its recommendations, to the Legislature or to the Legislative Council upon conclusion of the study.

Referred to the Executive Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 93
May 8, 1981

Dear Senator Chronister:

Re: Compensation of Rural Water District Directors

We are responding to your letter in which you state that you are considering introducing legislation to amend Neb.Rev.Stat. § 46-1018 (Reissue 1978), to provide for "reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses" for members of Rural Water District Boards.

Neb.Rev.Stat. § 46-1018 now reads: "The chairman and all persons who may perform any service or labor as provided in sections 46-1001 to 46-1020 shall be paid such just and reasonable compensation as may be allowed by the board of directors. . . ."

You state in your letter you are attempting to reimburse board members for mileage and other out of pocket expenses incurred in connection with the business of the district. We believe that the present language in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 46-1018 (Reissue 1978) is sufficient to reimburse the board members for these expenses. We do not believe that any amendment is necessary to the present legislation to reimburse the board members, nor do we believe that the proposed language would serve any useful purpose in clarifying the power of the board.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

48-121. The following schedule of compensation is hereby established for injuries resulting in disability:

(1) For total disability, the compensation during such disability shall be sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of the wages received at the time of injury, but such compensation shall not be more than one hundred ~~eighty~~ ninety dollars per week, nor less than forty-nine dollars per week; Provided, that if at the time of injury the employee receives wages of less than forty-nine dollars per week, then he or she shall receive the full amount of such wages per week as compensation. Nothing in this subdivision shall require payment of compensation after disability shall cease.

(2) For disability partial in character, except the particular cases mentioned in subdivision (3) of this section, the compensation shall be sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of the difference between the wages received at the time of the injury and the earning power of the employee thereafter, but such compensation shall not be more than one hundred ~~eighty~~ ninety dollars per week. This compensation shall be paid during the period of such partial disability, but not beyond three hundred weeks. Should total disability be followed by partial disability, the period of three hundred weeks mentioned in this subdivision shall be reduced by the number of weeks during which compensation was paid for such total disability.

(3) For disability resulting from permanent injury of the following classes, the compensation shall be in addition to the amount paid for temporary disability; Provided, the compensation for temporary disability shall cease as soon as the extent of the permanent disability is ascertainable, viz: For the loss of a thumb, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during sixty weeks. For the loss of a first finger, commonly called the index finger, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during thirty-five weeks. For the loss of a second finger, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during thirty weeks. For the loss of a third finger, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during twenty weeks. For the loss of a fourth finger, commonly called the little finger, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during fifteen weeks. The loss of more than one phalange shall be considered as the loss of the entire finger or thumb; Provided, that in no case shall the amount recieved for more than one finger exceed the amount provided in this schedule for the loss of a hand. For the loss of a great toe, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during thirty weeks. For the loss of one of the toes other than the great toe, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during ten weeks. The loss of the first phalange of any toe shall be considered equal to the loss of one half of such toe, and

For the loss of the nose, sixty-six and two-thirds per cent of daily wages during fifty weeks.

In any case in which there shall be a loss or loss of use of more than one member or parts of more than one member set forth in this subdivision, but not amounting to total and permanent disability, compensation benefits shall be paid for the loss or loss of use of each such member or part thereof, with the periods of benefits to run consecutively. The total loss or permanent total loss of use of both hands, or both arms, or both feet, or both legs, or both eyes, or hearing in both ears, or of any two thereof, in one accident, shall constitute total and permanent disability and be compensated for according to the provisions of subdivision (1) of this secton. In all other cases involving a loss or loss of use of both hands, both arms, both feet, both legs, both eyes, or hearing in both ears, or of any two thereof, total and permanent disability shall be determined in accordance with the facts. Amputation between the elbow and the wrist shall be considered as the equivalent of the loss of a hand, and amputation between the knee and the ankle shall be considered as the equivalent of the loss of a foot. Amputation at or above the elbow shall be considered as the loss of an arm, and amputation at or above the knee shall be considered as the loss of a leg. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 94

Dear Senator Hefner:

You have indicated that the Nebraska Legislature is currently considering various methods of reapportioning Nebraska's congressional districts based upon the 1980 census figures and have inquired as to the legal necessity of achieving, as nearly as possible, mathematical equality between districts.

In White v. Weiser, 412 U.S. 783, the United States Supreme Court relying upon Article I, Section 2 of our Federal Constitution rejected a Texas reapportionment plan in which the largest district exceeded the ideal district by 2.43 percent and the smallest was under populated by 1.7 percent. In that case, the challengers had demonstrated to the lower court that an alternative plan existed which would have had a maximum deviation of .086 percent and a minimum deviation of .063 percent.

The court citing its previous holding in Kirkpatrick v. Preisler, 394 U.S. 526, stated that the Federal Constitution would permit only those population variances among congressional districts which were unavoidable despite a good faith effort to achieve absolute equality.

It should be kept in mind in reviewing decisions of the federal courts on reapportionment questions that there is a different standard applicable to reapportionment plans for federal congressional districts than is applicable to reviews of reapportionment plans for state legislative districts. This is true in part because congressional districts are governed by the precise language of Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution of the United States while state legislative districts are controlled by the broad general language of the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. This distinction was recognized by the United States Supreme Court in White, supra, where they made reference to a previous holding in the case of Mahan v. Howell, 410 U.S. 315, and indicated that while the line of cases of which Kirkpatrick, supra, was a part would continue to govern congressional reapportionments, a less stringent standard would be applicable to evaluations of state reapportionment plans challenged under the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.

Therefore, from our reading of the Supreme Court's holding in White v. Weiser, supra, we would be of the opinion that the Nebraska Legislature should attempt to arrive at a reapportionment plan which would as nearly as possible achieve mathematical equality between the three congressional districts.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

RESOLUTION

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 180.

Introduced by Wesely, 26th District.

WHEREAS, interstate rail passenger transportation is an essential service to Nebraskans, especially in view of ever-decreasing air service and rising gasoline costs; and

WHEREAS, the nation's entire rail transportation system is especially deserving of continued support in view of the continuing energy crisis and deteriorating national highway system; and

WHEREAS, ridership on the national Amtrak system has steadily increased, and the railroad is ahead of schedule in meeting revenue targets mandated by Congress; and

WHEREAS, President Reagan has recommended a reduction in the federal budget for Amtrak service from $853 to $613 million; and

WHEREAS, if approved by Congress this reduction will require significant cutbacks in Amtrak service and will threaten continued rail passenger service in Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, as much as $200 million might be required to fulfill contracts with rail workers left idle if the proposed reduction is approved, and millions of dollars invested in track and equipment, including $300 million worth of new Superliner cars, might be wasted;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Nebraska Congressional delegation is urged to seriously examine the true net cost-savings before supporting the proposed Amtrak budget reductions;

2. That the delegation is urged to work to assure that any reductions in Amtrak service are based primarily upon passenger levels, and that the delegation vigorously oppose any action which might lead to the termination of passenger train service in Nebraska; and
3. That a copy of this resolution be delivered to each member of the Nebraska Congressional delegation.

Laid over.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

May 13, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning herewith LB 561 with my line item reductions and with my signature.

On April 8, 1981, I called your attention to the following:

1. Through March, state general fund revenues were over $13 million below projections as of that date. I can now inform you that April receipts were also below projections. For the 1980/1981 fiscal year through April, revenues are approximately $24 million below projections. With this information, there is good and substantial cause for concern and for increased restraint in accomplishing our budget-setting duties.

2. The President's Economic Recovery Plan, which I support, will result in reduced federal revenues for many state programs. The essentiality of flexibility in preserving our budgetary options in the upcoming fiscal year should be apparent to all.

3. Our current income tax projections do not reflect the President's tax cut proposals. Such changes in federal tax liability are inevitably reflected in our own income tax rates which, as you know, piggy-back the federal income tax system.

For these reasons, as stated in April, I will do everything within my constitutional authority to maintain the budgetary limits recommended to you in January and which were generally honored by your own Appropriations Committee.

LB 561 — the state aid bill — contains over one-half of the total proposed general fund operating and state aid budget for fiscal year 1981/1982. My total general fund line item veto reductions to LB 561 are $24,047,608. Included in this total is $20 million for additional state aid to education. I remind you that only last year you increased state aid to education by a total of $40 million or almost 73 percent — $20 million of which was over my veto. Total state aid and tax relief last year amounted to $70 million, not including the additional relief afforded Nebraska income taxpayers by action of the State Board of Equalization. We have just sent local governments checks totalling $60 million with another $10 million being processed in early June. There is no compelling reason to again increase aid to education with the swift and certain increase in state taxes such increased aid will mandate.

My other general fund line item veto reductions are: Department of Public Institutions - $777,258; Department of Roads - $187,970; Natural Resources Commission - $1,325,000; Department of Public Welfare - $1,757,380.

During the prior legislative session, I used my veto authority to reduce the appropriation for LB 789 to a level that provided for an increase in the Aid to Dependent Children grant from $250 to $270 monthly for a parent and one dependent. In my budget recommendations submitted to you in January, I provided for an increase in the basic grant from $270 to $280 and the Appropriations Committee adopted this recommendation. In addition, the Committee increased the grant for additional dependents by five dollars. I have reduced the appropriation for this program to an amount consistent with the Appropriations Committee recommendation.

The appropriation for the Natural Resources Commission in the Water Conservation Fund and the Resources Development Fund has been reduced by $1,325,000. My original recommendation for Water Conservation and Resources Development earmarked two cents of the cigarette tax to provide approximately $3.6 million annual revenue. That proposal would have provided a dedicated revenue source for long-term construction projects and was approximately 30 percent greater than the current year's appropriation.

Your actions provide for a 94 percent overall increase in these programs with a 135 percent increase to the Development Fund alone. I have reduced the Conservation Fund appropriation by $325,000 to the current level of funding and the Resources Development Fund by $1.0 million, which is still a 76 percent increase above the current level of funding.

Assistance to Local Transit Authorities in the Department of Roads has been reduced by $187,970, to my original recommendation of $1,788,750, in light of the provisions of LB 722.

I have reduced the appropriation for Community Mental Retardation Services in the Department of Public Institutions by $777,258 from $14,202,258 to $13,425,000, which was my original recommendation. This recommendation includes support for all persons moved from the Beatrice State Developmental Center into community-based facilities through fiscal year 1979/1980. My recommendation also provides for the level of staffing adopted by the Accreditation Council for services for mentally retarded and other developmentally disabled individuals.

The recent Touche-Ross Report brought to light the existence of major inequities in state funding between and among regions. For example, clients in one region were found to receive only one-fourth of the staff care that clients in another region obtained. Similar variations were found in the cost of various types of community services. Therefore, my regional recommendations have been structured to correct these obvious inequities in state support and program costs on a phased approach over a five year period.

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker and Senators, for the reasons enumerated, it is imperative to closely toe the line on appropriations as have been outlined to you. I have signed the other major operating and capital construction bills as passed by you and generally recommended by your Appropriations Committee. Let me congratulate you and the Appropriations Committee for your self-restraint in the face of the many hard decisions confronting you on these bills. Similar restraint on in sustaining these line item veto reductions and on the other spending bills currently before you is in order and will be much appreciated.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 95

May 11, 1981

Dear Senator Hoagland:

You have requested the opinion of this office concerning the constitutionality of LB213 which would alter the procedures governing commitment, review and release of persons acquitted of crimes solely due to insanity. You have specifically asked that we address the constitutionality of the: general approach taken by the bill, standard of commitment, and retrospective application. We conclude that the bill is constitutionally suspect in that it: provides only those rights associated with sentencings, allows for precommitment detention for up to 60 days, limits mandatory review of status to once each year, and does not require evidence of a recent overt act or threat demonstrating dangerousness to self or others. The proposed retrospective application is constitutionally permissible assuming that the foregoing defects are cured.

Nebraska law presently provides that an acquittal by reason of insanity precludes criminal liability. This approach is continued in LB213. The bill premises subsequent restrictions of liberty solely upon a determination that the defendant is dangerous to self or others by reason of mental illness or defect, or will be so dangerous in the reasonable future. (We do not express an opinion on whether incarceration could constitutionally be based solely upon the finding that the criminal act was committed regardless of insanity.)

The determination upon which LB213 premises liberty restrictions would not be made in a criminal trial. Thus, a separate hearing with the full panoply of due process rights is required. Additionally, the approach taken by the bill makes the class of persons it proposes to commit similar to the class of persons facing involuntary civil commitment. As such, these classes must be afforded substantially equal treatment. There must be a rational relationship between a legitimate state purpose and differences in treatment in order to satisfy constitutional equal protection. See, Powell v. Florida, 579 F.2d 324 (5th Cir. 1978); Bolton v. Harris, 395 F.2d 642 D.C.Cir. 1968).

The constitutional rights of persons facing involuntary commitments were addressed in Doremus v. Farrell, 407 F.Supp. 509 (D.Neb. 1975). It was held that they had the right to: notice of the preliminary hearing; notice of the grounds, reasons and necessity of emergency detention; notice of the time and location of hearings; notice of the standard of commitment; counsel, at state expense if indigent, and notice thereof; a probable cause hearing within five days of detention; a final hearing within 14 days of the preliminary hearing; be personally present at all hearings; confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses; compel attendance of witnesses during final hearing; present evidence on their own behalf; application of the rules of evidence, and; require that serious threat of substantial harm to self or others be evidenced by a recent overt act or threat.

The aforementioned rights, as well as the rights to discovery and mandatory review of status at any time, have been statutorily enacted in the Nebraska Mental Health Commitment Act, Neb.Rev.Stat. §83-1001, et seq. (Reissue 1976) (NMHCA). Questions of procedural and substantive due process aside, the existence of the NMHCA requires an equal protection comparison with LB213.

The bill does not pass this comparison. Section 6 of LB213 provides only those rights associated with sentencing proceedings. This would not include the right to: confront and cross-examine adverse witnesses, present evidence on one's own behalf, compel attendance of witnesses, discovery, and application of the rules of evidence. We believe that LB 213 is constitutionally suspect for its failure to provide these rights.

The bill is also suspect in that it does not require evidence of a recent overt act or threat demonstrating dangerousness to self or others. Although there are substantive due process questions concerning the lack of this requirement, (see Doremus, supra; Statmus v. Leonhardt, 414 F.Supp. 439 (S.D.Ia. 1976); Lessard v. Schmit, 349 F.Supp. 1078 (E.D.Wis. 1972), we dispose of the issue on equal protection grounds. We cannot discern a rational legitimate reason for this difference in treatment between persons facing commitment under LB213 and those facing commitment under the NMHCA. It can be argued that persons subject to LB213 have committed the act for which they were criminally charged, and that this act can be substituted for the recent act requirement. However, that argument does not survive close analysis. The act may have been committed months or even years prior to the commitment proceedings. Afortiori, it may be too remote in time to be valid for commitment purposes. Additionally, the act may not adequately demonstrate dangerousness to self or others. Insanity acquittals are not limited to cases involving serious danger to self or others. The underlying act could be almost any crime, including relatively minor property offenses. Statutes under which commitment can be based solely on danger to property without regard to its significance or value have been held unconstitutional. Suzuki v. Yuen, 716 F.2d 173 (9th Cir. 1980). We therefore conclude that LB213 is constitutionally suspect for the lack of a requirement that dangerousness be evidenced by a recent overt act or threat. (We note that in those cases where the underlying criminal act is recent in time and demonstrates dangerousness, evidence thereof could be introduced into the commitment proceedings as satisfaction of the recent act requirement).

Section 3 of LB213 which allows commitment for up to 60 days for purposes of evaluation is constitutionally suspect on equal protection grounds. (Again, we do not address the substantive due process questions due to disposal on other grounds). The bill provides that after acquittal the "court shall forthwith conduct a hearing to determine whether and under what conditions of confinement the acquitted person should committed to one of the regional centers for a period not to exceed 60 days." Standards by which this determination is to be made are not stated. We are unable to assume a probable cause standard. Consequently, detention for a period beyond five days is constitutionally suspect on grounds of equal protection. Assuming that a probable cause standard were inserted, we believe that detention beyond an additional 14 days is likewise constitutionally suspect. Our belief is based on the fact that we cannot discern a legitimate rational reason justifying this substantial difference in treatment. In fact, logic dictates the opposite. Persons who have been acquitted due to insanity have uniformly undergone prior evaluations while subjects of NMHCA petitions have not. It is therefore difficult to justify detention under LB213 for a period of 60 days while persons facing commitment under the NMHCA are entitled to a final hearing within 14 days. We conclude that the 60 day precommitment detention period is constitutionally suspect.

Section 5 of LB213 requires mandatory review of status only once per year. We do not see a legitimate rational reason for granting persons committed under the NMHCA a mandatory status review at any time, while limiting such review to once a year for persons committed under LB213. We believe that this limitation is constitutionally suspect.

The retrospective application proposed by Section 7 of LB213 is constitutionally permissible assuming that the previously addressed constitutional problems are cured. The provisions to be retroactively applied cannot be considered ex post facto under current laws since they do not involve a criminal matter. The rights persons would lose under the otherwise constitutional provisions of LB213 have not vested so as to make their removal constitutionally impermissible. Our conclusions would substantially differ if the bill were passed without addressing the previously stated problems.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 96

Re: Constitutionality of LB 252

Dear Senator Kremer:

We are responding to your letter requesting an opinion on the constitutionality of LB 252. We have reviewed this proposal and the amendments adopted thereto effective May 8, 1981. You question whether the act may violate the equal protection clause or the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment.

A questionable portion of this act appears to be in section 6 wherein the Legislature:

> recognizes . . . that the transfer of water to outside the boundaries of a river basin may have impacts on the water and other resources in the basin and that such impacts differ from those caused by uses of water within the same basin in part because any unused water will not be returned to the stream from which it is taken for further use in that river basin. . . .

and delineates seven factors which must be considered by the Director of Water Resources when evaluating an application for transfer of water from one river basin to another. The act would specifically provide: "The application shall be denied if the benefits to the state from granting the application do not outweigh the benefits to the state from denying the application.

You assert that this language as well as others contained in the act has the effect of creating two classifications of water appropriators (those inside the water basin of origin, and those outside). It then treats these classes differently by specifically providing the considerations to be used in deciding upon an application for interbasin transfer and requiring that such an application be denied if its benefits do not exceed those for leaving the water in the basin of origin.

We first examine whether the bill violates equal protection of the law. In so doing, we review the bill in light of its legislative purpose to provide an equitable system for the use and appropriation of the state's water for all its citizens.

The United States Supreme Court has recognized that absent a legislative classification which "interferes with the exercise of a fundamental right or operates to peculiar disadvantage of a suspect class," equal protection analysis is an inquiry which "employs a relatively relaxed standard reflecting the court's awareness that the drawing of the lines that create distinction is peculiarly a legislative task" which action is "presumed to be valid." Massachusetts Board of Retirement v. Murgia, 427 U.S. 307, 313-314, 49 L.Ed.2d 520, 96 S.Ct. 2562 (1976). This standard is that "the state's classification rationally further the purpose identified by the state." Id. at 314. Perfection in drawing the classification is not necessary.

We perceive no suspect class affected nor an exercise of fundamental property right affected. See Massachusetts Board of Retirement v. Murgia, supra, at footnote 3 and 4. Although the right to appropriate surface water is affected, the water belongs to the people of the state and may be appropriated only so long as it is in the public interest. (Nebraska Constitution, Article XV, Section 6). This right to appropriate surface waters is subject to the conditions placed by the people acting through its legislature and executive agencies created thereby. Neb.Rev.Stat. §46-233, et seq. (Reissue 1978).

Our Nebraska Supreme Court has recognized that the Legislature may classify where reasonable where it is not done in an arbitrary manner. State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598, 608, 300 N.W.2d 181 (1980). Citing a case of City of Scottsbluff v. Tiemann, 185 Neb. 256, 175 N.W.2d 74 (1970), it stated:

> "It is competent for the Legislature to classify objects of legislation and if the classification is reasonable and not arbitrary, it is a legitimate exercise of legislative power. [Citation omitted] The classification must rest upon real differences in situation and circumstances surrounding members of the class relative to the subject of the legislation which renders appropriate its enactment. [Citations omitted] The power of classification rests with the Legislature and cannot be interfered with by the courts unless it is clearly apparent that the Legislature has by artificial and baseless classification attempted to evade and violate provisions of the Constitution prohibiting local and specific legislation. [Citation omitted] . . . The question is always whether the things or > persons classified by the act form by themselves a proper and legitimate class with reference to the purpose of the act."

Id. at 608-609.

However, these classifications appear to be real, based on distinctions with substantial differences. Water within any basin is subjected to multiple repeated uses upon its journey through the state. Thus, when water is taken out of a basin by transfer to another basin, its impact is felt many times over. Some of these uses and some of these impacts may not now, nor at the time of the decision, be recognized. For this reason, different treatment for water users of a subject basin inside and outside of that basin may be justified.

It is our conclusion, that there is a reasonable distinction between in-basin and out of basin users and that the proposal bears a reasonable relationship to the legitimate state objectives. We perceive no violation of requirements for equal protection of the law.

We next examine whether this bill is a deprivation of property without due process of law.

As a general rule, the requirements of due process contained in the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution necessitates some kind of prior hearing with notice before the terminaton of property rights. Board of Regents v. Roth, 408 U.S. 564, 569-579, 33 L.Ed.2d 548, 92 S.Ct. 2701 (1972). Property interests protected by the due process "extend well beyond actual ownership of real estate, chattels or money." Id. at 572. To have property interests protected by this clause, a person must show "more than a mere abstract need or desire for it . . . more than a unilateral expectation for it." Id. at 577. The property must be more than a mere expectation. Perry v. Sindermann, 408 U.S. 593, 603, 33 L.Ed.2d 570, 92 S.Ct. 2694 (1972). It must be a claim "upon which people rely in their daily lives . . . reliance that must not be arbitrarily undermined." Board of Regents v. Roth, supra, at 577. Property interests are not defined by the United States Constitution but by independent sources such as state law. Id.

The Nebraska Constitution provides that the ownership of water belongs to the people, but further provides for regulation by the Legislature. (Nebraska Constitution, Article XV, Section 5 and 6). The Legislature provides for regulation and determination of the public interest by the Department of Water Resources. (Neb.Rev.Stat. §46-233 et seq. (Reissue 1978)). Although a person may acquire a permit to appropriate surface water, he has no ownership right in that surface water. We do not perceive that a person without a permit has any protected property interest in the right to appropriate water from another river basin. Our conclusion in this regard is supported by the recent Supreme Court decision in State ex rel. Sporhase, No. 43206, filed May 8, 1981, which held that a statute preventing a person from transferring groundwater on his own lands out of the state did not violate the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment for the reason that the person had "no private property right in the water itself." (Slip Opinion at 9). Our decision is further buttressed by the opportunity for hearing, notice and appeal of any decision of the Director upon application for diversion of water. We therefore see no violation of the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment by LB 252.

It is our conclusion that LB 252 would violate neither the equal protection clause nor the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. It would be a valid enactment.

Opinion No. 97
May 12, 1981

Re: Constitutionality of LB 252

Dear Senator Vickers:

We are responding to your request for an opinion whether LB 252 violates the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. You also inquire whether an amendment you enclosed would be constitutional.

In answer to your first question, we refer you to an opinion written to Senator Maurice Kremer dated May 12, 1981, in response to his previous request in which we concluded that LB 252 as presently amended violates neither the due process clause nor the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment of the United States Constitution. It was our conclusion that the act creates reasonable distinctions between in-basin and out-of-basin applicants, and that the proposal bears a reasonable relationship to legitimate state objectives. We further concluded that since ownership of surface water resides in the public, that no person is being deprived of property rights without due process of law.

We have examined the proposed amendment which you attached, listing twelve factors which the Director of the Department of Water Resources must consider when making a determination upon the application to appropriate 5,000 or more acre feet of water. We perceive no constitutional impediment to such an amendment and conclude that it, likewise, would be a valid enactment.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

"Sec. 13. That section 2-3234, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

2-3234. (1) Subject to the provisions of subsection (2) of this section, each ~~Each~~ district shall have the power and authority to exercise the power of eminent domain when necessary to carry out the purposes of this act within the limits of the district or outside its boundaries. Exercise of eminent domain shall be governed by the provisions of sections 76-704 to 76-724; Provided, that whenever any district seeks to acquire the right to interfere with the use of any water being used for power purposes in accordance with sections 46-204, 70-668, 70-669, and 70-672, and shall be unable to agree with the user of such water upon the compensation to be paid for such interference, the procedure to condemn property shall be followed in the manner set forth in sections 76-704 to 76-724, and no other property shall be included in such condemnation. No district shall contract for delivery of water to persons within the corporate limits of any village, city, or metropolitan utilities district, nor in competition therewith outside such corporate limits, except by consent of and written agreement with the governing body of such political subdivision. A village, city, or metropolitan utilities district may negotiate and, if necessary, exercise the power of eminent domain for the acquisition of water supply facilities of the district which are within its boundaries.

(2) Except as provided in section 16 of this act, the power of eminent domain shall not be used to acquire property for a project, (a) of which seventy-five per cent or more of the benefits are recreational and (b) having five hundred surface acres of water or less. Nothing in this subsection is intended to preclude a district from using, for recreational or park facilities, land acquired by eminent domain for any of the purposes listed in section 2-3229 other than subsection (11) of such section.

Sec. 14. It shall be the duty of the board of directors of each natural resources district to make a determination of the percentage of project benefits assessed to each of the purposes listed in section 2-3229 prior to the initiation of eminent domain proceedings. Such determination shall be prima facie evidence in any subsequent litigation in which the exercise of the power of eminent domain is at issue.

Sec. 15. The restriction on the use of eminent domain provided in subsection (2) of section 2-3234 shall apply to all proceedings which have not reached final adjudication prior to the effective date of this act.

Sec. 16. With the consent of the Legislature a natural resources district may use eminent domain to acquire property for a project of which seventy-five per cent or more of the benefits are recreational.

Sec. 18. If any section in this act or any part of any section shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining portions thereof.”.

2. On page 21, line 8, strike “13, and 14” and insert “and 13 to 19”; and in line 12 strike “section” and insert “sections 2-3234 and”.

3. Renumber original sections 13, 14, 15, and 16 as sections 17, 19, 20, and 21, respectively.

4. In the title, line 2, strike “water” and insert “natural resources”, and after “sections” insert “2-3234,”; in line 13 after the second semicolon insert “to restrict the use of eminent domain by natural resources districts as prescribed;”; and in line 15 after the semicolon insert “to provide for severability;”.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 98
May 13, 1981

Dear Senator Haberman:

You have informed us that LB 46 was amended on select file to allow NRDs an increase in taxing authority from one-quarter to one-half mill. You then pose the following question: "Can a NRD exceed the 7 percent budget limitation imposed by statute on the new one-quarter mill increase?"

We believe that the amendment to which you refer is Request No. 2349 printed on page 1630 of the Legislative Journal. That amendment provides:

> Each district encompassed in whole or in part by a control area designated pursuant to subdivision (1)(a) or (1)(b) of section 46-658 shall have the power and authority to levy a tax not to exceed ~~nine tenths of one cent~~ one and eight-tenths cents on each one hundred dollars annually on all of the taxable property within the portion of the district encompassed by such control area, except that if any land is designated as a control area under both subdivisions (1)(a) and subdivision (1)(b) of section 46-658 the tax levied shall not exceed two and seven-tenths cents on each one hundred dollars annually. Such levy, which shall be in addition to that authorized by section 2-3225, shall be utilized only for the costs of carrying out the provisions of sections 46-656 to 46-674 and section 10 of this act, within such control area. Certification and collection of such levy shall be administered by the district and by the county or counties involved in the same manner as the levy authorized by section 2-3225.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3426 (Supp. 1980) in part provides:

> Any political subdivision that is authorized by state law to levy a tax or cause a tax to be levied, which tax or portion thereof is in addition to the tax such political subdivision is authorized to levy or cause to be levied on May 17, 1979, shall not include as a receipt from local tax sources the anticipated receipts from such newly authorized levy during the first fiscal year for which such newly authorized levy generates tax receipts, but thereafter the receipts from such newly authorized tax shall be included in determining receipts from local tax sources.

Clearly the amendment which was adopted to LB 46 is an amendment which increases the amount of tax that natural resource districts, which are bodies authorized to levy a tax, could levy as of May 17, 1979. Obviously any levy imposed under the provisions of this provision will therefore be specifically excluded for the first year in determining whether the proper amount of tax that may be raised under the Political Subdivision Budget Limit Act of 1979, Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3412 et seq. (Supp. 1980).

This means of course that a political subdivision simply excludes that portion of any such levy which is imposed in the first year under this increased levying authority. This of course does not answer the question of whether or not whether such districts could increase their mill levy to acount for the creation as new control areas. However that question was answered in 1980 by the adoption of LB 887 now codified as Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3432.01 (Supp. 1980). That section provides: "Any control area created pursuant to sections 46-656 to 46-674, after December 31, 1978, shall for the first year in which funds are received from taxes imposed or levied be considered a new program for purposes of subdivision (2) of section 77-3424." Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3424 (Supp. 1980) excludes funds used for the first year's implementation of any new program established by state law and a control area would qualify under such an exclusion. Thus the answer to your question is that to the extent that a new control area is established or an existing control area has the tax levied upon it increased by the governing body after the effective date of LB 146, those amounts would be excluded from determining the allowable seven percent increase in an NRD's total budget.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

RESOLUTION

LEGISLATIVE RESOLUTION 184.

Introduced by DeCamp, 40th District.

WHEREAS, education organized and administered by religious organizations has been a long standing and venerated tradition throughout the history of the United States and State of Nebraska; and

WHEREAS, denominational, parochial, and private schools in the State of Nebraska play an integral role in providing quality education to the citizens of the State and allowing for an alternative to publicly financed and administered education; and

WHEREAS, a fundamental belief held by several religious organizations is that the proper educational process is inseparable from religious practice; and

WHEREAS, the certification of teachers, as prescribed by Nebraska law and interpreted, is viewed to be an infringement of religious rights of those religious organizations that hold the above stated belief; and

WHEREAS, the Nebraska Supreme Court in State ex rel. Douglas v. Faith Baptist Church held that the State has the power to impose reasonable regulations for the control and duration of basic education and a legitimate concern for maintaining minimum standards in all the schools it allows to operate; and

WHEREAS, Section 79-1247.06 provides, in part, that the maximum requirement which the State Board of Education may impose on one seeking teacher certification is a baccalaureate degree; and

WHEREAS, in the concurring and dissenting opinion of the above-entitled case delivered by Chief Justice Krivosha, it was stated "Yet, by mere rule, the state board has converted the maximum requirement into a minimum requirement. This action taken by the state board in promulgating Rule 21 appears to me to constitute the exercise of undelegated legislative authority and may, therefore, be void."

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE MEMBERS OF THE EIGHTY-SEVENTH LEGISLATURE OF NEBRASKA, FIRST SESSION:

1. That the Administrative Rules and Regulations Review Committee of the Legislature conduct a comprehensive interim study to determine whether or not the State Board of Education, in its adoption of Rule 21, is (a) beyond its scope of authority, (b) a direct encroachment upon legislative authority, (c) arbitrary, capricious, and unreasonable; and (d) discriminatory.

2. That the Committee review all statutes and rules promulgated thereunder on the subjects of (a) public, private, parochial and denominational school qualifications and teacher and administrator certification and registration, (b) the minimum curriculum requirements as set by the Department of Education for all schools, (c) the process of proficiency testing of students K-12.

3. That the committee shall report its findings by August 20, 1981 with recommendations to the Legislative Council or Legislature.

Referred to the Executive Board.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 99
May 13, 1981

Re: Nebraska Mental Health Commitment Act

Dear Senator Fowler:

This is in reply to your inquiry concerning LB 95 which amends the above act. You specifically ask for our opinion on the constitutionality of eliminating the portions of the above act requiring a preliminary hearing.

Section 26 of the act is amended to provide that the summons shall fix the time for a hearing within ten days after the subject has been taken into protective custody. This portion of the bill originally provided that the subject would be given a preliminary hearing within five days after being taken into protective custody.

In Doremus v. Farrell, 407 F.Supp. 509, a three judge court of the United States District Court for the District of Nebraska, in considering the Nebraska Mental Health Act which was replaced by the present act specifically held that the former act was unconstitutional for failure to require a preliminary inquiry on probable cause within five days after the arrest of a subject if the proposed patient was detained in custody pending final commitment.

The court in its reasoning found that under the Nebraska statutes in force at that time, that "the determination to confine a person may be done with or without a hearing."

While there may be cases in other federal district courts or other circuits, we have found no cases from our United States Court of Appeals for the Eighth Circuit or the United States Supreme Court which would have the effect of overruling Doremus v. Farrell, supra.

By way of illustration, we do not think the recent United States Supreme Court case of Vitek v. Jones, 445 U.S. 480, 63 L.Ed.2d 552, requiring one due process hearing before the transfer of an inmate of a penal institution to a mental hospital, would have the effect of overruling Doremus v. Farrell. In Vitek v. Jones, the Supreme Court specifically recognized that a criminal conviction and sentence as to an inmate extinguished his right to freedom from confinement for the term of his sentence, but recognized that transfer to a mental institution still involved a change in the type of custody contemplated and therefore the requirement of a due process hearing for that reason.

The case of Doremus v. Farrell, supra, specifically addresses the requirement of a probable cause hearing as to members of the public generally who are in possession of all their rights of freedom and are taken into custody and detained. We cannot, of course, predict whether or not a higher court may ultimately settle upon five days as the time within which a probable cause hearing as to a person in detention must be held, but we agree that such a hearing must be held within a reasonable time. We are of the opinion that the Federal District Court of Nebraska, and undoubtedly the higher Federal courts, would find ten days to be an unreasonable time to hold a person in custody without a hearing. We are further of the opinion that detention for any period of time in excess of five days without a probable cause hearing would be difficult to defend constitutionally, in light of the specific holding in Doremus v. Farrell referred to above.

Respectfully submitted,

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 100

Dear Senator Carsten:

You have asked whether clarifying language is needed in LB 284 to make clear exactly how funds are to be distributed to individual subdivisions under sections 4 and 10 of the bill. We believe it would be helpful to have such clarification, although we have an opinion as to how it should be construed in its present form.

Sections 4 and 10, in identical language, provide for distribution to the political subdivisions within a county of funds distributed to the county pursuant to sections 3 and 9 respectively. Sections 4 and 10 provide that each political subdivision in the county, including the county itself, with authority to levy a tax shall receive a portion of such funds based on the percentage of total taxes levied in the county that was levied by the particular subdivision "during the prior calendar year." The distributions to the counties, and then to the subdivisions, will be made in seven equal monthly payments, starting in December of each year.

The use of the language "prior calendar year" is certainly susceptible of meaning that a distribution begun in December of 1981 should be based upon levies made in 1980. We are inclined, however, not to construe it in that way, for several reasons.

In the first place, distributions to the counties pursuant to section 3 are to be based on "the most current County Abstract of Assessment Form 45." See section 2(3). In December of any year that would be the abstract of assessment for that calendar year. The funds distributed to the counties pursuant to section 9 are to be distributed based on "the most recent certificate of taxes levied pursuant to section 77-728." Again, in December of any year that would be the certificate pertaining to that year.

We would find it very anomalous for the distributions to the counties to be based upon one year's figures, and distributions by the counties to be based on those of the preceding year, for no discernible reason.

Furthermore, sections 5(2) and 11(2) provide for newly created taxing subdivisions to receive "commencing the first year such levy generates tax receipts" a share of the funds to be distributed. A political subdivision created in time to make a levy in a particular year would, or might, receive taxes from that levy in the year the levy was made, since Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-203 (Reissue 1976) makes such taxes due and payable on December 31 following the date of levy. It would be strange, indeed, if the distributions to newly created subdivisions were to be based on one year's levy, and distributions to other subdivisions were to be based on those of another year.

Since six of the seven payments to the political subdivisions will be made after the first of the year, it can be said that those are based on the levies made "the prior calendar year." Obviously, however, all seven distributions must be made on the same basis. Perhaps it was because most of the distributions would be made after the first of the year that the Legislature used the language it did.

However, your question was whether there was a need for clarifying legislation. It would certainly be advisable, as it would eliminate numerous questions and countless complaints from affected persons who disagree with this construction. It would be particularly advisable if our construction does not agree with the Legislature's intention.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

May 18, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning LB 317 and LB 317A without my signature and with my objections. These bills are in response to problems that have arisen with special education programs, and their impact is far reaching. I have informed you previously of my adamant opposition to such new and expanded cost provisions. LB 317 is an example of such legislation proposing small changes with potentially vast fiscal and service impact.

The main purpose of LB 317 is to shift the responsibility for residential services provided to handicapped children from the schools to the community retardation agencies. In addition, LB 317 changes the financial arrangements between the schools and these agencies with a resulting shift in costs from the schools to the State. These changes will inevitably cause administrative problems and will further confuse existing statutory responsibilities among State agencies and local entities.

LB 317 was introduced in response to a situation in which a school district was directed by a court to provide a residential program for a handicapped student. LB 317 would mandate that community retardation agencies must provide this service and would have the effect of creating a special class of persons with priority rights to service. In addition to other obvious questions of equity in access to these services, LB 317 conflicts with the effort to appropriately place residents out of the Beatrice State Developmental Center into community-based programs.

LB 317 would divide the administrative oversight function of these programs at the State level between the Department of Education and the Department of Public Institutions. This adds further and unnecessary confusion to the already complex inter-agency/intergovernmental oversight relations in this area.

Finally, LB 317 would remove an existing distinction between those children who attend a program within their home school district and those who are served outside their district. This change could cause unknown financial consequences to the State. State government currently reimburses only those placements which are out of the home school district by long-standing policy.

It is my opinion that our special education statutes are sufficiently complex and should not be changed in the manner suggested by LB 317. The community retardation regions should not be required to serve one group of citizens to the detriment of all other eligible clients. Nor at this time does the State of Nebraska need to assume unknown and potentially large additional costs for an already expensive program. I urge your body to sustain my veto of LB 317 and LB 317A.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

If the defendant is found not responsible by reason of insanity, the court shall (1) retain jurisdiction over the person of the defendant for further disposition consistent with the terms of this section, and (2) forthwith commit the defendant to the custody of the Director of Medical Services of the Department of Public Institutions for placement in a state regional center for a period not to exceed ninety days for purposes of evaluation. Such evaluation shall include a determination as to whether the defendant is a mentally ill dangerous person as defined in section 83-1009.

The superintendent of the regional center to which the defendant has been committed for evaluation shall be responsible for supervising the evaluation and, if such defendant has been determined to be a mentally ill dangerous person as defined in section 83-1009, for the preparation of an individualized treatment plan for such defendant. Such evaluation and treatment plan shall include the facts upon which conclusions stated therein are based and shall be filed with the court at least ten days prior to the expiration of the evaluation period. Copies of the evaluation and treatment plan shall be furnished to the county attorney and to the defendant.

If the defendant disagrees with the evaluation and the treatment plan, he or she may file a motion with the court requesting an additional evaluation by a qualified expert of the defendant's choice. Such evaluation shall be at defendant's expense unless otherwise ordered by the court. The court may extend the defendant's commitment for an additional period not to exceed sixty days, if necessary, to permit completion of the evaluation requested by the defendant.

Prior to the expiration of the court-ordered evaluation commitment term, the court shall conduct an evidentiary hearing on the defendant's current mental status. The court shall specify the conditions of such commitment including, but not limited to, the degree of secure confinement and restrictions on the freedom of defendant's movements within and without the institution necessary to insure the safety of the community.

If the court determines that the defendant is not a mentally ill dangerous person as defined in section 83-1009, the court shall order the immediate and unconditional release of such defendant.

The court shall, upon motion of the defendant, county attorney, or on its own motion, conduct periodic review hearings on a defendant's current mental status and the conditions of a defendant's continued commitment. The court shall conduct such a hearing at least annually.

The court shall have exclusive jurisdiction to modify the conditions of such person's continued commitment and the court shall have exclusive jurisdiction to order such person released from further commitment, should the court determine that the defendant is no longer a mentally ill dangerous person as defined in section 83-1009.

~~When the defense is insanity of the defendant, the jury must be instructed, if it acquits him on that ground, to state the fact in its verdict. If the~~

~~defendant is found not guilty by reason of insanity, the court shall forthwith (1) commit defendant to the care and custody of the Director of Medical Services for a period not to exceed thirty days, and (2) certify the verdict to the mental health board of the county and order that board to determine whether the person so acquitted is a mentally ill dangerous person and a fit subject for custody and treatment in a hospital. The certificate and order shall be considered by the mental health board as a petition for admission as provided in section 83-1025.~~

Sec. 3. If any section in this act or any part of any section shall be declared invalid or unconstitutional, such declaration shall not affect the validity or constitutionality of the remaining portions thereof.

Sec. 4. That original sections 29-2005 and 29-2203, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.

Sec. 5. Since an emergency exists, this act shall be in full force and take effect, from and after its passage and approval, according to law.".

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 103
May 13, 1981

Dear Senator Lamb:

You have asked if section 2 of LB 506 as amended is unconstitutional under Article VII, section 11, of the Nebraska Constitution because it would permit the Department of Health to use appropriated funds to contract with an institution of learning not exclusively owned and controlled by the state or a political subdivision thereof. We have concluded that it probably is unconstitutional.

Section 2 of LB 506 as amended provides:

> The director shall, after deducting expenses incurred in the administration of such funds, distribute such funds exclusively for grants and contracts to postsecondary institutions having colleges of medicine located in the State of Nebraska.

The funds to be distributed under that section are to be appropriated from the General Fund, equivalent to the estimated revenue from part of the cigarette tax imposed by Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-2616.

Article VII, section 11, of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska provides in part that "[n]otwithstanding any other provision of the Constitution, appropriation of public funds shall not be made to any school or institution of learning not owned or exclusively controlled by the state or a political subdivision thereof." There follows an exemption which is inapplicable.

As the court found in Gaffney v. State Department of Education, 192 Neb. 358, 220 N.W.2d 550 (1974), it seems that to state the constitutional provision is to answer your question. That court held:

> The question [of the constitutionality of an act to provide financial assistance to non-public elementary and secondary schools through the loan of secular textbooks by public school boards of education] . . . is fundamentally different than the one presented by state action involving an examination of the standards set up by the United States Supreme Court under the Establishment Clause of the First Amendment. . . . [B]y its terms, the Constitution of Nebraska does not permit an examination of secular or sectarian purposes, a determination of primary or incidental benefit, or a balancing of the issues involved in state-church entanglement and political > divisiveness. . . . The standards are . . . whether there is a public appropriation, whether the grant is in aid of any sectarian or denominational school or college, . . . [A]ny educational institution which receives such aid must be exclusively owned and controlled by the state or a governmental subdivision thereof.

(Emphasis added.) Supra at 362. The intent of Article VII, section 11, of the Nebraska Constitution is "to prohibit the extension of aid from public funds to nonpublic schools, in any manner, shape, or form." Id. at 363.

The fact that the money will be appropriated to the Department of Health and not directly to a private school is immaterial. "Any legislation passed dealing with this subject and delegating such authority to some agency must properly restrict that agency to the same extent as the Legislature itself is restricted in order to prevent such agency from doing what the Legislature itself could not do." The Legislature cannot do indirectly what it cannot do directly. United Community Services v. The Omaha National Bank, 162 Neb. 786, 805, 77 N.W.2d 576 (1956). See, also, State ex rel. Rogers v. Swanson, 192 Neb. 125, 136, 219 N.W.2d 726 (1974).

LB 506 as amended would permit the grant of appropriated money to a denominational school or college not exclusively owned and controlled by the state or a governmental subdivision thereof for purposes not within the exception expressed in Article VII, section 11. The fact that the state might benefit from the research conducted under such a grant does not affect our conclusion that LB 506, section 2, is unconstitutional. As pointed out above, Article VII, section 11, of the Nebraska Constitution is an absolute bar to such grants and benefit is not a factor to be considered.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

May 19, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska 68509

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I hereby return LB 12 without my signature and with my objections.

LB 12 raises the food sales tax credit by $3.00 per person. This will result in a revenue loss to the State of $4.5 million. Last year, with my agreement, the food sales tax credit was increased by 40%, from $20.00 per person to $28/person.

The current condition of state finances must be of as much concern to you as it is to me. Sales tax receipts alone were $16.5 million below projections at the end of April.Total gross revenue was $23.9 million below projections at the end of April. As I have stated again and again, there is substantial reason for serious concern and a need to act with prudence and self-restraint.

The existing food sales tax credit of $28 is more than adequate. The Department of Revenue reports that 1980 sales tax revenue for food stores (grocery stores, meat and fish markets, dairy products, retail bakeries, etc.) was the equivalent of $22.65 per person. That is $35.6 million sales tax on $1.2 billion of sales. Other business reports and Iowa experience confirms this amount. These figures represent gross sales and include an estimated 15 percent spent on non-food items. For tax year 1980, the State of Nebraska refunded Nebraska taxpayers $42 million for the Food Sales Tax Credit at the current credit of $28 per person.

These figures clearly indicate that even at $28 per person, we are refunding more revenue than is being collected by the state sales tax on food.

Given the fact that the current food sales tax credit is fully adequate for the purpose, and considering our difficult financial situation, I ask your support in sustaining my veto.

Respectfully,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 104
May 19, 1981

Re: Land and Water Conservation Fund

Dear Senator Wesely:

You have inquired whether the Game and Parks Commission may expend funds from the Land and Water Conservation for aid to political subdivisions if federal funding pursuant to Public Law 88-578 is no longer available. You question whether the appropriation in LB 561 would be able to be spent by the state if matching funds are not available from the federal government.

The Land and Water Conservation Fund was created in Neb.Rev.Stat. § 37-428 (Reissue 1978) for the purpose of providing money for matching purposes to be used by the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission for participation with the federal government under Public Law 88-578. The Nebraska Game and Parks Commission was empowered at Neb.Rev.Stat. § 37-427 (Reissue 1978) to perform all acts as may be necessary to conduct, coordinate and carry out the purposes and objectives of that act which are to meet the present and future outdoor recreation needs of this state.

Neb.Rev.Stat. § 37-428 (Reissue 1978) provides in pertinent part:

> All money made available to the Land and Water Conservation Fund for matching purposes by state appropriations shall be remitted to the State Treasurer and by him placed in such fund. Land and Water Conservation Fund money shall be used by the Game and Parks Commission under the provisions of Public Law 88-578, 88th Congress, for financing administrative and project costs thereunder. The Game and Parks Commission may make grants-in-aid to political subdivisions of the state from money made available for matching purposes by state appropriations in amounts not exceeding twenty-five per cent of the cost of approved projects submitted by such political subdivisions.

Public Law 88-578 provides for apportionment among the various states, of funds made available for outdoor and recreational purposes, imposes the requirement of state matching funds and the development of a comprehensive state outdoor recreation plan as well as state compliance with that plan and all projects financed thereunder.

Neb.Rev.Stat. § 37-428 disscusses compliance with P.L. 88-578 but does not mention federal contribution as a condition of the state participation. State funding is statutorially limited to twenty-five per cent of the project cost. Although the Legislature enacted Neb.Rev.Stat. § 37-427 and § 37-428 envisioning compliance with and obtaining matching funds pursuant to the federal law, the state act does not require federal funds as a condition for expenditure of funds from the Land and Water Conservation Fund. The statute does provide that the projects must be approved and that they shall be used under the provisions of Public Law 88-578. We see no reason that a project meeting the requirements under the federal law and being approved by the state should not receive the state funds irrespective of federal participation in funding. A project that meets that state master plan is no less desirable for the present and future outdoor recreation of this state just because the federal government has ceased to appropriate federal funds for such projects. The amount of the state funds for disbursement is fixed, with or without federal participation. Therefore, federal participation does not affect the amount of state money used for any particular project. Further, the Legislture has indicated its approval of the construction of these projects by the enactment of Neb.Rev.Stat. § 37-427 and § 37-428 (Reissue 1978) and by the continued yearly appropriation of funds for these purposes.

It is our conclusion that should the Legislature appropriate funds for expenditure by the Land and Water Conservation Fund for the coming year, the Nebraska Game and Parks Commission would not be precluded from spending those funds on projects meeting the requirements of Public Law 88-578 so long as the state participation does not exceed twenty-five per cent of the cost of the approved projects. We do not read federal participation as a condition to the state participation under the present act.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 105
May 20, 1981

Dear Senator Schmit:

In your letter to this office dated April 15, 1981, you asked "is LB 184, as originally introduced, constitutional?" From subsequent conversations with your staff, we understand that your opinion request now relates to the amendments to LB 184, and that you now wish to know whether those amendments are constitutional. Our opinion is set forth below.

The amendments which are the subject of this opinion strike the original sections of LB 184 and provide that no insurance company shall directly or indirectly own, acquire, or otherwise obtain an interest, whether legal, beneficial, or otherwise in any title to any agricultural land in this state. Certain types of ownership are exempted from this prohibition including bona fide encumbrances taken for purposes of security and ownership where insurance companies acquire agricultural lands in the process of collection of debts. In the latter instance, the lands obtained by the process of collection of debts shall be disposed of within ten years after the title is acquired. The amendments to LB 184 contain definitions of "agricultural land" and other pertinent terms. The amendments further alter various sections of the Nebraska Revised Statutes dealing with insurance so that those statutes prohibit insurance companies from owning agricultural lands for investment purposes. Under the amendments to LB 184, no foreign or alien insurance company shall invest in agricultural land located in the State of Nebraska. The amendments also contain various enforcement provisions which are not pertinent to this discussion.

Legislation similar to the original LB 184 has been considered on numerous occasions by this office. See, Report of the Attorney General, 1971-1972, No. 86 at p. 201 and No. 118 at p. 275; Report of the Attorney General, 1973-1974, No. 116 at p. 159; Report of the Attorney General, 1975-1976, No. 5 at p. 5 and No. 40 at p. 43; Report of the Attorney General, 1977-1978, No. 44 at p. 62 and No. 172 at p. 258. In our most recent opinion on this subject, dated April 13, 1981, we stated that the original LB 184, a form of so-called "family farm" legislation, was of suspect constitutional validity. We based this opinion on the rationale expressed in our earlier opinions; namely, that legislation preventing certain types of corporations from owning agricultural land involved an improper overextension of the Legislature's police power and an improper and invalid legislative classification of corporations in contravention of Article XII, Section 1, and Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution pertaining to special laws. Many of the same questions are involved here.

We are mindful that, in general, it is held that the insurance business so affects the public interest that insurance companies may be generally regulated by the state under its police power. Am.Jur.2d, Insurance, §51, 44 C.J.S., Insurance, §56. As is stated in 19 Appleman, Insurance Law and Practice, §10321 (1946):

> A state has the unquestioned power to regulate insurance companies and a method of conducting that kind of business. The business of insurance is considered not to be merely a private right, but a matter of public concern—a franchise subject to regulation by the state for the public good. And in such regulation, the legislatures are considered to have large powers and wide discretion.
> The business of insurance is ordinarily deemed to be quasi public in nature, impressed with the public use, so that its regulation, supervision and control are authorized and required to protect the general public in safeguarding the interests of all concerned. Insurance companies are, therefore, subject to such regulation as the state may see fit to impose, so far as such laws and regulations are reasonable.

However, we must still consider whether those amendments involve an improper and invalid form of special law in violation of our Nebraska Constitution.

Article XII, Section 1, of the Nebraska Constitution provides, in part:

> The Legislature shall provide by general law for the organization, regulations, supervision and general control of all corporations, . . . No corporations shall be created by special law, . . .

Article III, Section 18, of the Nebraska Constitution also provides that the Legislature shall not pass local or special laws which grant "to any corporation, association, or individual any special or exclusive privileges." Under the amendments to LB 184, insurance companies are classified differently than other types of corporations in instances where they would own agricultural land. Therefore, the question becomes whether this classification involves an invalid special law under our Nebraska Constitution.

Our Supreme Court has stated that the Legislature may classify objects of legislation if the classification is reasonable and not arbitrary, and if the classification is a legitimate exercise of the legislative power. City of Scottsbluff v. Tiemann, 185 Neb. 256, 175 N.W.2d 74 (1970). Moreover, "[T]he power of classification rests with the Legislature and cannot be interfered with by the courts unless it is clearly apparent that the Legislature has by artificial and baseless classification attempted to evade and violate provisions of the constitution prohibiting local and special legislation." Id. at 266, 175 N.W.2d at 81. Our Supreme Court has also stated, "statutes which are reasonably designed to protect the health, morals, and general welfare do not violate the constitution where the statute operates uniformly on all within a class which is reasonable." State v. Knutson, 178 Neb. 375, 379, 133 N.W.2d 577, 581 (1965). Thus, classifications do not violate the sections of our Constitution cited above if they are reasonable, if they operate uniformly on all members of the class, and if they are reasonably designed to protect the health, morals and general welfare under the police power of the state.

The prohibitions expressed in the amendments to LB 184 would operate uniformly on all insurance companies doing business in the State of Nebraska. However, we can find in these amendments no reasonable purpose which is related to the protection of the general welfare of the state nor specifically the protection of policyholders, potential policyholders, insurance creditors, or other interests relating to insurance.

We are convinced that it would be especially difficult to defend these amendments constitutionally when other provisions of the very statutes amended continue to permit insurance companies to invest in city real estate; in commom stocks of any corporation, provided they have had earnings available for payment of dividends of not less than $100,000 per annum for not less than three years; in the ownership of production payments payable from oil, gas, other hydrocarbons or minerals in producing properties; and in other investments which history tells us are no more related to the protection of the general public or persons dealing with insurance companies then investments in agricultural land.

Another example is section 5 of LB 184 which amends Neb.Rev.Stat. §44-311.03; this section permits every domestic legal reserve life insurance company to invest its funds, in excess of its total liabilities except capital, in any kind of property, including real, personal or mixed which is not otherwise qualified for investment, including investment in stock or debt obligations of subsidiary companies; but, by the present amendments, it may not invest in agricultural land.

In summary, it is our opinion that the prohibitions against insurance companies owning interests in agricultural land, as provided by the amendments to LB 184, cannot be justified as a reasonable exercise of the police power and could not be successfully defended against a claim that they violated the constitutional provisions mentioned above.

Respectfully submitted,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 106

May 21, 1981

Dear Senator Barrett:

In your letter of May 20, 1981, you ask our opinion as to the constitutional validity of Section 2 of LB 376, as amended. You also call our attention to the fact that there are only six legislative days left in this session, and urged our immediate response. We will do our best, but we call your attention to the fact that this is a quite complex and confusing bill, and that we have not had the time to give this matter the attention it deserves.

Section 2 of the bill amends Neb.Rev.Stat. §8-903 (Reissue 1977). This is a part of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1963, §§8-901 to 8-904. Section 8-902(3) defines a bank holding company in general terms as any company which owns or controls two or more banks. Section 8-903, as it now reads, makes unlawful any action taken after March 12, 1963, which results in a company's becoming a bank holding company, as defined by the act, and also makes it unlawful for a bank holding company operating in this state to acquire ownership or control of 25 per cent or more of the voting shares of any bank operating in this state.

Section 8-903 therefore gave grandfather rights to bank holding companies operating before March 12, 1963, but forbade them to acquire any additional banks after the effective date of the act. We are informed by the Department of Banking and Finance that there is only one bank holding company, as defined in §8-902, in this state, and that it is an out-of-state bank holding company, owning or controlling five banks in this state. There are, however, a large number of one bank holding companies, as defined in §8-1202, all of them Nebraska corporations.

We find some of the language of Section 2 of the bill confusing. It still provides that it shall be unlawful for any action to be taken after March 12, 1963, which results in a company's becoming a bank holding company, as defined in §8-902. This, of course, requires it to own or control two or more banks. Section 2 then goes on to provide that "a bank holding company or a company which owns only one bank which is not a bank holding company as defined in §8-902" shall have the right to acquire more banks, thereby becoming a bank holding company, as defined in §8-902. Exactly what companies are intended to be covered by that provision is not clear. There are no "bank holding companies," as defined in §8-902, except the out-of-state bank holding company, which is specifically covered under another subdivision of Section 2. One bank holding companies as defined in §8-1202 are also covered under another subdivision. We are not sure what was intended to be covered by subsection (1), quoted above. We think there has been some blurring of the distinction between bank holding companies, as defined by §8-902, and one bank holding companies as defined in §8-1202. Furthermore, the prohibition against formation of bank holding companies, as defined in §8-902, becomes meaningless, as the bill clearly provides for formation of new ones.

Your specific question is the propriety of the specific provisions made for existing out-of-state bank holding companies, as defined in 12 U.S.C. §1842 (d), and which on December 31, 1978, owned at least two banks in this state. You suggest that this would create a permanently closed class, presumably because it would prevent other out-of-state companies from ever coming into this state as bank holding companies.

Despite the prohibition against close classes, the courts have frequently upheld statutes creating grandfather rights for those already engaged in a business. Section 8-902, as it now reads, creates grandfather rights in bank holding companies in existence on March 12, 1963.

In the case of Iowa Independent Bankers v. Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 511 F.2d 1288 (D.C. Cir. 1975), the court dealt with the very question you have raised. An Iowa statute forbade an out-of-state bank holding company to acquire any interest in an Iowa bank, unless the company on January 1, 1971, was registered with the Federal Reserve Board as a bank holding company, and on that date owned at least two banks in Iowa. The court rejected equal protection and unreasonable classification attacks on the statute, and said:

> We think it is perfectly rational for the Iowa legislature to determine that Northwest, the only out-of-state bank holding company that has a pre-existing stake in the Iowa banking system and has proven itself to be a positive force in the system, should be allowed to compete on the same basis as other Iowa > banks, but also to decide that the state would not be well served if out-of-state bank holding companies were allowed wholesale entry into the Iowa market.

The court held the statute did not violate the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, nor the prohibitions of the Iowa Constitution against special legislation and the granting of exclusive privileges and immunities. The Iowa constitutional provisions are comparable to those found in Article I, Section 16, and Article III, Section 18 of our constitution.

On its face, the bill might appear to discriminate unreasonably in favor of existing out-of-state bank holding companies and against domestic bank holding companies, since existing out-of-state companies can own or control five banks until January 1, 1983, and can acquire one more per year up to a maximum of nine on December 31, 1986, whereas other bank holding companies can own only three prior to January 1, 1983, and cannot own nine until 1988. If there were now any existing domestic bank holding companies, as defined in §8-902, they might argue that they were unreasonably discriminated against. However, since there is none, we believe the Legislature can take cognizance of that fact in drafting legislation. In Iowa Independent Bankers, supra, the court said the legislature could take the actual facts into consideration, and said: "We do not think that the Iowa legislature, dealing as it must with the realities of the Iowa banking structure, must draw its statutes to encompass hypothetical situations that could never bear the fruits of reality."

The bill therefore makes one class of the bank holding company now in the state, and another class of those who will come into existence under LB 376. The one in existence can continue to hold its five banks. The others can acquire up to three before January 1, 1983. After that both classes can acquire one new bank per year, up to a maximum of nine. Since the one now in existence has a head start, it can acquire its nine two years earlier than the others. Under the facts, we believe no unreasonable classification is involved.

We are somewhat confused as to the significance of the date December 31, 1978, as of which date the out-of-state bank holding company was required to own at least two banks in this state. Since the existing bank holding company has held five banks since 1963, it would appear to have been more reasonable to have said "on the effective date of this act," instead of December 31, 1978. We do not, however, feel that this has any particular constitutional significance.

We are therefore of the opinion that, while the statute, as it would be amended by LB 376, is somewhat confusing, it can be defended against constitutional attack.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 107
May 22, 1981

Dear Senator Hefner:

In your letter of May 21, 1981, you call to our attention Legislative Bill 552 and inform us that that bill would establish new Supreme Court Districts. You further inform us that under the present factual makeup of our Supreme Court this proposal would place two sitting judges in the same Judicial District in two instances and would create two Districts in which no current judge resides.

You call our attention to Article V, section 5 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska which states as is applicable to your inquiry:

> Whenever the Supreme Court is redistricted, the judges serving prior to the redistricting shall continue in office, and the law providing for such redistricting shall where necessary specify the newly established districts which they shall represent for the balance of their terms.

As required by this constitutional language this legislative bill specifies which district each sitting judge shall represent "for the balance of his or her term." Given the language of Article V, section 21 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska which requires each such judge to periodically subject his right to remain in office to the approval of the electorate, you ask if a judge's "term" expires at the time of the submission of this question to the voters.

You further inform us of your opinion as to the Legislature's intent which you suggest is to permit the sitting Justices of the Nebraska Supreme Court to remain in office for such period of time as they should desire or so long as they are retained by the electorate.

If, therefore, in our opinion, a judge's term expires at the time the question of their retention is submitted to the electorate, you inform us you are desirous of amending this legislation to make the Legislature's intent clear. We are aware of no instance wherein the Nebraska Supreme Court has directly considered this question. However they did consider many aspects of this quesion in the case of Garrotto v. McManus, 185 Neb. 644, 177 N.W.2d 570 (1970). In this case the court had occasion to determine when the term of office of a judge began. However they were not called upon to directly determine the effect of the periodic submission of the office to a vote of retention. The court there did observe however:

> The provisions of Article V, section 21, of the Constitution, apply specifically to judges selected and appointed under the merit plan of judicial selection. Under those provisions, judges are no longer elected to office. They are appointed. Periodic elections are specified at which the electorate may express its approval or rejection of a judge appointed under the merit plan. Such an election is only for the purpose of determining a judge's right to remain or continue in the judicial office to which he was initially appointed.

It would appear from a plain reading of Article V, section 5 of the Nebraska Constitution that it was the intent of its drafters that no judge should be deprived of his office as the result of redistricting. We reached such a conclusion in Opinion No. 139, dated October 9, 1963, found in Report of the Attorney General 1963-1964, p. 236. We have also been of the opinion that a judge has a right to tenure beyond the initial term of his appointment subject only to the results of the periodic votes on the question of retention. Opinion No. 165, dated August 12, 1968, found in the Report of the Attorney General 1967-1968, p. 252.

The difficulty with simply concluding that a judge's term once he has been appointed is indefinite save the possiblity of the failure to be retained by the electorate is that under Article III, section 19 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska the salaries of such officials cannot be increased or diminished during their term of office with the exception that when any one of the members of such a body as a court begins a new term of office the salaries of the other members of such bodies such as the court can be increased. In this regard we have been of the opinion at least with respect to district judges that their term begins for purposes of Article III, section 19 at the time of their successful accomplishment of a vote of retention. Opinion No. 128, dated November 4, 1965, found in the Report of the Attorney General 1965-1966, p. 201.

It is therefore difficult to speculate with any degree of certainty the position the Nebraska Supreme Court might take if presented the question either in the context of Article V, section 5 or in the context of Article III, section 19 as to the exact duration of their "term" of office. We do believe however this question could be resolved by the clarification within the present legislation of the Legislature's intent that sitting judges be permitted to continue in office for as long a period as they desire or so long as they are retained. Toward this end we would suggest that you simply add after the present language "for the balance of his or her term" the language "or so long as he or she shall be retained in office."

In conclusion therefore we would be of the general opinion that the intent of Article V, section 5 of the Nebraska Constitution is to permit sitting judges to remain in office so long as they are retained and that the legislation as it is currently drafted raises unnecessary questions which could be resolved by the inclusion of explanatory language such as is suggested above.

Sincerely yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

(1) No person shall be employed to teach in any public, private, denominational, or parochial school in this state who does not hold a valid Nebraska certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education legalizing him or her to teach the grade or subjects to which elected, except that no Nebraska certificate or permit shall be required of persons teaching exclusively (a) at a private, denominational, or parochial school which has had the provisions of sections 79-1701 to 79-1707 waived as provided by section 2 of this act or (b) in junior colleges organized as part of the public school system.

(2) Public, private, denominational, or parochial schools in the state may employ persons who do not hold a valid Nebraska teaching certificate or permit issued by the Commissioner of Education to serve as aides to a teacher or teachers. Such teacher aides may not assume any teaching responsibilities. A teacher aide may be assigned duties which are nonteaching in nature, if the employing school has assured itself that the aide has been specifically prepared for such duties, including the handling of emergency situations which might arise in the course of his or her work.

Sec. 2. The provisions of sections 79-1701 to 79-1707 shall be waived and not applied to any private, denominational, or parochial school whose director, organization of parents, or such director and organization files with the State Department of Education a notarized affidavit stating that their conviction or religious beliefs are violated by the imposition of such provisions. The State Department of Education shall notify the county superintendent of schools if an affidavit has been filed for any school within his or her county. A school for which the affidavit provided in this section has been filed shall, through its director or organization of parents, report annually to the county superintendent of schools the names of the students who are attending such school, the names of their parents of guardians, and the public school district in which they reside. A copy of the reports and notarized affidavits provided to the county superintendent shall be forwarded to the State Deaprtment of Education. In asserting inclusion in the exemption provided under this section, the parent or guardian may be required to demonstrate to the State Department of Education:

(1) That the child is receiving regular instruction;

(2) That the instruction is from a structured curriculum or course of study; and

(3) That the child is appropriately proficient in basic disciplines of learning.

Sec. 3. That section 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

79-1701. ~~All~~ Except as provided in section 2 of this act, all private, denominational, and parochial schools in the State of Nebraska, and all teachers employed or giving instruction therein, shall be subject to and governed by the provisions of the general school laws of the state so far as the same apply to grades, qualifications, and certification of teachers and promotion of pupils. ~~All~~ Except as provided in section 2 of this act, all private, denominational, and parochial schools shall have adequate equipment and supplies, and shall be graded the same and shall have courses of study for each grade conducted therein, substantially the same as those given in the public schools where the children attending would attend in the absence of such private, denominational, or parochial schools.

Sec. 4. Section 2 of this act shall terminate on June 30, 1982, unless reenacted or reestablished by the Legislature.

Sec. 5. That original sections 79-1233 and 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.''.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 108
May 22, 1981

Dear Senator Beutler:

You have asked for our opinion on the constitutionality of a proposed amendment to LB 352. You have provided us with a copy of Request No. 2367. You direct our attention to that portion of the request which provides that Neb.Rev.Stat. §77-3422 (1980 Supp.) shall be amended to authorize an increase in the anticipated combined receipts of political subdivisions of the average percentage rate of growth in state personnel income for the previous three calendar years. Your proposed amendment to LB 352, as contained in Request No. 2367 provides, "State personal income shall mean the total annual personal income in the state as published by the United States Department of Commerce or its successor agency."

As we have stated to you in previous letters, the Legislature may lawfully adopt by statute existing laws or regulations of another jurisdiction, including that of the United States. See Report of the Attorney General, 1975-76. page 82, April 23, 1975; Report of the Attorney General, 1979-80, page 151, May 4, 1979, Opinion No. 105. In addition, the Nebraska Supreme Court has held valid an indexing of elected officials' salaries to the consumer price index as established by the Department of Labor, see, Shepoka v. Knopik, 201 Neb. 780, 272 N.W.2d 364 (1978). Unfortunately, the amendment you propose attempts to do more than that. It states that personal income shall mean that income as published by the United States Department of Commerce or its successor agency. We believe that your proposed amendment suffers from two flaws. The first flaw is that the index to which the subdivision's budget increase would be tied we believe is insufficiently spelled out in your proposed amendment. It should be set forth with specificity and precision so that no question can arise as to what index such increases were being tied. Here it is conceivable that the affected federal agency might publish more than a single compilation of Nebraska personnel income in any given period. It is also conceivable that the agency could modify the basis upon which such figures were compiled. The second difficulty is that the amendment specifies that some successor agency also publishing such data would be followed in compiling the limitations upon subdivision budgets. This the Legislature clearly may not do. See, Smithberger v. Banning, 129 Neb. 651, 262 N.W.2d 492 (1935). In summation, then, we believe that there are serious flaws in the amendment as it is currently proposed.

We do not mean to suggest by the conclusion we have reached above that the legislature may not properly adopt such an amendment tied to a specific index for use in determining limitation to be placed on subdivision budgets. Our conclusion simply is that this amendment falls short of those standards that must be met under the case law of the State of Nebraska to properly adopt such an amendment.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

Opinion No. 109
May 26, 1981

Dear Senator H. Peterson:

This is in response to your letter of May 20, 1981, concerning LB 512 and the difference in treatment of construction liens towards owners of residential property, as opposed to owners of other types of property. Specifically you ask whether this difference in treatment under section 15 of LB 512 results in a constitutionally valid classification.

Under section 15(1)(b) of LB 512 the potential lien of a subcontractor or supplier against the owner of property other than residential property is for the amount unpaid under the lien claimant's contract with the prime contractor. Under section 15(2) of LB 512 the potential lien against the owner of residential property is the lesser of the amount unpaid under the lien claimant's contract with the prime contractor, or the amount unpaid under the residential property owner's contract with the prime contractor, through which the subcontractor or supplier makes his lien claim, at the time the residential owner receives the claimant's notice of lien liability. As a result, the potential lien liability for a residential home buyer could conceivably be less than the liability of an owner of commercial property, if the prime contractor involved had been paid by the residential property owner prior to the subcontractor or supplier furnishing notice of lien liability to that property owner.

LB 512 was introduced on behalf of the "homeowners of Nebraska." The committee hearing and floor debates for this bill are repleat with statements, testimony and references to the fact that this bill is needed to protect residential home buyers, who essentially lack the actual ability as well as the commercial, legal and business sophistication to deal adequately with the existing mechanics lien law. On the contrary, there does not appear to be any evidence in the record that owners of commercial or other types of property are experiencing the same difficulties. The obvious intent of the bill as written is to protect residential home buyers under the construction lien law. In simple terms it is basically residential consumer protection legislation.

A legislative classification will be upheld if it has a resonable basis and if it bears a relationship to some valid legislative purpose. Pegasus of Omaha, Inc. v. State, 203 Neb. 755, 280 N.W.2d 64 (1979); State ex rel. Halloran v. Hawes, 203 Neb. 45, 279 N.W.2d 96 (1979). Likewise a legislative classification is valid if it is based upon some reason of public policy, or some substantial difference of situation or circumstances that would naturally suggest the justice or expediency of diverse legislation with respect to the objects of the classifications. State ex rel. Douglas v. Marsh, 207 Neb. 598, _N.W.2d_ (1980).

The apparent legislative purpose is to provide some protection to consumers of residential housing, which is a perfectly valid legislative purpose. According to the legislative history of LB 512 there appears to be an adequately demonstrated need for the protection of this particular class of individuals and thus a rational public policy basis for this difference in treatment concerning potential lien liability as between residential property owners and owners of commercial or other types of property. Because of the apparent differences of circumstance between these two classes of property owners and the justifiable need for some protection for the one class, this difference in treatment does not appear to be unreasonable. In this regard LB 512 appears to be constitutionally valid.

PAUL L. DOUGLAS

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 110
May 26, 1981

Dear Senator H. Peterson:

This is in response to your letter of May 20, 1981, concerning the constitutional validity of the notice provisions for the filing of a termination of notice of commencement under section 25 of LB 512.

Specifically under section 25(b) of LB 512, notice of a filing of a termination of a notice of commencement is required to be sent to all claimants who have specifically requested notice of the filing of such a termination. Under subsection (3) of this section, notice by publication is also required for three consecutive weeks. Your concern appears to be that such notice is not required to be sent to claimants actually known to the owner, but who have not filed a request for notice of termination, and for claimants, who under LB 512 may be precluded from filing such a request for notice. Apparently under section 14 of LB 512, which provides for the filing of a request for notice of termination by a claimant, subsection (5) indicates that this particular section applies only to claimants dealing with residential property owners. It does not appear to be certain, however, that this necessarily precludes a claimant from requesting such a notice of the filing of a termination in all other circumstances. In this regard your inquiry is whether these latter two categories of claimants are afforded "adequate due process" by the constructive notice of the filing of the termination, which in turn may adversely affect their ability to perfect a lien.

The right to obtain a construction lien is not absolute under LB 512, but exists "only to the extent provided in this act", as noted in section 10(1) of LB 512. To perfect a lien, a claimant must act within the time specified in this act, particularly under section 16 of this act. It appears that unlike the existing mechanics lien law, the burden under LB 512 is upon the potential lien holder to take the necessary steps to insure that all parties involved are adequately aware of the fact that he has not yet been paid for his goods or services, and thus are aware of the actual existence of potential lien liability so as to prevent the unjust situation in which an unwitting purchaser of residential property is suddenly subjected to liens for work or materials of which he had no direct knowledge, until after he has completed the payment of his contract with the prime contractor. While the purchaser of the residential property may have actual knowledge of the subcontractor or supplier, or in the situation in which the claimant may technically be unable to file a request for notice of the termination of commencement, that claimant nevertheless is aware upon the commencement of his work or the supplying of his materials, that there are certain requirements he must meet in order to be able to perfect his potential lien and should therefore act accordingly. In effect, the claimant is on notice from the very beginning as to what his rights are in this situation and that in any event he has only a limited time in which to perfect his lien rights. Whatever right the claimant has to perfect a lien are only those rights which have been granted to him by the Legislature under LB 512 and nothing more. In this regard there seems to be nothing improper in the Legislature requiring only constructive notice of the particular filing in this instance to be given to those claimants who have not taken advantage of the existing procedures for obtaining actual notice, or for that matter any claimants who have not actively pursued their particular claims.

There is no real correlation in this instance between the notice provisions afforded to potential lien holders and their subsequent ability to perfect that lien, and the due process rights involving the necessity for personal service or actual notice in judicial proceedings. Due process restrictions apply only to actions involving the state and add nothing to the rights of one citizen against another. The failure of an individual to perfect a lien against another within the prescribed period of limitations does not give rise to any such due process requirements.

In many respects the status of the lien claimant under section 25 of LB 512 is not unlike the status of a creditor in a probate proceeding under the Nebraska Probate Code. The only requirement of notice to creditors in a probate proceeding is through publication, even though a personal representative may have actual knowledge of the existence of a creditor of the estate, unless of course that creditor has filed a request for notice. It does not seem unreasonable to place the burden on a creditor in such a situation to perfect his potential claim, which may include the implied requirement that he keep himself abreast of the status of that claim by whatever means he has available. A claimant under LB 512 who acts diligently to perfect his lien rights will not be adversely affected in any event. It should also be noted that even though a claimant fails to perfect his lien rights, he still has a contractual claim against the prime contractor.

In this regard we see no constitutional improprieties in the constructive notice provisions as they apply to the filing of a notice of termination of commencement under section 25 of LB 512.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

May 26, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker,
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I hereby return LB 39 and LB 39A without my signature and with my objections.

LB 39 reduces the county share of Medicaid costs from 16 percent to 14 percent effective July 1, 1981. This provision increases the State General Fund cost of the Medicaid program approximately $2.4 million. As I have stated many times recently, with the current downturn in state revenues, it is neither prudent nor appropriate to embark on new or expanded programs at this time.

Since LB 138 was passed by the Eighty-sixth Legislature in 1979, the counties have paid over $6,500,000 less for the Medicaid program than would have been paid under the prior matching rate of 20 percent. When these figures are considered together with the other significant improvements that have been made in other state aid programs, I believe that our overall property tax relief efforts have been commendable.

I urge you to sustain my veto of LB 39 and LB 39A.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

(2) The application for any such permit shall specifically describe the vehicle and the load to be operated or moved and whenever possible the particular highways, roads, or streets for which permit to operate is requested, and whether such permit is requested for a single trip or for continuous operation.

(3) The department or county authority is authorized to issue or withhold such permit at its discretion; or, if such permit is issued, to limit the number of days during which the permit is valid, to limit the number of trips, or to establish seasonal or other time limitations within which the vehicles described may be operated on the highways indicated, or to issue a continuing permit for use only on highways other than the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways to (a) a manufacturer or its carrier covering all similar vehicles or products produced by such manufacturer, or (b) the owner of vehicles described in subdivision (1) (c) of this section, subject to reasonable conditions as to periodic renewal of such permit and as to operation or movement of such vehicles, or otherwise to limit or prescribe conditions of operation of such vehicle or vehicles, when necessary to assure against undue damage to the road foundations, surfaces, or structures or undue danger to the public safety, and may require such undertaking or other security as may be deemed necessary to compensate for any injury to any roadway or road structure.

(4) Every such permit shall be carried in the vehicle to which it refers and shall be open to inspection by any police officer or authorized agent of any authority granting such permit. Each such permit shall state the maximum weight permissible on a single axle or combination of axles and the total gross weight allowed. No person shall violate any of the terms or conditions of such special permit and in case of any violation, the permit shall be deemed automatically revoked and the penalty of the original limitations shall be applied unless the violation consists solely of exceeding the size or weight specified by the permit, in which case only the penalty of the original size or weight limitation exceeded shall be applied, or unless the total gross load is within the maximum authorized by the permit and no axle is more than ten per cent in excess of the maximum load for such axle or group of axles authorized by the permit and such load can be shifted to meet the weight limitations of wheel and axle loads authorized by such permit. Such shift may be made without penalty provided that such shift is made at the state or commercial scale designated in the permit. ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Dear Senator Lamb:

In your letter of May 21, 1981, you ask whether, in our opinion, LB 376, as amended, would violate Article I, section 25 of the Nebraska Constitution, by discriminating between in-state and out-of-state bank holding companies, and by discriminating between existing out-of-state bank holding companies and bank holding companies coming into existence at a later date. You also ask whether the bill would violate Article XII, section 1 by giving greater rights or privileges to foreign corporations than are given to domestic coprorations.

In an opinion of this office dated May 21, 1981, Opinion No. 106, we considered whether the bill would deny equal protection, in violation of the Fourteenth Amendment, and whether it would constitute special legislation, in violation of Article III, section 18 of our Constitution, and concluded that the bill could be defended against those attacks. The constitutional provisions you inquire about are somewhat different, but we conclude that much of what we said in the former opinion is also applicable to the provisions you inqure about.

Neb.Rev.Stat. §§8-901 to 8-904 (Reissue 1977) make it unlawful for any action to be taken after March 12, 1963, which results in a company's becoming a bank holding company, which is defined as a company which owns or controls two or more banks. These sections also make it unlawful for a bank holding company to acquire ownership or control of 25 percent or more of the voting shares of any bank operating in the state. Neb.Rev.Stat. §§1201 to 8-1207 (Reissue 1977) provide for registration and regulation of one bank holding company, meaning, as the name implies, a holding company which owns or controls only one bank.

LB 376, as amended, would amend §8-903, to permit (1) a bank holding company or a company owning only one bank which is not a bank holding company as defined in §8-902, (2) a one bank holding company as defined in §8-1202, or (3) an out-of-state bank holding company as defined in 12 U.S.C.§1842(d) which on December 31, 1978 owned at least two banks in this state, to acquire up to a total of nine banks each in this state, according to a prescribed schedule. Existing out-of-state bank holding companies could own or control not more than five banks until January 1, 1983. Other bank holding companies could own or control not more than three banks before that date. After that date any bank holding company can acquire another bank each year up to a total of nine. An existing out-of-state bank holding company can acquire its nine by 1986, but domestic companies cannot acquire nine before 1988.

Your first question is whether Article I, section 25 of our Constitution is violated. This section provides in part: "There shall be no discrimination between citizens of the United States in respect to the acquisition, ownership, possession, enjoyment or descent of property." This, we think, must be construed to mean "unreasonable discrimination." Otherwise, even §§8-901 to 8-904 would be vulnerable to attack. A corporation now owning a bank which wished to acquire another would say it is discriminated against, because another corporation, which owned no bank, could acquire the bank in question, while the first corporation could not. We are assuming, but not deciding, that a corporation is a "citizen," as contemplated by Article I, section 25.

The point is that the banking business is affected with the public interest, and is subject to strict regulation. For whatever reason, the Legislature has concluded that the concentration of control of banks in a few hands should be regulated. Reasonable regulation of ownership of banks is not, therefore, forbidden by Article I, section 25, in our opinion.

Therefore, the question becomes essentially the same as we considered in our former opinion, reasonableness. We reached the conclusion that, given the historical facts, the classification was reasonable. On the same basis we conclude that reasonable restrictions on the ownership of banks would not violate Article I, section 25, even though such restrictions forbade some corporations to acquire stock in banks, while permitting other corporations to acquire such stock.

In our May 21st opinion we pointed out that there is presently only one bank holding company, as defined in §8-902, and that it was an out-of-state banking holding company, which owns five banks. The constitutional validity of LB 376 must be judged in light of this historical fact. We cited Iowa Independent Bankers v. Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 511 F.2d 1288 (D.C. Cir. 1975) for the proposition that the Legislature could take the actual facts into consideration, and need not "draw its statutes to encompass hypothetical situations that could never bear the fruits of reality."

If we were to look only at the bill, with no knowledge of the factual situation, it probably would be subject to attack on several constitutional grounds, because it would appear to violate Article III, section 18, by creating unreasonable classification, and probably also Article I, section 25. On its face, it appears to give greater rights and privileges to a foreign corporation than are given to domestic corporations of a similar character, in violation of Article XII, section 1.

However, it is obvious that the drafters of the bill have simply taken into account the fact that there is now in existence only one bank holding company, as defined in §8-902, an out-of-state corporation, which owns five banks. Other bank holding companies, as defined in §8-1201, holding one bank, may acquire one new bank per year, up to a maximum of nine. The present company, holding five, cannot acquire any more until January 1, 1983, when it, also, can start acquiring one more per year. Since it starts with five, it can acquire its ninth bank sooner than those which start with one or none.

To make it more clear, suppose the bill simply provided that every bank holding company could acquire one additional bank each year, until it reached a total of nine. That would appear to be totally nondiscriminatory, and yet, under such a provision the company now owning five banks could acquire nine by 1984, instead of 1986, as LB 376 provides. In effect, this is what LB 376 does, except that it postpones until 1983 the acquisition of additional banks by the one now owning five banks.

We therefore conclude that the bill can be defended against the constitutional attacks you inquire about.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS

71-1342. (1) Whenever any person, referred to in this section as the depositor, makes an agreement with a funeral director, funeral firm, cemetery organization_ or any person or organization referred to in this section as the beneficiary, for the final disposition of the body of a person referred to in this section as the potential decedent, wherein the use of personal property, under a prearranged funeral plan or the furnishing of services of a funeral director or embalmer in connection therewith is not immediately required, all payments made under the agreement, including interest and dividends, if any, shall be and remain trust funds until occurrence of the death of the potential decedent, unless the funds are sooner released upon demand to the depositor, after written notice to the beneficiary. Nothing in this section shall prevent the sale and delivery of cemetery lots, graves, crypts, niches, columbaria or grave or lot markers or monuments before their use is required or prepayment of cremation and interment fees.

(2) All such trust funds shall be deposited with a bank or trust company within the state whose deposits are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation or invested in a savings and loan association within the state whose shares are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation and shall be held in a separate account in the name of the depositor in trust for the beneficiary until the trust fund is released under either of the conditions provided in subsections (1) of this section. In the event of the death of the depositor before the death of the potential decedent, title to such funds shall vest in the potential decedent, and the funds shall be used for the personal property and services to be furnished under the contract for the funeral of the potential decedent. The depositor shall be furnished with a copy of the receipts, certificates, or other appropriate documentary evidence showing that the funds have been deposited or invested in accordance with this section. The depositor or the beneficiary shall furnish the bank, trust company, or savings and loan association with a copy of the contract. (3) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, the depositor may designate such a trust as irrevocable. This may be done at the time the contract is made or at any time during the duration of the contract. Such regulations may include provisions relevant to an existing portion of the state highway system and also may contemplate future or contingent problems by providing protection to the department from expense or damage arising in the reconstruction or relocation of a portion of the state highway system when such expense or damage would not have existed but for the activity authorized by the permit.

(2) No person, firm, or corporation shall construct or install any new pole line, any underground conduit, or any buried cable or erect any new guy wires upon any portion of the state highway right-of-way without obtaining a written consent or permit from the department.

(4) The person, firm, or corporation to whom, or in whose behalf, the permit is given shall pay the cost of placing the highway in as good condition as it was prior to being dug up, crossed, or used and shall, upon the request of the department, furnish the state with a cash deposit or certified check upon a solvent bank, or a surety bond in a guaranty company qualified to do business in Nebraska. The deposit, check, or bond shall be in the amount required by the department and shall be furnished on condition that the sum be forfeited to the state in the event that the conditions of the permit or regulations of the department are breached.

(5) A written permit to do any of the things mentioned in this section shall not be required for emergency maintenance or emergency repair work on existing facilities, but in such cases oral consent shall be secured from the Director-State Engineer or his or her authorized representative as soon as the exigencies of the situation allow.

"4. Insert the following new sections:

'Sec. 5. That section 25-1912, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

25-1912. The proceedings to obtain a reversal, vacation, or modification of judgments and decrees rendered or final orders made by the district court, including judgments and sentences upon convictions for felonies and misdemeanors under the criminal code, shall be by filing in the office of the clerk of the district court in which such judgment, decree, or final order was rendered, within one month after the rendition of such judgment or decree, or the making of such final order, or within one month from the overruling of a motion for a new trial in said cause, a notice of intention to prosecute such appeal signed by the appellant or appellants or his, her, or their attorney of record, and, except as otherwise provided in section 29-2306, by depositing with the clerk of the district court the docket fee required by law in appeals to the Supreme Court. A motion for a new trial shall not be necessary for consideration on appeal of errors occurring at trial. In addition thereto, the notice of appeal in a criminal case shall state the nature of the offense and the sentence imposed. If an order of the Supreme Court suspending the execution of the sentence pending review in that court is desired, request for such suspension shall be included in the notice of appeal. Except as otherwise provided in section 29-2306, an appeal shall be deemed perfected, and the Supreme Court shall have jurisdiction of the cause when such notice of appeal shall have been filed, and such docket fee deposited in the office of the clerk of the district court, and after being so perfected no appeal shall be dismissed without notice, and no step other than the filing of such notice of appeal and the depositing of such docket fee shall be deemed jurisdictional. The clerk of the district court shall forthwith forward such docket fee, and a certified copy of such notice of appeal, to the Clerk of the Supreme Court, whereupon the Clerk of the Supreme Court shall forthwith docket such appeal. Within one month from the date of filing of notice of appeal, the clerk of the district court shall prepare and file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court a transcript certified as a true copy of the proceedings contained therein. The transcript shall contain the judgment, decree or final order sought to be reversed, vacated, or modified, and all other filings made with such clerk, unless otherwise ordered by the appellant or appellants by the filing of a praecipe at the time of filing of notice of appeal, designating what portions of the record should be included in the transcript. Neither the form nor substance of such transcript shall affect the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. Nothing herein contained shall prevent any person from giving supersedeas bond in the district court in the time and manner provided in section 25-1916, nor affect the right of a defendant in a criminal case to be admitted to bail pending the review of such case in the Supreme Court.

Sec. 6. That section 29-824, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, be amended to read as follows:

29-824. In addition to any other right to appeal, the state shall have the right to appeal from an order granting a motion for the return of seized property and to suppress evidence in the manner herein provided. Where such motion has been granted in district court, the Attorney General, or the county attorney or prosecuting officer with the consent of the Attorney General, may file his or her application with the Clerk of the Supreme Court asking for a summary review of the order granting the motion. The review shall be made by a Judge of the Supreme Court at chambers upon such notice, briefs, and argument as the Judge of the Supreme Court may direct, after which such judge shall enter his or her order affirming, reversing, or modifying the order submitted for review, and upon any trial on the general issue thereafter the parties and the trial court shall be bound by such order; Provided, that upon conviction after trial the defendant may on appeal to the Supreme Court challenge the correctness of the order by the Judge of the Supreme Court. ~~by preserving the question in his motion for a new trial.~~

Sec. 7. That original sections 25-1912 and 29-824, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, are repealed.'.

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 112
May 27, 1981

Dear Senator Beutler:

This is in response to your letter of May 22, 1981, concerning the constitutionality of LB 472A, as presently amended, under Article III, section 14 of the Nebraska Constitution. The relevant portion of this section provides that: "No such vote upon the final passage of any bill shall be taken, however, until five legislative days after its introduction nor until it has been on file for final reading and passage for at least one legislative day."

LB 472A as originally introduced was "an act to appropriate funds to aid in carrying out the provisions of Legislative Bill 472. . . ." LB 472 in turn provided for the continued authority to purchase liability insurance for members of the State Board of Education, the Commissioner of Education, and employees of the State Department of Education, by amending Neb.Rev.Stat. §79-329.01 (Supp. 1980). On May 22, 1981, the eighty-sixth day of the current legislative session, LB 472A was amended, by striking the original section and inserting five new sections. In addition the title was stricken and changed as follows: "A]n act to amend sections 79-1233 and 79-1701, Reissue Revised Statutes of Nebraska, 1943, relating to schools; to provide an exemption from certain requirements; to provide duties; to provide for termination; and to repeal the original sections." The statutes to be amended deal with mandatory requirements for schools in Nebraska. The only similiarity remaining between LB 472A, as currently amended, and as originally drafted is the designation LB 472A.

The Nebraska Supreme Court in dealing with substantial amendments to legislative bills and the constitutional time requirements for their introduction has stated that, "Our court has held that a substitute bill which is germane to the original is not a new bill." State ex rel. Davis v. Cox, 105 Neb. 75, 81, 178 N.W. 913 (1920), and that, "When a bill has been introduced in the legislature within the time limited by the Constitution for the introduction of bills, amendments that are germane to the subject matter of such bill may be made after such time limit has expired." Pierson v. Faulkner, 134 Neb. 865, 872, 279 N.W. 813 (1938). See also, Chittenden v. Kibler, 100 Neb. 756, 161 N.W. 272 (1917). Likewise in State v. Ryan, 92 Neb. 636, 644, 645, 139 N.W. 235 (1912), the court noted that, "The legislature has full control over the passage of bills, and may amend the same and the title to the same at any time permitted by its rules during their progress through the legislature. If the amendment is germane to the subject of the original bill, and not an evident attempt to evade the constitution, the fact that the time limit for new bills has expired is immaterial." The obvious implication of these rulings is that where new legislation is substituted for an original bill by way of amendment, and that legislation bears no relationship to the original bill, it will be recognized for what it really is, and the constitutional time restrictions for the introduction of new legislation will be applied to it. This was in essence the reasoning of the court in Nebraskans for Independent Banking, Inc. v. The Omaha National Bank, 423 F.Supp. 519 (D.Neb. 1976), where "The Court holds only that the Amendment was not germane to the original bill and was not before the Legislature for five legislative days as required by the Nebraska Constitution."

LB 472A, as it is presently amended, can hardly be said to be germane to the orignal form of that bill. In the first place it is not an appropriations bill, and secondly deals with entirely different subject matter, based upon completely different statutory references. In reality, despite the label of LB 472A, what we have here is an entirely new legislative bill. In light of the above decisions and the obvious nature of LB 472A, as presently amended, it is our opinion that any attempt to pass this legislation, considering of course that there were only four legislative days remaining after the introduction of this "amendment", would be in violation of the five day requirement concerning the introduction of new legislation contained in Article III, section 14 of the Nebraska Constitution.

We do not, however, agree with the suggestion that LB 472A, as amended, violates the constitutional restriction which prohibits any bill from containing more than one subject, also found in Article III, section 14 of the Nebraska Constitution. While LB 472A, as amended, is entirely different than its original form, the amended version essentially deals with only one subject.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINIONS

Opinion No. 113
May 28, 1981

Dear Senator Beutler:

You have requested an opinion from this office in connection with possible constitutional problems inherent in LB 321. The same is hereinafter discussed.

LB 321 is also known and cited as the Nebraska Educational Facilities Authority Act. If it were to become operative law, LB 321 would create a body politic to be known as the Nebraska Educational Facilities Authority (hereinafter, "Authority"). The Authority, which would consist of five members to be appointed by the Governor for a specific term, would be constituted a public instrumentality and the exercise by the Authority of the powers conferred by this legislative bill would be deemed and held to be the performance of an essential public function of the state. Section 10 of LB 321.

The stated purpose of the authority is to assist private institutions of higher education in constructing, financing, and refinancing of "projects." Section 18 of LB 321. The word "project" is a word of art and would unduly extend the length of this opinion to quote it verbatim. In general, the word "project" can be cursorily defined as any property constructed or acquired before or after the effective date of LB 321 that may be used or will be used in connection with the operation of a private institution of higher education. Section 5 of LB 321. To assist it in carrying out its stated purpose, the Authority would be authorized to make loans and to issue bonds for the purpose of paying, refinancing, or reimbursing all or any part of the cost of a "project." Sections 24, 30, and 38 of LB 321. In connection therewith, section 44 of LB 321 specifically provides that bonds issued pursuant to this legislative bill shall not be deemed to constitute a debt of the state or any political subdivision thereof or a pledge of the faith and credit of the state or of any political subdivision. The Authority would also be authorized to acquire property, real or personal, and to take title thereto in the name of the Authority or in the name of a private institution of higher education as its agent.

It can hardly be doubted that the effect of LB 321 is to give private institutions of higher education substantial benefits through the offices of the Authority, a state agency. For example, section 38 of LB 321 provides "Neither the members of the authority nor any person executing the bonds shall be liable personally on the bonds or to be subject to any personal liability or accountability by reason of the issuance thereof." There are other benefits to private institutions of higher education. Section 51 of LB 321 provides that the State of Nebraska agrees with the holders of any obligations issued under this legislative bill that "the state will not limit or alter the rights hereby vested in the authority until such obligations, together with the interest thereon, are fully met and discharged."

In State ex rel. Beck v. City of York, 164 Neb. 223, 82 N.W. 2d 269 (1957), the court stated:

> The loan of its name by a city to bring about a benefit to a private project, even though general liability does not exist, is nothing short of a loan of its credit. The use of the city as the payer of the bonds is intended to give respectability to them because of the general acceptability of cities as a source of bond issues in financial markets. It is a loan of the credit of the city within the meaning of the constitutional prohibition.

It would seem, by analogy, that the loan of the name of a state agency, the Authority, to issue and pay bonds pursuant to LB 321 is likewise a loan of the credit of the State of Nebraska and therefore is prohibited by section 3 of Article XIII, Constitution of Nebraska.

Many of the private institutions of higher education that would be brought under the umbrella of LB 321 are, of course, affiliated with a religious order. Thus there is a serious question as to whether LB 321 is in violation of the establishment clause, or perhaps even the free exercise clause of the First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States. Time simply will not permit an extended discussion, but certainly there is a serious question of excessive entanglement between the Authority and sectarian institutions. The concern over "excessive entanglement" has been that close association between the religious order and the state would lead to an impermissible emphasis upon religious doctrines and materials. See, for example, Lemon v. Kurtzman, 403 U.S. 602 (1971). Thus in issuing bonds or making loans or acquiring property for private institutions of higher education a court could find that it results in "excessive entanglement" which is detrimental to both the state and the religious order.

The above are just some of the constitutional problems inherent in LB 321. There are undoubtedly others, depending upon specific facts in a specific case.

Very truly yours,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

Opinion No. 114
May 28, 1981

Dear Senator Hoagland:

This is in response to your letter of May 22, 1981, requesting an opinion as to the constitutionality of the final reading copy of LB 213. In an earlier opinion from this office dated May 11, 1981, it was noted that several provisions of an earlier version of LB 213 were "constitutionally suspect." The present version of LB 213 has been substantially revised and potential defects noted in our previous opinion have essentially been corrected. It thus appears that the constitutionality of LB 213 in its present form can be successfully defended.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) Paul L. Douglas
Attorney General

MOTION - Bracket LB 321

Mr. Beutler moved to bracket LB 321 to a time uncertain.

Mr. Clark moved the previous question. The question is, "Shall the debate now close?" The motion prevailed with 29 ayes, 5 nays, and 15 not voting.

The Beutler motion to bracket lost with 20 ayes, 27 nays, and 2 present and not voting.

MOTION - Return LB 321 to Select File

Mr. Warner moved to return LB 321 to Select File for the following specific amendment:

1. Add the following new sections:

"Sec. 57. The Legislature finds and declares that the high rates of interest charged by lenders seriously restrict the availability of credit and have resulted in decreased business activity and production causing substantial unemployment and personal hardship.

There exists in this state an inadequate supply of, and pressing need for, credit and loan financing at interest rates which are consistent with the needs of the people of Nebraska and their enterprises.

A governmental body should be created for the purpose of making loans available at interest rates lower than those available in the conventional credit markets. Creation of such a governmental body for the purpose of making loans at interest rates lower than those available in conventional credit markets is essential to alleviating the conditions described in this section and is in the public interest.

Alleviating the conditions and problems set forth in this section, by the encouragement of private investment, through a governmental body, is a public purpose and use for which public money provided by the sale of revenue bonds may be borrowed, expended, advanced, loaned, and granted. Such activities are proper governmental functions and can best be accomplished by the creation of a governmental body vested with the powers and duties specified in sections 57 to 79 of this act. The necessity for the provisions of sections 57 to 79 of this act to protect the health, safety, and general welfare of all the people of this state is hereby declared as a matter of legislative determination. The governmental body created by sections 57 to 79 of this act shall make financing available, through lenders, for persons who are unable to obtain sufficient credit to finance their business or personal needs at reasonable rates and terms taking into consideration prevailing rates and terms for similar loans make through conventional credit markets in or near the person's community.

Sec. 58. As used in sections 57 to 79 of this act, unless the context otherwise requires, the definitions found in sections 59 to 63 of this act shall be used.

Sec. 59. Fund shall mean the Equitable Financing Fund created by Section 64 of this act.

Sec. 60. Bonds shall mean any bonds, notes, debentures, and interim certificates, as well as bond, grant, and revenue anticipation notes or other evidences of indebtedness.

Sec. 61. Loan agreement shall mean an agreement providing for a lender with which the fund has contracted to lend the proceeds derived from the issuance of bonds pursuant to sections 57 to 79 of this act for use in business or personal enterprises. The loan agreement shall provide for the repayment of such loan by the borrower within ten years and may provide for such loan to be secured or evidenced by one or more notes, debentures, bonds, or other secured or unsecured debt obligations of such borrower, delivered to the fund or to the trustee under the indenture pursuant to which the bonds were issued. The loan agreement shall also provide that it is not subject to assumption by any person who does not qualify for the issuance of a loan under sections 57 to 79 of this act. Nothing in this section shall prohibit a person from applying for a subsequent loan.

Sec. 62. Lender shall mean any federal or state chartered bank, federal land bank, production credit association, bank for cooperatives, savings and loan association, building and loan association, small business investment company, or any other institution qualified within the state to originate and service loans, including but not limited to, insurance companies, credit unions, and morgage loan companies.

Sec. 63. State shall mean the State of Nebraska.

Sec. 64. (1) There is hereby created, with such duties and powers as are set forth in sections 57 to 79 of this act, a body politic and corporate, not a state agency, but an independent instrumentality exercising essential public functions, to be known as the Equitable Financing Fund.

(2) The fund shall be composed of nine members as follows:

(a) Three ex officio members who shall be:

(i) The Director of Economic Development;

(ii) The chairperson of the Nebraska Investment Council; and

(iii) The Director of Policy Research; and

(b) Six public members who shall be appointed by the Governor.

(3) All members shall be residents of the state. The public members shall, to the extent possible, represent different areas of the state. Of the six public members, not more than three shall belong to the same political party. The three ex officio members may each designate a representative to perform the respective duties under sections 57 to 79 of this act. It shall not constitute a conflict of interest for members of the fund to serve on any other public board or commission.

Sec. 65. The powers of the fund shall be vested in the members thereof. Five members of the fund shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The affirmative vote of at least four members shall be necessary for any action to be taken by the fund. No vacancy in the membership of the corporation shall impair the right of a quorum to exercise all rights and perform all duties of the fund.

Sec. 66. The fund is hereby granted all powers necessary or appropriate to carry out and effectuate its public and corporate purposes.

Sec. 67. The fund shall have the duty to do any act necessary or convenient to the exercise of the powers granted by sections 57 to 79 of this act or reasonably implied from it.

Sec. 68. The fund may make, and undertake commitments to make, loans to lenders under the terms and conditions requiring the proceeds thereof to be used by such lenders to make loans for business and personal enterprises. Loan commitments or actual loans shall be originated through and serviced by any bank, trust company, savings and loan association, mortgage banker, or other financial institutions authorized to transact business in this state.

Sec. 69. Prior to exercising any of the powers authorized in section 68 of this act, the fund shall require:

(1) That the lender certify and agree that the loan is or will at the time of making be in all respects a prudent investment;

(2) That the lender certify and agree that it will use the proceeds of such loan, investment, sale, or assignment within a reasonable period of time to make loans or purchase loans to provide business or personal enterprises.

(3) That the aggregate amount of the loan received by a borrower shall not exceed five hundred thousand dollars. In computing such amount a loan received by an individual shall be aggregated with those loans received by his or her spouse and children and a loan received by a firm, partnership, or corporation shall be aggregated with those loans received by each owner, partner, or stockholder thereof; and

(4) That, prior to applying for a loan pursuant to sections 57 to 79 of this act, the borrower must apply to two lenders in or near his or her local community for a loan in an amount comparable to that applied for under this act and must obtain a written declination of credit from such lenders.

(5) That the lender certify and agree that the rate of interest it will charge to the borrower will be no more than one per cent more than the rate charged to it for the amount of such loan.

Sec. 70. Prior to carrying out any of the powers granted under sections 57 to 79 of this act, the fund shall adopt and promulgate rules and regulations governing its activities authorized under sections 57 to 79 of this act.

Sec. 71. The fund shall have the power to borrow money and to issue from time to time its bonds in such principal amounts as the fund determines shall be necessary to provide sufficient funds to carry out its purposes to include:

(1) Carrying out the additional powers of sections 57 to 79 of this act;

(2) The payment of interest on bonds of the fund;

(3) The establishment of reserves to secure the bonds; and

(4) All other expenditures of the fund incident to, necessary, and convenient to carry out its purposes and powers.

Sec. 72. The fund shall have the power from time to time to issue bonds to renew or to pay bonds, including the interest thereon and, whenever it deems refunding expedient, to refund any bonds by the issuance of new bonds, whether the bonds to be refunded have or have not matured, and to issue bonds partly to refund outstanding bonds and partly for any other of its corporate purposes. The refunding bonds may be sold and the proceeds applied to the purchase, redemption, or payment of the bonds to be refunded or exchanged for the bonds to be refunded.

Sec. 73. Except as may otherwise be expressly provided by the fund, every issue of its bonds shall be general obligations of the fund payable solely out of any revenue or money of the fund, subject only to any agreements with the holders of particular bonds pledging any particular money or revenue. The bonds may be additionally secured by insurance from any source, the underlying land, or by a pledge of any grant, contribution, or guarantee from the federal government or any corporation, association, institution, or person or a pledge of any money, income, or revenue of the fund from any source.

Sec. 74. No bonds issued by the fund under sections 57 to 79 of this act shall constitute a debt, liability, or general obligation of this state, or a pledge of the faith and credit of this state, but shall be payable solely as provided by section 73 of this act. Each bond issued under sections 57 to 79 of this act shall contain on the face thereof a statement that neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of this state or any political subdivision thereof is pledge to the payment of the principal of or the interest on such bond.

Sec. 75. The bonds shall be authorized by a resolution of the fund, shall bear such date or dates, and shall mature at such time or times as such resolution may provide, except that no bond shall mature more than thirty years from the date of its issue, as the resolution shall provide. The bonds shall bear interest at such rate or rates, including variations of such rates, be in such denominations, be in such form, either coupon or registered, carry such registration privileges, be executed in such manner by facsimile or manual signature, except that a facsimile signature of all officers of the fund is sufficient only if permitted by the resolution authorizing the issuance of bonds and if the trustees with respect to such bonds is required to manually authenticate each bond, be payable in such medium of payment, at such place or places, and be subject to such terms of redemption, including redemption prior to maturity, as such resolution may provide. The provisions of other state laws relating to the issuance of revenue bonds shall not apply to bonds issued by the fund. Bonds of the fund may be sold by the fund at public or private sale and at such price or prices as the fund shall determine. The fund may bring an action for declaratory judgment to determine the validity of any issuance or proposed issuance of its bonds under sections 57 to 79 of this act and the legality and validity of all proceedings previously taken or proposed in a resolution of the fund to be taken for the authorization, issuance, sale and delivery of such bonds and for the payment of the principal thereof and interest thereon.

Sec. 76. Whether or not the bonds are in the form and character of negotiable instruments, such bonds are hereby made negotiable instruments, subject only to provisions of the bonds relating to registration.

Sec. 77. All money of the fund, except as otherwise authorized or provided in sections 57 to 79 of this act, shall be deposited as soon as practical in a separate account or accounts in banks or trust companies organized under the laws of this state or in national banking associations domiciled in the state. The money in such accounts shall be paid by checks signed by such officers or employees of the fund as the fund shall authorize. All deposits of money shall, if required by the fund, be secured in such a manner as the fund determines to be prudent, and all banks or trust companies are authorized to give security for the deposits.

Sec. 78. The state hereby pledges to and agrees with the holder of any bonds issued under sections 57 to 79 of this act that the state will not limit or alter the rights vested in the fund to fulfill the terms of any agreements made with the holders thereof or in any way impair the rights or remedies of the holders until the bonds, together with the interest thereon, with interest on any unpaid installments of interest, and all costs and expenses in connection with any action or proceeding by or on behalf of the holders, are fully met and discharged. The fund is authorized to include this pledge and agreement of the state in any agreement with the holders of the bonds.

Sec. 79. All expenses incurred by the fund in carrying out the provisions of sections 57 to 79 of this act shall be payable solely from funds provided under sections 57 to 79 of this act, and nothing in sections 57 to 79 of this act shall be construed to authorize the fund to incur indebtedness of liability on behalf of or payable by this state or any political subdivision of it.

Sec. 80. Sections 57 to 79 of this act shall be known and may be cited as the Equitable Financing Fund Act.

2. In the title, line 2 after "act" insert "and Equitable Financing Fund Act"; in line 3 after "authority" insert "and fund".

3. Renumber sections 57, 58 and 59 as sections 81, 82 and 83, respectively.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

May 28, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker,
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning LB 389A without my signature and with my objections.

LB 389A appropriates $15,416 in fiscal year 1981-82 to the Department of Public Welfare to adminsiter LB 389. LB 389 is not scheduled for implementation until July 1, 1982. There are sufficient funds already available to the Department of Public Welfare to perform necessary planning and administrative duties prior to implementation of the bill. I urge you to sustain my veto.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

May 28, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker,
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I hereby return LB 318 without my signature and with my objections. The primary purpose of this bill is to change the payment schedule for aid to education payments. The existing schedule of payments was instituted after the Special Session of 1975 in an attempt to match State receipts and expenditures for cash flow purposes. LB 318 substantially modifies this purpose by advancing the schedule one month, from October to September, and by paying out 25% of the entire appropriation at one time.

These changes could have a serious impact on future State cash flow needs upon which our tax-rate deliberations are in part based. Also, the fiscal note attached to LB 318 indicates that the change in payment schedule will cause the loss of $750,000 in interest income to the General Fund.

I have already communicated to you my deep concern over our current fiscal position. LB 318 further erodes that position in terms of both cash flow and revenue loss. I see no immediate problem of further spreading such payments over the course of the full fiscal year. LB 318 goes substantially beyond that concept.

I urge you to sustain my veto.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

May 29, 1981

Mr. President, Mr. Speaker,
and Members of the Legislature
State Capitol Building
Lincoln, Nebraska

Dear Mr. President and Senators:

I am returning LB 129A with my line item reductions and with my signature.

LB 129A appropriates $1,319,000 to the Department of Public Institutions and $81,000 to the Department of Motor Vehicles to provide certain alcoholism treatment, prevention, information and training services. The funds provided will continue projects currently provided by federal monies, which are expected to decline, as well as initiate new activities.

As I have stated repeatedly, due to the expected decline in federal funds and the need to preserve flexibility in budgetary options, I am adamantly opposed to the creation of new programs at this time. Six hundred thousand dollars has been stricken from the appropriation to the Department of Public Institutions. The reduced amount of $719,000 will permit the continuation of present treatment and rehabilitation programs.

I urge you to sustain my line item reduction of LB 129A.

Sincerely,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 115

Dear Senators Nichol, Clark, and Marvel:

You have requested our opinion on the constitutionality of a vote taken in the Legislature on LB 376 on May 28, 1981. This is a bill which authorizes multibank holding companies. It was on final reading and received the affirmative votes for passage of 24 members of the Legislature and the negative votes of 24 members of the Legislature with one abstention. At the point the Lieutenant Governor, acting as presiding officer of the Legisalture, cast his vote in favor of passage of the bill.

Two constitutional provisions bear upon this question. The first, Article III, section 10, provides in part, "The Lieutenant Governor shall preside, but shall vote only when the Legislature is equally divided." Article III, section 13, provides in part, "No bill shall be passed by the Legislature unless by the assent of a majority of all members elected and the yeas and nays on the question of final passage of any bill shall be entered upon the journal." These sections of the Constitution appear to be in conflict. Article III, section 13, provides that in order to enact a bill you must have a majority of those members elected to the Legislature; while Article III, section 10, authorizes the Lieutenant Governor to vote where the Legislature is equally divided.

Five states have considered similar questions. These states are Montana, State ex rel. Easbey v. Highway Patrol Board, 372 P.2d 930 (Mont. 1962); Delaware, Opinion of the Justices, 225 A.2d 481 (Del. 1966); Michigan, Advisory Opinion on the Constitutionality of 1978 PA 426, 403 Mich. 631, 272 N.W.2d 495 (1978), and Kelley v. Secretary of State, 112 N.W. 978 (Mich. 1907); Kansas, Coleman v. Miller, 71 P.2d 518 (Kan. 1937); and North Dakota, State ex rel. Sanstead v. Freed, 251 N.W.2d 898 (N.D. 1977). Of these five states, two (Kansas and North Dakota) have held the Lieutenant Governor may not vote on the final passage of a bill. Two others (Delaware and Montana) have held that the Lieutenant Governor may vote on the final passage of such bills. The remaining state (Michigan) has cases holding both ways. The earlier case held that the Lieutenant Governor could not vote on the final passage of bills and resolutions. The later case, subsequent to a constitutional amendment, held that the Lieutenant Governor may vote on the final passage of bills.

We have analyzed these cases in terms of the similarity of provisions of their Constitutions and the Nebraska Constitution. While there are some differences, we believe that the differences are not significant in the opinion we herein express.

The principles of constitutional construction to be applied to these questions are not seriously in dispute. The Constitution should be construed where conflicts exist so as to give effect to each provision of the Constitution. The constitutional provision should be interpreted in light of the intention and meaning of the persons adopting those provisions. Where constitutional provisions are in conflict the later in time prevail over the earlier and finally the more specific constitutional provision where a conflict exists will prevail over the more general.

Both provisions were essentially in the same form in the Constitution of 1875. Although one has been moved from Article IV to Article III, they are substantially the same as they were at adoption. While the cases have gone both ways, we believe it is difficult to say that one provision is the more specific and the other the more general.

We have found no legislative or constitutional history significant to the present question.

In addition to these considerations we have taken particular note of those portions of the North Dakota opinion in State ex rel. Sanstead, supra. The Court analyzed their history of votes where the house was equally divided. The Court concluded that the history of North Dakota was that the Lieutenant Governor had not voted in such situations. Due to the time constraints under which we have researched this issue, we were unable to make a thorough search of past votes; but, our research to date indicates that this question has not arisen in the Legislature for at least the last thirty years. We are aware of no instance in which the Lieutenant Governor, either since Nebraska has been under the Unicameral system or when it was under a two house system, has cast the deciding vote on the final passage of a bill. We also note that this is likely to be a unique circumstance in the State of Nebraska. In the future any time a similar situation would arise the only thing necessary to preclude a vote by the Lieutenant Governor would be for one of the persons opposed to passage of the bill to change his vote from nay to not voting, thus striking the tie vote. If this vote were proper this would be likely to be the only situation in which such a vote could occur in this state.

In construing these provisions together to give effect to each, we believe the proper interpretation is that the Lieutenant Governor may vote under Article III, section 10, on all matters not required by the Constitution to receive a specific number of votes of the members elected. This would include such things as amendments, procedural matters, and other ordinary business of the Legislature. However, the Lieutenant Governor would be precluded from voting on final passage of any bill by the provisions of Article III, section 13, which require a majority of the members elected to the Legislature.

This conclusion gives effect to both section 10 and section 13. It preserves the Lieutenant Governor's power under section 10 and makes effective the limitation adopted under section 13, requiring a majority of elected members to pass a bill.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
Attorney General

COMMUNICATION

May 29, 1981

Patrick J. O'Donnell
Clerk of the Legislature
Capitol Building Room 2018
Lincoln, Nebraska

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

I have on my desk LB 376. On the advice of the Attorney General, with which I most certainly agree, it appears that LB 376 has not been passed by the Legislature.

Art. III, Sec. 10, states that the Lieutenant Governor shall vote only when the Legislature is equally divided; but Art. III, Sec. 13 specifically states that, "No bill shall be passed by the Legislature unless by the assent of a majority of all members elected..."

I am advised by the Attorney General that in order to give effect to both sections of the Constitution, they must be read to mean that the Lieutenant Governor may vote on procedural questions and preliminary matters, but may not vote on the final passage of a bill, and that any attempt by the Lieutenant Governor to vote on final passage is null and void.

The Legislature's Journal clearly indicates that LB 376 received only 24 votes from elected members of the Legislature. Twenty-five votes are needed for a Constitutional majority. Therefore, this bill did not meet the Constitutional requirement and was not passed by the Legislature.

This return of LB 376 to the Clerk of the Legislature is a clerical function and is not, and should not be construed as, an exercise of the Governor's authority under Article IV, Sec. 15 of the Constitution of the State of Nebraska. In other words, I am not by this action exercising my Constitutional authority to veto this purported piece of legislation which was never legally passed by the Legislature.

Respectfully,
(Signed) CHARLES THONE
Governor

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OPINION

Opinion No. 116
May 28, 1981

Dear Senator Warner:

In your letter of May 26, 1981, you requested our opinion regarding the interpretation of certain language in LB 412 as amended by the committee amendments. We have reviewed that legislation, and our opinions regarding your various questions are set forth below.

LB 412 would amend various sections of the Nebraska Revised Statutes which deal with the special tax treatment of agricultural lands. Those sections, Neb.Rev.Stat. §§77-1343 to 77-1348 (Reissue 1976), basically provide that qualifying real estate used for agricultural purposes shall be assessed at its actual value for agricultural use and not at the actual value it would have if applied to other than agricultural use. To qualify for this special assessment, agricultural land must be used exclusively for an agricultural use and must be located within an agricultural use zone. The portions of LB 412 pertinent to our present discussion amend the definition of agricultural use zone to include any land designated "predominantly" for agricultural use by cities or counties under their zoning powers. They further provide that an agricultural use zone shall not include residential and nonagricultural commercial development with an overall density of more than one unit per ten acres and that the special assessment provisions available to qualifying agricultural land shall not be available to portions of an agricultural use zone which have been subdivided for residential or commercial use.

In your letter of May 26th, you first ask: "On page 2, line 14, [of LB 412] 'agricultural use zone' is defined as any land 'designated predominately [sic] for agricultural use.' What does the term 'predominately' [sic] mean, . . ."

LB 412 does not contain a definition of "predominantly" within its definitional sections. Since the bill itself does not define the term, under the decisions of our Supreme Court, the word must be given its plain and ordinary meaning in the process of statutory construction. State v. One 1970 2-Door Sedan Rambler (Gremlin), 191 Neb. 462, 215 N.W.2d 849 (1974), and Bachus v. Swanson, 179 Neb. 1, 136 N.W.2d 189 (1965). Webster's New World Dictionary 1121 (2nd Ed. 1976) gives two definitions for the word predominant: "1. having ascendancy, authority, or dominating influence over others; superior, 2. most frequent, noticeable, etc.; prevailing; preponderant." The word predominantly is listed as an adverb form of the word predominant. Given this basic definition, we assume that the word predominantly in LB 412, under its ordinary and plain meaning, can be construed to mean most frequently, prevailing, or preponderantly.

You next ask "how is the county assessor to determine which land is designated 'predominately [sic] for agricultural use?'" In response to this question, we note that in order for agricultural lands to receive special tax treatment under LB 412, they must be in an area designated as predominantly for agricultural use by a city or county under its zoning authority. In other words such lands must be in an agricultural use zone. Therefore, a county assessor can determine which land is designated predominantly for agricultural use be determining if that land has been included in an agricultural use zone by a city or by a county. Once the county assessor ascertains that the land lies within such a properly constituted zone, it is not necessary under the terms of LB 412 for him or her to independently determine that the land is predominantly for agricultural use.

Your next question is "if this bill were passed, would it then be possible for land to receive the greenbelt special assessment even though the zoning would allow commercial or industrial use on that land?" Our answer to this question is yes, but only in instances where the land permitted an industrial or commercial use is being farmed or used exclusively for an agricultural use. Under LB 412, property must pass a two part test in order to qualify for the special tax treatment afforded agricultural lands. First of all, the land must be used exclusively for an agricultural use as defined in the bill. Second, the land must be within an agricultural use zone as defined in the bill. Since LB 412 defines agricultural use zone as any land designated "predominantly" for agricultural use, it is conceivably possible that a small area of land within an agricultural use zone could be permitted industrial or commercial development. However, in order to qualify for special tax treatment, that land would have to pass the second part of the test prescribed in LB 412, i.e., the land would have to be used exclusively for an agricultural use. If the land permitted an industrial or commercial use within the agricultural use zone was in fact used for industrial or commercial purposes, it would thus lose the special tax treatment set forth in LB 412. We also note that LB 412 further restricts commercial development in an agricultural use zone by providing that nonagricultural commercial development with an overall density of more than one unit per ten acres cannot be allowed in an agricultural use zone and by providing that special tax treatment is unavailable to those portions of an agricultural use zone subdivided for commercial purposes.

Your final question concerns whether the insertion of certain language into LB 412 would prevent land from receiving the special tax treatment when it was located in an agricultural use zone and when its particular zoning allowed commercial or industrial use. Under LB 412 with your proposed insertion, section 77-1344 of the Nebraska Revised Statutes would read as follows:

> (1) Any land which is used exclusively for agricultural use, and which is located within an agricultural use zone, shall be assessed at its actual value for agricultural use and not at the actual value it would have if applied to other than agricultural use if application for such special assessment is made pursuant to sections 77-1343 to 77-1348; Provided, that the special assessment provisions shall not be applicable to that portion of lands zoned for agricultural use or zoned to allow commercial or industrial use if such lands have been subdivided for residential or commercial use.

In our opinion, in instances where land lies within the agricultural use zone and is actively farmed, the language above would prevent lands zoned for commercial or industrial use from receiving the special tax treatment outlined in LB 412 only in instances where those lands were subdivided for residential or commercial uses. Lands permitted a commercial or industrial use within an agricultural use zone would still be eligible for the special tax treatment if they had not been subdivided for residential or commercial use and if they were being used exclusively for farming.

Sincerely,
PAUL L. DOUGLAS
